Making Local News:

Making Local News Phyllis Kaniss, 1991-09-24 Why do crimes and accidents earn more news coverage than development and policy issues affecting thousands of people Filled with revealing interviews with both journalists and city officials Making Local News is the first comprehensive look at how the economic motives of media owners professional motives of journalists and the strategies of media wise politicians shape the news we see and hear thereby influencing urban policy Making Local News by Phyllis Kaniss is significant If we can continue to get smarter about that which journalism leaves out or distorts in its coverage of politics we may eventually get smarter about politics itself Mitchell Stephens The Philadelphia Inquirer View A convincing analysis of the factors and forces which color how and why local issues do or do not become newsworthy Michael H Ebner Journal of Interdisciplinary History This work serves as a reminder of the importance of a medium that is often overlooked until economic realities threaten its very existence Choice Kaniss is truly a pioneer in the study of local news Susan Herbst Contemporary Sociology

Making Local News Phyllis C. Kaniss, 1997 Local Journalism and Local Media Bob Franklin, 2005-08-18 The local media local newspapers and radio regional television cable television and local news on the internet represents a diverse and rapidly changing sector of the British media landscape Bringing together media academics local journalists and other media professionals this text presents a thorough up to date and authoritative account of recent developments and future prospects for Britain's local newspapers local media and local journalism Drawing on current research and relevant literature the book covers key developments in the local media scene the distinctive editorial format of local newspapers news sources and other sources available to local journalists recent developments in media policy online journalism ethics and regulations the impact of new technology Situating the study within the context of local national and multi national media networks this unique text provides students with a well written and wide ranging assessment of all aspects of the local media in the UK and as such will be a welcome addition to the current literature

Making News Richard R. John, Jonathan Silberstein-Loeb, 2015 This book charts the rise and fall of the newspaper as the primary medium for the conveyance of news The book focuses on two of the most influential media markets in the modern world Great Britain and the United States between 1688 and 1995 In 1688 Parliament created institutional arrangements that would hasten the rise of the newspaper as the dominant medium for the circulation of news In 1995 the National Science Foundation commercialized the Internet encouraging an astonishing proliferation of information on all manner of topics including the news Per capita newspaper circulation had been declining for decades partly due to shifting social norms and partly due to the rise of broadcast news The Internet exacerbated this trend partly because it provided a cheaper news source and partly because it quickly became a superior vehicle for advertising a major source of revenue for newspaper publishers for over two hundred years However only rarely has advertising revenue and direct sales covered costs Almost never has the demand for news generated the revenue necessary for its supply Non market institutional arrangements have ranged from direct government subsidies to organizational forms that enabled news organizations to cooperate. From a historical perspective the large profits reaped by a handful of newspaper publishers in the post Second World War era were anomalous and in no sense a baseline for public policy. Never again will the newspaper be the dominant news medium. To guarantee an informed citizenry in the future it is necessary to understand how the news business worked in the past. This book is organized around eight essays each written by a distinguished specialist and each explicitly comparative. Its theme is the indispensability in both Great Britain and the United States of non market institutional arrangements in the provisioning of news.

Making the Local News Bob Franklin, David Murphy, 1998

Making National News Gene Allen, 2014-01-31

For almost a century Canadian newspapers radio and television stations and now internet news sites have depended on the Canadian Press news agency for most of their Canadian and through its international alliances foreign news. This book provides the first ever scholarly history of CP as well as the most wide ranging historical treatment of twentieth century Canadian journalism published to date. Using extensive archival research including complete and unfettered access to CP's archives Gene Allen traces how CP was established and evolved in the face of frequent conflicts among the powerful newspaper publishers John Ross Robertson Joseph Atkinson and Roy Thomson among others who collectively owned it and how the journalists who ran it understood and carried out their work. Other major themes include CP's shifting relationships with the Associated Press and Reuters its responses to new media its aggressive shaping of its own national role during the Second World War and its efforts to meet the demands of French language publishers. Making National News makes a substantial and original contribution to our understanding of journalism as a phenomenon that shaped Canada both culturally and politically in the twentieth century.

News as Culture Ursula Rao, 2010-05-01

At the turn of the millennium Indian journalism has undergone significant changes. The rapid commercialization of the press together with an increase in literacy and political consciousness has led to swift growth in the newspaper market but also changed the way news makers mediate politics. Positioned at a historical junction where India is clearly feeling the effects of market liberalization this study demonstrates how journalists and informants interactively create new forms of political action and consciousness. The book explores English and Hindi newsmaking and investigates the creation of news relations during the production process and how they affect political images and leadership traditions. It moves beyond the news room to outline the role of journalists in urban society the social lives of news texts and the way citizens bring their ideas and desires to bear on the news discourse. This important volume contributes to an emerging debate about the impact of the media on Indian society. Furthermore it convincingly demonstrates the inseparable link between media related practices and dynamic cultural repertoires.

