

A. FAMILY

Family for me is the most significant social institution that shapes an individual's social identity. Before a child becomes a citizen of the country, he/she will first become a member of a small community called family, where everything will start, where his/her first lessons will be taught, and his/her first roles will be portrayed. Majority of a person's identity is mold by this small community. That is why I believe that the actions and social behaviors of a person in the society reflect on the family he/she came from. How people act in a larger environment is always greatly affected by how they are being treated in a small environment. A micro action creates a macro effect. If the family teaches its members how to be responsible, then the society will be lived by a responsible one. Family influences its member's values and social identity that is why family should always be there all throughout the journey of every individual. However, it will always come to a time when each member, specifically the children, will leave the house, where this family lived and shared happy and sad moments, to look for opportunities, live by their own, and build their own family. But, are leaving house and living by their own also means forgetting the family and not minding anymore the values they taught?

After reading the article about Mrs. Maniago's Family, I realized that being a family will not stop from being a family once its members leave the house and chose to live on their own. In the case of Mrs. Maniago, she was able to make her family intact even though his husband passed away and her children reside and work far from her. Because no distance can break the relationship of a solid and a strong family. When the children of Mrs. Maniago left the house, was also the moment they brought with them the values of and the responsibility for their family. A family cannot only be defined as a group living in the same house or a group sharing the same surname rather a group of people sharing the same memories and sharing the

We Are the Wards! Jaki Hall, Ronald D. Henderson, 2019-10-25 The authors commemorate their ancestors descendants and heritage with honor as a memorial stone for their children and their children's children so they will know from whence they have come in this family history That history includes Madison and Ella Ward both born in the mid 1800s married in 1876 and who raised eight children on one acre with one mule They stood on their

Christian faith and believed in God Through their love and strength of family they survived the degradation of post slavery America to prosper and become six generations later among the most respected landowners in Alabama We Are the Wards preserves the Ward family legacy inspires future generations and encourages other families to follow their vision The strength of the Wards as for most black families since slavery has been critical to surviving an inhumane system whose legacy has lived on via the Black Codes Jim Crowism and institutional racism While each generation will be bombarded with new challenges new value systems and new lifestyles families can find success by refusing to compromise their Christian values just like the Wards

Men, Women and Property in England, 1780-1870 R. J. Morris, 2005-02-03 This is an innovative study of middle class behaviour and property relations in English towns in Georgian and Victorian Britain Through the lens of wills family papers property deeds account books and letters the author offers a reading of the ways in which middle class families survived and surmounted the economic difficulties of early industrial society He argues that these were essentially networked families created and affirmed by a gift network of material goods finance services and support with property very much at the centre of middle class survival strategies His approach combines microhistorical studies of individual families with a broader analysis of the national and even international networks within which these families operated The result is a significant contribution to the history and to debates about the place of structural and cultural analysis in historical understanding

McLean George Ernest Clark, 1887 Bodies as Sites of Cultural Reflection in Early Childhood Education Rachael S. Burke, Judith Duncan, 2014-10-30 Taking the body as a locus for discussion Rachael S Burke and Judith Duncan argue not only that implicit cultural practices shape most of the interactions taking place in early childhood curricula and pedagogy but that many of these practices often go unnoticed or unrecognized as being pedagogy Current scholars inspired by Foucault acknowledge that the body is socially and culturally produced and historically situated it is simultaneously a part of nature and society as well as a representation of the way that nature and society can be conceived Every natural symbol originating from the body contains and conveys a social meaning and every culture selects its own meaning from the myriad of potential body symbolisms Bodies as Sites of Cultural Reflection in Early Childhood Education uses empirical examples from qualitative fieldwork conducted in New Zealand and Japan to explore these theories and discuss the ways in which children s bodies represent a central focus in teachers pedagogical discussions and create contexts for the embodiment of children s experiences in the early years Mr. Scarborough's Family Anthony Trollope,1883 Critical Reflections on Women, Family, Crime and Justice Masson, Isla,Baldwin, Lucy,Natalie Booth,2021-05-18 Drawing on research from the Women Family Crime and Justice research network this collection sheds new light on the experiences of women and families who encounter the UK criminal justice system Contributions demonstrate how these groups are often ignored oppressed and victimised and offer insights and practical recommendations for change
