As a scholar and policy advisor, Vito Tanzi has made a major contribution to identifying links between public finance and macro and microeconomic consequences. His findings bear relevance in both developing and industrialized economies. The essays in this volume and its companion Fiscal Policy and Economic Reform highlight many of these interconnected issues, for instance, the interaction between budgetary policy and economic aggregates such as employment, inflation, and growth; the implication of economic linkages for designing fiscal policies, expenditure policies, and alternative deficit financing strategies; the trade-offs between macro and microeconomic objectives. The list of contributors includes Max Corden, John Makin, Ronald McKinnon, and Richard Musgrave.

Human Rights and Public Finance Aoife Nolan, Rory O'Connell, Colin Harvey, 2014-10-01 This edited collection addresses some of the most important challenges in contemporary human rights law and practice. Its central theme is the linkage between public finance, particularly budget decisions, and the realisation or not of economic and social rights. While much academic and political debate on economic and social rights implementation has focused on the role of the courts, this work places the spotlight squarely on those organs of government that have the primary responsibility and the greatest capacity for giving effect to such rights, namely the elected branches of government. The major actors considered in this book are politicians, public servants, and civil society, with their role in realising economic and social rights the work's key focus. The book thus makes a crucial contribution to remedying the current imbalance in attention paid by economic and social rights scholars to the legislature and executive vis-à-vis the judiciary. Featuring pioneering work by leading experts in the field of human rights and public finance, this multidisciplinary collection will be of great interest to academics, practitioners, public servants, and students working in the areas of law, human rights, economics, development, and political science.