Seeking News, Making China John Alekna, 2024-03-19

Contemporary developments in communications technologies have overturned key aspects of the global political system and transformed the media landscape. Yet interlocking technological informational and political revolutions have occurred many times in the past. In China radio first arrived in the winter of 1922/23 bursting into a world where communication was slow, disjointed or non-existent. Less than ten percent of the population ever read newspapers. Just fifty years later, at the beginning of the Cultural Revolution, news broadcasts reached hundreds of millions of people instantaneously every day. How did Chinese citizens experience the rapid changes in information practices and political organization that occurred in this period? What was it like to live through a news revolution? John Alekna traces the history of news in twentieth-century China to demonstrate how large structural changes in technology and politics were heard and felt. Scrutinizing the flow of news can reveal much about society and politics, illustrating who has power and why, and uncovering the connections between different regions, peoples, and social classes. Taking an innovative, holistic view of information practices, Alekna weaves together both rural and urban history to tell the story of the rise of mass society through the lens of communication techniques and technology, showing how the news revolution fundamentally reordered the political geography of China.

News, Public Relations and Power Simon

Cottle, 2003-04-18. We live in increasingly promotional times. States, political parties, and corporations, as well as new social movements and diverse cultural interests, today seek to put their message across via the media, and in pursuit of disparate aims, enhanced public understanding and legitimacy. Introducing theoretical ideas and the latest empirical findings in this fast-developing field of media communication study, this book addresses such issues as the rapid growth of public relations, its impact on news production, state information management strategies in times of internal political dissent, political parties and mediated spin conducted at national and local levels, the historically changing nature of war journalism, environmental activism, and pressure group communication, and much more. back cover

Making Social Work News Meryl

Aldridge, 2002-09-11. Social work has recently received some dreadful news coverage, but the most extravagant headlines and accusations centre on local authority social work with children. Moreover, such accusations stem almost exclusively from the national press. In Making Social Work News, Meryl Aldridge widens the debate of social work and its representation by the news media. The book falls into three parts: the first providing students and practitioners with a basic understanding of the day-to-day working and commercial logic of the UK press; the second part examines the press coverage of social work itself, exploring its considerable variation, comparing different news treatments between broadsheet and tabloids, and between national and local papers; the final part considers whether social work has particular difficulties in defining its goals and lobbying on its own behalf. It concludes with some reflection on the importance of doing so now that marketing has become part of the policy process. Making Social Work News will be invaluable to all students and lecturers in social work, sociology, and social policy, as well as media and cultural studies. It will also be essential reading for all social work professionals, particularly those involved in training.

Digitizing the News Pablo J. Boczkowski, 2005. A study of the development of nonprint publishing by American daily newspapers, how new media emerge by combining existing media structures and practices with new technical capabilities.

Mass Media and American Politics Doris A. Graber, Johanna

Dunaway, 2017-08-08 Mass Media and American Politics is the most comprehensive and best book for political communication. This text has made it easy for my students to learn about research and theory related to political journalism and the political communication system in America. It has great utility and insight while being comprehensive but not overwhelming for students. Jason Martin, DePaul University. Known for its readable introduction to the literature and theory of the field, Mass Media and American Politics is a trusted comprehensive look at media's impact on attitudes, behavior, elections, politics, and policymaking. This Tenth Edition is thoroughly updated to reflect major structural changes that have shaken the world of political news and examines the impact of the changing media landscape. It includes timely examples from the 2016 election cycle to illustrate the significance of these changes. This classic text balances comprehensive coverage and cutting edge theory, shows students how the media influence governmental institutions and the communication strategies of political elites, and illustrates how the government shapes the way the media disseminate information. Written by Doris A. Graber, a scholar who has played an enormous role in establishing and shaping the field of mass media and American politics, and Johanna Dunaway, this book sets the standard. FREE POSTER Fact or Fiction: Use this checklist to avoid the pitfalls posed by the rise of fake news. Mass Media James B. Martin, 2002. Mass media has become an integral part of the human experience. News travels around the world in a split second, affecting people in other countries in untold ways. Although being on top of the news may be good at least for news junkies, mass media also transmits values or the lack thereof, condenses complex events and thoughts to simplified sound bites, and often ignores the essence of an event or story. The selective bibliography gathers the books and magazine literature over the previous ten years while providing access through author title and subject indexes. News for Farmer Cooperatives, 1943. Journalism and the Pandemic Tony Silvia, 2022-09-09. This edited volume of essays analyzes how the entire practice of journalism in America has changed irrevocably due to the Covid-19 pandemic. Written by journalists and other industry professionals, essays outline an assortment of related topics including the rapid adoption of new technology like Zoom, the state of public health reporting, diversity in journalism, and more. This book also outlines major implications for the future of journalism, detailing some long-lasting changes that could impact generations to come. These shifts in journalism will have economic, social, and ethical consequences long after the pandemic ends and could shift the entire paradigm for deciding what news is and how it is covered. How to Make Our Own News John Maxwell, 2000. A must-read for community activists who've ever wondered how to get their stories in the media. How to Make Our Own News will also be a useful resource for journalists who cover environmental issues. The author is a veteran journalist who also has long been directly engaged in work on behalf of the environment, and he has written a cogent how-to on reaching audiences, developing story ideas, conducting successful interviews, and writing stories that will be accepted by news editors. The work includes appendixes that summarise Agenda 21, the principles of sustainable development that resulted from the 1992 Earth Summit in Rio de Janeiro. Political Communication Richard M. Perloff, 2013-10-18. In this political communication text Richard M Perloff examines the various ways in which messages are constructed and communicated from public officials and politicians through the mass media to the ultimate receivers the people With a focus on the history of political communication he provides an overview of the most significant issues in the study of politics and the media In addition to synthesizing facts and theories and highlighting the scholarly contributions made to the understanding of political communication effects Political Communication addresses such factors as the rhetorical accomplishments of American presidents the ongoing tangles between the press and the presidency and the historical roots of politics as it is practiced and studied today It also addresses major issues about the press and politics that continually resurface such as question of press bias and the use and manipulation of media by politicians to accomplish national goals As a comprehensive and engaging introduction to contemporary political communication this volume provides all readers with a historical perspective on American politics and press and offers a unique appreciation of the strengths and virtues of political communication in America

