Reflections from the Rappahannock Record John Howard Farmer, 1995-01-01 Chesapeake Reflections J H Hall, 2011-09-15 One man celebrates and laments his family's connection to a disappearing paradise of natural wildlife and beauty on the shores of Chesapeake Bay Between the Indian and Dividing Creeks near the mouth of the Rappahannock River in Virginia's Chesapeake Bay sits a parcel of land called Bluff Point Like most bay front villages the bountiful resources and majestic landscape of this area that once sustained watermen and sportsmen alike have been depleted as over harvesting poaching pollution and continued development have taken their toll threatening the very legacy of its people J H Hall's family first settled on this land shortly after the Civil War where they maintained a tradition of farming fishing and crabbing throughout the twentieth century Hall's words flow as splendidly as the tides in this collection of personal reminiscences and local and natural history honoring the lives of the watermen before him and the uncertainty surrounding those today

Vietnam delves into the myriad reasons for US involvement examining theories that date back to 1918 when Woodrow Wilson ignored Ho Chi Minh's plea for independence at the Treaty of Versailles through to Johnson's full commitment to the undeclared war which restrained the military to a defensive role in protecting South Vietnam instead of an offensive one that would send troops across the DMZ into Laos and Cambodia. The questions of why the USA became involved whether their involvement was justified and if the war was ever winnable have been fiercely debated for over 50 years. This book seeks to address these whys by providing a thorough examination of all contributing factors from presidential actions to foreign policy and the social and political climates of the war era. The Rebellion Record Frank Moore, 1864 Reflections, 1976
