

REFLECTIONS ON DISPLACEMENT AND ITS CONSEQUENCES AFTER HURRICANE KATRINA

Arnold R. Isaacs

Note: This report is based on the proceedings at ACIA's conference on "Critical Incidents Analysis: Displacement as an Obstacle to Recovery," held in New Orleans, Louisiana, June 9-11, 2010. Quotations from the conference transcript have in some instances been slightly edited for greater clarity and to eliminate repetition or extraneous material.

Refugees

We were no longer citizens of the United States. We were refugees. We were herded like cattle, we had to go through checkpoints, we had to be frisked. We had to stand outside of porta-potties to guard the doors for each other. It didn't matter that we were people who worked in the hospital. We were combined with the people from the housing projects. We were all put together. So Katrina really was the great equalizer. It didn't matter that I came from an affluent African American community here in New Orleans; it didn't matter that I worked at the hospital. We were given a ration of food, we were all equal.

– Denise Johnson

We don't see Katrina as the storm. We see the government as the storm. We see FEMA as the storm....Basically I feel that I was not displaced by the storm. I was displaced by the government. I've been carrying the stresses of all the unresolved issues. I feel that the government has left too much unresolved that we, the displaced people are carrying. But we can't resolve it without what I call the therapy of justice. Because we haven't been treated justly and our situation has not been treated with caring.

– Harold Toussaint

About PTSD, they say that is very common among Katrina survivors, that we suffer from post-traumatic stress disorder. But it's not post. The trauma isn't over so it's not post-traumatic stress disorder.

– Parnell Herbert

When we hear the word "refugees," Americans usually think of populations and landscapes far from the United States. We envisage blue-plastic tent cities housing Africans who have fled war or famine or Haitians displaced by an earthquake, or swirls of smoke and dust over