A History of the Book in America Carl F. Kaestle, Janice A. Radway, 2015-12-01 In a period characterized by expanding markets national consolidation and social upheaval print culture picked up momentum as the nineteenth century turned into the twentieth Books magazines and newspapers were produced more quickly and more cheaply reaching ever increasing numbers of readers Volume 4 of A History of the Book in America traces the complex even contradictory consequences of these changes in the production circulation and use of print Contributors to this volume explain that although mass production encouraged consolidation and standardization readers increasingly adapted print to serve their own purposes allowing for increased diversity in the midst of concentration and integration Considering the book in larger social and cultural networks essays address the rise of consumer culture the extension of literacy and reading through schooling the expansion of secondary and postsecondary education and the growth of the textbook industry the growing influence of the professions and their dependence on print culture and the history of relevant technology As the essays here attest the expansion of print culture between 1880 and 1940 enabled it to become part of Americans everyday business social political and religious lives Contributors Megan Benton Pacific Lutheran University Paul S Boyer University of Wisconsin Madison Una M Cadegan University of Dayton Phyllis Dain Columbia University James P Danky University of Wisconsin Madison Ellen Gruber Garvey New Jersey City University Peter Jaszi American University Carl F Kaestle Brown University Nicolas Kanellos University of Houston Richard L Kaplan ABC Clio Publishing Marcel Chotkowski LaFollette Washington D C Elizabeth Long Rice University Elizabeth McHenry New York University Sally M Miller University of the Pacific Richard Ohmann Wesleyan University Janice A Radway Duke University Joan Shelley Rubin University of Rochester Jonathan D Sarna Brandeis University Charles A Seavey University of Missouri Columbia Michael Schudson University of California San Diego William Vance Trollinger Jr University of Dayton Richard L Venezky 1938 2004 James L W West III Pennsylvania State University Wayne A Wiegand Florida State University Michael Winship University of Texas at Austin

Martha Woodmansee Case Western Reserve University      American Television News: The Media Marketplace and the Public Interest Steve M. Barkin, 2016-09-16 This concise history of the news broadcasting industry will appeal to both students and general readers Stretching from the radio days of the 1920s and 1930s and the early era of television after World War II through to the present the book shows how commercial interests regulatory matters and financial considerations have long shaped the broadcasting business The network dominance of the 1950s ushered in the new prominence of the anchorman a distinctly American development and gave birth to the golden age of TV broadcasting which featured hard hitting news and documentaries epitomized by the reports by CBS's Edward R. Murrow Financial pressures and advertising concerns in the 1960s led the networks to veer away from their commitment to serve the public interest and tabloid television celebrity gossip driven soft news and news magazines became increasingly widespread In the 1980s cable news further transformed broadcasting igniting intense competition for viewers in the media marketplace Focusing on both national and local news this stimulating volume examines the evolution of broadcast journalism It also considers how new electronic technologies will affect news delivery in the 21st century and whether television news can still both serve the public interest and maintain an audience      Making It in Broadcasting Leonard Mogel, 2010-08
