President,2012 Containing the public messages speeches and statements of the President 1956 1992 Making and Managing Public Policy Karen Johnston Miller,Duncan McTavish,2013-10-01 Understanding how public policy is made and managed is a key component in studying the disciplines of public management and administration Such are the complexities associated with this topic a deeper understanding is vital to ensure that practising public managers excel in their roles This textbook synthesizes the key theories providing a contemporary understanding of public policy and how it relates to private and other sectors It integrates this with the management and implementation of public policy including outlines of organizations practices and instruments used Pedagogical features include chapter synopses learning objectives boxed international cases and vignettes and further reading suggestions This useful concise textbook will be required reading for public management students and all those interested in public policy The Patient as Agent of Health and Health Care Mark Sullivan, MD, PhD,2016-12-15 Patient centered care for chronic illness is founded upon the informed and activated patient but we are not clear what this means We must understand patients as subjects who know things and as agents who do things Bioethics has urged us to respect patient autonomy but it has understood this autonomy narrowly in terms of informed consent for treatment choice In chronic illness care the ethical and clinical challenge is to not just respect but to promote patient autonomy understood broadly as the patients overall agency or capacity for action The primary barrier to patient action in chronic illness is not clinicians dictating treatment choice but clinicians dictating the nature of the clinical problem The patient s perspective on clinical problems is now often added to the objective disease perspective of clinicians as health related quality of life HRQL But HRQL is merely a hybrid transitional concept between disease focused and health focused goals for clinical care Truly patient centered care requires a sense of patient centered health that is perceived by the patient and defined in terms of the patient s vital goals Patient action is an essential means to this patient centered health as well as an essential component of this health This action is not extrinsically motivated adherence but intrinsically motivated striving for vital goals Modern pathophysiological medicine has trouble understanding both patient action and health The self moving and self healing capacities of patients can be understood only if we understand their roots in the biological autonomy of organisms Taking the patient as the primary perceiver and producer of health has the following policy implications 1 Care will become patient centered only when the patient is the primary customer of care 2 Professional health services are not the principal source of population health and may lead to clinical social and cultural iatrogenic injury 3 Social justice demands equity in health capability more than equal access to health services
