Reforming Education The Emerging Systemic Approach:

Reforming Education Stephen L. Jacobson, Robert Berne, 1993-11-08 In this volume leading educators and researchers examine current and future educational reforms and assess the restructuring that has occurred over the past decade in the US and other developed countries Beginning with American school reform initiatives in the 80 s and 90 s contributors go on to examine initiatives in Britain Canada and Germany The final section of the book considers the future of school reform in light of the changing realities of the 90 s concluding with a look at rapidly changing national economies the increasing politicization of education policy and the likely consequences of these changes on schools and educators Resource Allocation and Productivity in Education William L. Boyd, William T. Hartman, 1998-05-26 Resource allocation decisions made by school boards principals and teachers are critical for they determine the adequacy and equity of resources actually made available for specific schools educational programs and individual students The most important resources are often concealed by aggregate state or district measures such as dollars per student For these decisions the most important resources are elements such as basic and supplemental staffing levels staff time funding amounts for textbooks and supplies selection of new equipment particularly technology and support for new or renovated facilities The authors review current practices at each important decision making level in school districts from the school board to the classroom At each juncture the findings are interpreted to reveal both the causes of the practices and their implications for improving school effectiveness This book provides new research in helping to inform and improve resource allocation practices in schools The general conclusion is that improvement in the resource allocation practices in education requires a shift in focus to results instead of inputs a strong emphasis on student learning as the primary focus of decisions and systematic evaluation of results
