Kelley,M. Trebilcock,2010-10-02 Immigration policy is a subject of intense political and public debate In this second edition of the widely recognized and authoritative work The Making of the Mosaic Ninette Kelley and Michael Trebilcock have thoroughly revised and updated their examination of the ideas interests institutions and rhetoric that have shaped Canada s immigration history Beginning their study in the pre Confederation period the authors interpret major episodes in the evolution of Canadian immigration policy including the massive deportations of the First World War and Depression eras as well as the Japanese Canadian internment camps during World War Two New chapters provide perspective on immigration in a post 9 11 world where security concerns and a demand for temporary foreign workers play a defining role in immigration policy reform A comprehensive and important work The Making of the Mosaic clarifies the attitudes underlying each phase and juncture of immigration history providing vital perspective on the central issues of immigration policy that continue to confront us today The Ashgate Research Companion to Modern Imperial Histories John Marriott,2016-03-23 Written by leading scholars this collection provides a comprehensive and authoritative overview of modern empires Spanning the era of modern imperial history from the early sixteenth century to the present it challenges both the rather insular focuses on specific experiences and gives due attention to imperial formations outside the West including the Russian Japanese Mughal Ottoman and Chinese The companion is divided into three broad sections Part I Times surveys the three main eras of modern imperialism The first was that dominated by the settlement impulse with migrants many voluntarily and many more by force making new lives in the colonies This impulse gave way most especially in the nineteenth century to a period of busy and rapid expansion which was less likely to promote new settlement and in which colonists more frequently saw their sojourn in colonial lands as temporary and related to the business mostly of governance and trade Lastly in the twentieth century in particular empires began to fail and to fall Part II Spaces studies the principal imperial formations of the modern world Each chapter charts the experience of a specific empire while at the same time placing it within the complex patterns of wider imperial constellations The individual chapters thus survey the broad dynamics of change within the empires themselves and their relationships with other imperial formations and reflect critically on the ways in which these topics have been approached in the literature In Part III Themes scholars think critically about some of the key features of imperial expansion and decline These chapters are brief and many are provocative They reflect the current state of the field and suggest new lines of inquiry which may follow from more comparative perspectives on empire The broad range of themes captures the vitality and diversity of contemporary scholarship on questions of empire and colonialism encompassing political economic and cultural processes central to the formation and maintenance of empires as well as institutions ideologies and social categories that shaped the lives both of those implementing and those experiencing the force of empire In these pages the reader will find the slave and the criminal the merchant and the maid the scientist and the artist alongside the structures which sustained their lives and their livelihoods Overall the companion emphasises the diversity of imperial experience and process Comprehensive in its scope it draws attention to the particularities of individual empires rather than over generalising as if all empires at all times and in all places behaved in a similar manner It is this contingent and historical specificity that enables us to explore in expansive ways precisely what constituted the modern empire

Religion, Community and Development Gurpreet Mahajan, Surinder S. Jodhka, 2010-06-02 By making religious community a relevant category for discussing development deficit the Sachar Committee Report that was submitted to the Prime Minister of India in 2007 initiated a new political discourse in India While the liberal secular framework privileged the individual over the community and was more inclined to use the category of class rather than the identity of religion the Sachar Committee differentiated citizens on the basis of their religious identity Its conclusions reinforced the necessity of approaching issues of development through the optic of religious community This volume focuses on this shift in public policy The articles in this collection examine the nature and implications of this new approach to the Indian social reality Taking a close look at the findings of the Sachar Committee Report SCR they highlight the challenges posed by inter community comparisons At another level the articles supplement the debate initiated by the SCR by constructing a profile of religious communities in India so as to factor in their concerns of development into the present discourse and to nuance and modify the simple indicators to which development is often reduced As most religious communities are themselves engaged in development related activities the volume also examines some of these initiatives in order to see what development connotes to the members themselves and what receives attention by the community Students of social sciences and development studies as well as those dealing with issues of marginalization will find this collection an invaluable resource for understanding contemporary India and for undertaking further theoretical and empirical research
