Segregation Poverty And Mortality In Urban African Americans:

Segregation, Poverty, and Mortality in Urban African Americans Anthony P. Polednak, 1997 The potential impact of segregation on the health of African Americans is an intriguing and controversial issue that relates to the fields of epidemiology and the social sciences Epidemiologists have recently turned to the study of racism and health but epidemiologic studies have not dealt specifically with white black segregation and health This book brings together the results of several studies examining mortality rates for African Americans in selected U S urban areas in relation to both social class and the degree of black white residential segregation Despite allowances for economic disparity amongst the residents of the metropolitan areas studied mortality rates for African American infants and young adults traditional indicators of the level of social progress are shown to be especially high in certain highly segregated areas Beside the book's primary audience epidemiologists and public health practitioners this volume should appeal to sociologists especially medical sociologists who are likely to be familiar with segregation but not with its potential relevance to the health of African Americans as well as psychologists interested in racial discrimination Social workers urban studies experts and social and health policy makers will find much relevant material in this book as well Regional Cultures and Mortality in America Stephen J. Kunitz, 2015 Examines how state government policies and their historic beginnings have present day effects on their residents political lives and on population health especially for marginalized groups Brookings-Wharton Papers on Urban Affairs: 2000 William G. Gale, Janet Rothenberg Pack, 2010-12-01 Designed to reach a wide audience of scholars and policymakers the Brookings Wharton Papers on Urban Affairs 2000 is an annual series that serves as a forum for cutting edge accessible research on urban policy The editors seek to integrate broader research into the urban policy discussion by bringing urban studies scholars together with economists and researchers studying subjects with important urban implications The six papers in this inaugural volume are divided into two sections The first three assess the state of urban research and policy The others address important aspects of the urban economy education racial segregation and federal housing policies Embodying Inequality Nancy Krieger, 2016-12-05 To advance the epidemiological analysis of social inequalities in health and of the ways in which population distributions of disease disability and death reflect embodied expressions of social inequality this volume draws on articles published in the International Journal of Health Services between 1990 and 2000 Framed by ecosocial theory it employs ecosocial constructs of embodiment pathways of embodiment cumulative interplay of exposure susceptibility and resistance across the lifecourse and accountability and agency to address the question and who and what drives current and changing patterns of social inequalities in health Handbook of African American Health Jessica M. Ramos, 2011-03-18 With a focus on how to improve the effectiveness and cultural competence of clinical services and research this authoritative volume synthesizes current knowledge on both the physical and psychological health of African Americans today In chapters that follow a consistent format for easy reference leading scholars from a broad range of disciplines review risk and protective factors for specific health conditions and identify what works what doesn't work and what might work i.e. practices requiring further research in clinical practice with African Americans Historical sociocultural and economic factors that affect the quality and utilization of health care services in African American communities are examined in depth Evidence based ways to draw on individual family and community strengths in prevention and treatment are highlighted throughout Winner American Journal of Nursing Book of the Year Award

Encyclopedia of Anthropology H. James Birx, 2006 Focuses on physical social and applied anthropology archaeology linguistics and symbolic communication Topics include hominid evolution primate behaviour genetics ancient civilizations cross cultural studies and social theories Gender, Ethnicity, and Health Research Sana Loue, 2007-05-08

Health researchers routinely evaluate health and illness across subgroups defined by their sex gender ethnicity and race All too often these classifications are proffered as an explanation for any differences that may be detected for example in access to care frequency of disease or response to treatment Relatively few researchers however have examined what these classifications mean on a theoretical level or in the context of their own research Assume for example that a researcher concludes from his or her data that African Americans utilize certain surgical procedures less frequently than whites This conclusion may mean little without an examination of the various underlying issues Is there such a construct as race at all How were whites and African Americans classified as such Does this finding reflect inappropriate overutilization of the specific procedures among whites or inappropriate underutilization among African Americans To what extent are socioeconomic status and method of payment related to the less frequent use Are there differences in the manner in which health care providers present the various treatment options to whites and to African Americans that could account for these differences in utilization Are there differences in health care seeking and health care preferences between the two groups that would explain the difference in utilization Is the racial classification a surrogate measure for another variable that has remained unidentified and unmeasured All too often unfortunately such issues are ignored or lightly dismissed with an entreaty for additional research

