and localisation as well as policy formulation and planned intervention processes This book should be read for its desire to pursue a form of analysis that helps us to understand better and more realistically the kinds of development interventions and social transformations that have characterised the second half of the twentieth century and will no doubt continue to characterise future development studies      Subsidizing Capitalism Tamar Diana Wilson,2012-02-01 In Mexico self employed brickmakers support capitalist enterprise by providing bricks to build hotels factories office buildings and shopping malls at costs lower than those based on profit making principles Combining Chayanovian and neo Marxist approaches Subsidizing Capitalism asserts that the economic activities of these self employed brickmakers may be considered counterhegemonic because they avoid proletarianization in the formal sector Tamar Diana Wilson discusses the similarities between peasants and brickmakers the structural position of garbage pickers in relation to brickmakers the trajectory from piece worker to petty commodity producer to petty capitalist the economic value of women s and children s work as part of the family labor force and how the neopatriarchal household is intrinsic to petty commodity production Interspersed throughout are short stories and poems that offer the brickmakers perspectives and provide a rarely seen look into their lives      Democracy and Global Water Politics in Historical Perspective Jose Esteban Castro,2024-12-23 This book addresses water privatization from a historical sociological perspective and argues against the unrelenting imposition of neoprivatist water politics worldwide Water is essential for life but it is also a source of economic and political power Prevailing water politics continues to erode the conditions of dignified living conditions of millions of human beings around the world including many living in Western capitalist democracies The book revisits water related myths fake truths and authoritarian practices promoted or employed by International Financial Institutions governments and other powerful actors to keep enforcing long failed policies grounded on ideological dogmas and short term interests and argues for the substantive democratization of water politics and management It rejects claims of scientific neutrality from academics and other actors across the political spectrum who are co responsible for the perpetuation of these conditions interrogating the ethics of scientific political pragmatism      The Caribbean City Rivke Jaffe,2008 Caribbean cities are a unique yet underexposed phenomenon Their distinctiveness results from a combination of interrelated factors including a history of slavery development under the hemispheric hegemony of the United States and spatial limitations imposed by the settings of most Caribbean urban areas This innovative volume presents a detailed introduction to the spatial socio cultural and economic characteristics of the Caribbean city followed by case studies of selected cities in the Dutch Hispanophone Francophone and Anglophone Caribbean It discusses a broad range of disciplinary approaches in examining the urban Caribbean incorporating perspectives from anthropology sociology history political science geography and literary and cultural criticism BOOK JACKET      Migration, Urbanization, and Development Richard E. Bilborrow,1998 Internal migration and urbanization are key dimensions of the process of socioeconomic development The unprecedented movement of peoples within the borders of their own countries is one of the greatest transformations witnessed in the 20th century Policy analysts especially those from developing countries where internal migration can be felt at first hand view migration as one of the most important factors affecting the course of development It is within this context that UNFPA convened the Symposium on Internal Migration and Urbanization in Developing Countries in January 1996 in preparation for the United Nations World Conference on Human Settlements in Istanbul in June 1996 The final results of the symposium are found in this book This volume provides a better understanding at global level of internal migration issues of concern to policy analysts

Contested Powers John-Andrew McNeish, Axel Borchgrevink, Owen Logan, 2015-06-11 In the global North the commoditization of creativity and knowledge under the banner of a creative economy is being posed as the post industrial answer to dependency on labour and natural resources Not only does it promise a more stable and sustainable future but an economy focused on intellectual property is more environmentally friendly so it is suggested Contested Powers argues that the fixes being offered by this model are bluffs development as witnessed in Latin American energy politics and governance remains hindered by a global division of labour and nature that puts the capacity for technological advancement in private hands The authors call for a multi layered understanding of sovereignty arguing that it holds the key to undermining rigid accounts of the relationship between carbon and democracy energy and development and energy and political expression Furthermore a critical focus on energy politics is crucial to wider debates on development and sustainability Contested Powers is essential reading for those wondering how energy resources are converted into political power and why we still value the energy we take from our surroundings more than the means of its extraction

