Making Choices In Sexuality Research And Applications:

Making Choices in Sexuality Susan McCammon, David Knox, Caroline Schacht, 1998 Designed to help students make informed choices about this complex aspect of human behavior this new book centers around the unique theme of choices how to make them and how to live with their impact This briefer version text provides a comprehensive and affordable alternative to longer texts for the course without sacrificing depth and detail The book helps readers broaden their understanding of sexuality by examining it from a variety of perspectives including psychological biological sociological feminist historical and cross cultural Without preaching or bias the authors present cutting edge information to ensure that students are knowledgeable about critical issues in sexuality From the latest on HIV AIDS and sexually transmitted diseases to coverage of cultural variations in human sexuality this book is unequalled in its presentation of scholarly yet engaging subject matter To demonstrate how the content applies to students research based inventories Self Assessments taken from sexuality and health literature provide scales students can use to assess their own beliefs attitudes and behaviors Sexual Orientation and Gender Expression in Social Work Practice Deana F. Morrow, Lori Messinger, 2006 At last a casebook that focuses exclusively on sexual orientation and gender expression in relation to social work practice The scenarios feature gay lesbian bisexual and transgender GLBT individuals couples and families and highlight GLBT issues in groups organizations communities policy arenas and research Pub desc Child Mental Health John Y Powell, David Dosser, Dorothea Handron, Susan Mccammon, Sandra A. Spencer, 2018-10-24 Use these system of care concepts to better serve children with serious emotional problems and their families Providing services to children with emotional problems and their families continues to be a major challenge for social workers family therapists child mental health advocates and psychologists in the new century This valuable book addresses that challenge detailing theory principles and application issues from the vantage points of both consumers and service providers System of care values and practices were developed to address these concerns and meet the needs of these children and families who tend to receive either no services at all or services that are far too restrictive at a large cost to the organization providing the services Child Mental Health Exploring Systems of Care in the New Millennium identifies salient issues and offers suggestions for addressing the complexities of providing services for these troubled families It also provides hope and encouragement for family members and professionals by identifying roles and practices that are effective in building collaborative community based services This book takes an incisive look at the benefits and difficulties of partnering between practitioners and families the need for and benefits of partnering between practitioners of various disciplines within the system of care a working model of a wraparound process the hallmark of the system of care barriers that prevent effective wraparound services and what causes them the need to help social workers learn parent partnering skills the roles that families can play in the system of care the need for specialized training so that practitioners can learn to assess understand and integrate a family s spiritual beliefs into the system of care the development of an interdisciplinary collaborative practice course at East Carolina University experiential training and shared classroom experiences for students Child Mental Health Exploring Systems of Care in the New Millennium is a tool that will aid practitioners and consumers alike as they shift their point of view from the provider as expert paradigm to one of building partnerships natural English The words of Jesus are in red letter Kindergarten Panic Bailey A. Brown, 2025-08-19 How school choice reproduces inequality by creating gendered and socioeconomic decision making labor for parents School choice policies have proliferated in recent years with parents forced to navigate complex admission processes In New York City families have more options than ever before but the search for the right school has proven to be time consuming painstaking and anxiety provoking work In Kindergarten Panic Bailey Brown examines the experiences of parents as they search for elementary schools finding that socioeconomic inequalities and persistent disparities in resources information access and decision making power contribute to broad variation in how families develop and manage their school choice labor strategies The labor that parents invest in searching for schools is unevenly distributed and shaped by gender socioeconomic background and neighborhood contexts Drawing on interviews with more than a hundred parents of elementary school students in New York City Brown shows how inequality manifests itself as parents and students deal with the uncertainties of the school choice process By conceptualizing school decision making as labor she makes visible the often unseen work that goes into making educational decisions for children Brown argues that recognizing school choice as labor both deepens our theoretical understanding of the challenges families confront and identifies vast disparities in parents labor across socioeconomic and gender divisions If parents continue to be charged with searching for schools we must take seriously how school choice policies reproduce the kind of inequality they are intended to reduce and we must invest in providing equitable access to high quality public schooling for all families