Reducing Adolescent Risk Daniel Romer, 2003-04-01 What an extraordinary volume This book brings together current research integrating adolescent risk and protection across a wide range of topics and disciplines It is a major contribution to the field Robert Wm Blum MD MPH PhD Professor and Director Center for Adolescent Health and Development University of Minnesota This book is clearly the best source now available on the topic of adolescent risk taking and its prevention With chapters written by the very best people in the field describing the latest thinking and findings it is an essential guide and resource for prevention researchers and program developers Bruce Simons Morton EdD MPH Chief Prevention Research Branch Division of Epidemiology Statistics and Prevention Research National Institute of Child Health and Human Development This report shines a bright light on the road our nation has taken to improve adolescent health the approaching fork and the path most likely to attain our destination Lloyd J Kolbe PhD Director Division of Adolescent and School Health U S Centers for Disease Control And Prevention Reducing Adolescent Risk Toward an Integrated Approach weaves together current research findings with prevailing prevention strategies to shed further light on the developmental pathways leading to a variety of interrelated adolescent risk behaviors In doing so the authors skillfully make the case for more integrated policy approaches and for comprehensive programming at the community level that both recognizes the connections between risk behaviors and maximizes young people s positive potential Karen Pittman Executive Director The Forum for Youth Investment President Impact Strategies Inc Many risk behaviors have common developmental pathways However most prevention strategies approach adolescent risk behaviors as individual problems requiring separate solutions This policy of treating one behavior at a time encourages a fractured approach to adolescent health Reducing Adolescent Risk Toward an Integrated Approach focuses on common influences that result in a number of interrelated risk behaviors in order to design more unified comprehensive prevention strategies Edited by Daniel Romer this book summarizes presentations and discussions held at the Adolescent Risk Communication Institute of the University of Pennsylvania Annenberg Public Policy Center Concentrating on common causes for varied risk behaviors a group of leading researchers and intervention specialists from different health traditions synthesize current knowledge about risks to adolescent health in several areas including drugs and alcohol tobacco unprotected sex suicide and depression and gambling Promoting healthy adolescent development this innovative volume includes Results of the National Risk Survey Contributions from experts on adolescent decision making and problem solving Research agendas for programs that reduce multiple risks Potential intervention strategies to reduce more than one risk at a time Major findings from the conference that should be pursued in future research Primarily intended for graduate students scholars and researchers in psychology sociology social work and public health Reducing Adolescent Risk is also an extraordinary resource for policy makers in government organizations and foundations

Issues in Health and Health Care Related to Race/Ethnicity, Immigration, SES and Gender Jennie

Jacobs Kronenfeld, 2012-09-03 The 30th Anniversary volume of Research in the Sociology of Health Care looks at the important links between major social factors and health and health care The four main factors analysed in the book are race ethnicity immigration Socioeconomic Status SES and gender

The Heart of Long Term Care Rosalie A. Kane, Robert L. Kane, Richard C. Ladd, 1998 Long term care in the United States has taken the nursing home as its benchmark but the monetary social and psychological costs of nursing home care are all too high This book challenges the current dominance of nursing homes as the principal institution of long term care It offers a series of alternative models where both services and housing can be provided in a way that allows long term consumers to enjoy dignified normal lifestyles It addresses the political and economic consequences of making this decision The authors start with the premise that long term care is designed to assist people who lack the capacity to function fully independently They argue that no disabled person of any age should be required to forsake his her humanity in exchange for care The book rejects the artificial dichotomy between social and medical care asserting that both play important roles in psychological and physical well being of long term care patients The authors consider the need for competent and compassionate medicine and discuss the methods for improving both its coordination of care and its effectiveness The book redefines the meaning of safety and protection in long term care and how this goal can be accomplished without sacrificing quality of living As the new millennium and the aging of baby boomers approaches more creative approaches to providing better long term care are required This volume outlines a useful framework for the provision of effective and humane community based programs that are both feasible and affordable It will be an invaluable guide for geriatricians public health professionals family physicians nurses and others who care for elderly patients