How We Struggle Sian Lazar, 2023-01-20 A comparative ethnographic approach to the question of labour struggles and workers political agency A masterful book a resource that makes anthropology matter Andrea Muehlebach Professor of Anthropology University of Bremen When it comes to labor movements unionized industrial workers on the factory floor have only ever been part of the picture Across so many different workplaces sectors of the economy and geographical contexts the question of how working people struggle in the day to day has no single answer Here Sian Lazar offers a unique anthropological perspective on labor agency that takes in examples from across the globe from heavy industry and agriculture to the service and informal sectors She asks how do people strive to improve their lives and working conditions How are they constrained and enabled in that struggle by the nature of the work they do and by their own positionality in local histories cultures and networks How We Struggle explores worker action across the spectrum from organized trade unionism to individualized strategies of accommodation resistance and escape The book marries a discussion of global political economy and Marxist feminist theories of labor with ethnographic approaches that begin from a perspective of human experience kinship and radical heterogeneity

Enduring Violence Cecilia Menjivar, 2011-04-01 Drawing on revealing in depth interviews Cecilia Menjivar investigates the role that violence plays in the lives of Ladina women in eastern Guatemala a little visited and little studied region While much has been written on the subject of political violence in Guatemala Menjivar turns to a different form of suffering the violence embedded in institutions and in everyday life so familiar and routine that it is often not recognized as such Rather than painting Guatemala or even Latin America as having a cultural propensity for normalizing and accepting violence Menjivar aims to develop an approach to examining structures of violence profound inequality exploitation and poverty and gender ideologies that position women in vulnerable situations grounded in women's experiences In this way her study provides a glimpse into the root causes of the increasing wave of femicide in Guatemala as well as in other Latin American countries and offers observations relevant for understanding violence against women around the world today

Global Childhoods Stuart Aitken, 2013-09-13 This astute book initiates a broad discussion from a variety of different disciplines about how we place children nationally globally and within development discourses Unlike other books of its kind it does not seek to dwell solely on the abiding complexities of local comparisons Rather it elaborates larger concerns about the changing nature of childhood young people's experiences their citizenship and the embodiment of their political identities as they are embedded in the processes of national development and globalization In particular this book concentrates on three main issues nation building and developing children child participation and activism in the context of development and globalization and children's lives in the context of what has been called the end of development These are relatively broad research perspectives that find focus in what the authors term reproducing and developing children as a key issue of national and global concern They further argue that understanding children and reproduction is key to understanding globalization      Geographies of Development in the 21st Century Sylvia H. Kayhan Delibas seeks to answer these questions through an in depth examination of the appeal of this political party exploring its ideology the routes and motives which produce party activists and local party organisations Concluding that the AKP s success has been built on its criticism of growing inequalities widespread corruption unemployment poverty and lack of basic services Delibas draws a nuanced portrait of modern Turkish society and the relationship between religion and politics Delibas offers an explanation based on research carried out amongst grassroots activists for the rise of Islamic fundamentalism in Turkey Islamic movements are often described as anti modernist thought to be supported by fundamentalist groups living in a bygone age isolated from the rest of the modern world In recent years particularly since the events of 9 11 such movements have also been seen as a threat to the Western way of life But Delibas argues that these movements and particularly those in Turkey did not arise out of religious fervour or hatred of Western civilisation as is often claimed Rather they were founded and have thrived as a response to socio economic and political conditions that have been aggravated by neoliberal economic policies rapid urbanisation and the globalization of culture By exploring the structural conditions in which an Islamic movement emerged and become popular in a seemingly secular state The Rise of Political Islam in Turkey offers vital analysis for all those researching modern Turkey and the growth of Islamist politics throughout the Middle East and North Africa
