Montage Eisenstein Theories Of Representation And Difference:

The Men with the Movie Camera Philip Cavendish, 2013-12-01 Unlike previous studies of the Soviet avant garde during the silent era which have regarded the works of the period as manifestations of directorial vision this study emphasizes the collaborative principle at the heart of avant garde filmmaking units and draws attention to the crucial role of camera operators in creating the visual style of the films especially on the poetics of composition and lighting In the Soviet Union of the 1920s and early 1930s owing to the fetishization of the camera as an embodiment of modern technology the cameraman was an iconic figure whose creative contribution was encouraged and respected Drawing upon the film literature of the period Philip Cavendish describes the culture of the camera operator charts developments in the art of camera operation and studies the mechanics of key director cameraman partnerships He offers detailed analysis of Soviet avant garde films and draws comparisons between the visual aesthetics of these works and the modernist experiments taking place in the other spheres of the visual arts

Contemporary Film Theory Antony Easthope, 2014-07-22 During the twentieth century the medium of film has developed as a means of understanding the complexity of modern life Since 1968 film theory has concentrated not so much on theme or content but on the deeper question of how the medium works on its viewer Film theory has been profoundly influenced by the writings of such modern thinkers as Saussure Freud Lacan Anthusser Derrida and Kristeva It combines modes of textual analysis relating to linguistics and semiology a Marxist reading of ideology and theories of subjectivity the spectator and gender redefined by psychoanalysis This judicious selection from key work by Stephen Heath Fredric Jameson Laura Mulvey Mary Ann Doanne and others represents some of the most important contemporary writing about film It provides a consistent and developing analysis that will be of interest to students concerned with film and film studies as well as students of cultural media and communication studies

Film Theory Philip Simpson, Andrew Utterson, Karen J. Shepherdson, 2004 This major new collection identifies the critical and theoretical concepts which have been most significant in the study of film and presents a historical and intellectual context for the material examined

"Painting and Narrative in France, from Poussin to Gauguin " Nina Leen, 2017-07-05 Before Modernism narrative painting was one of the most acclaimed and challenging modes of picture making in Western art yet by the early twentieth century storytelling had all but disappeared from ambitious art France was a key player in both the dramatic rise and the controversial demise of narrative art This is the first book to analyse French painting in relation to narrative from Poussin in the early seventeenth to Gauguin in the late nineteenth century Thirteen original essays shed light on key moments and aspects of narrative and French painting through the study of artists such as Nicolas Poussin Charles Le Brun Jacques Louis David Paul Delaroche Gustave Moreau and Paul Gauguin Using a range of theoretical perspectives the authors study key issues such as temporality theatricality word and image relations the narrative function of inanimate objects the role played by viewers and the ways in which visual narrative has been bound up with history painting The book

offers a fresh look at familiar material as well as studying some little known works of art and reveals the centrality and complexity of narrative in French painting over the course of three centuries

Visual and Linguistic Representations of Places of Origin Maria Pia Pozzato, 2017-12-05 This book is about the representations both visual and linguistic which people give of their own places of origin It examines the drawings of interviewees who were asked to draw their own place of origin on a white A3 sheet using pencil or colour according to their choice If they were born in a place they did not remember because they moved in when they were very small they could draw the place they did remember as the scenario of their early childhood The drawings are examined from three different perspectives semiotics cognitive psychology and geography The semiotic instruments are used to describe how each person reconstructs a complex image of his/her childhood place and how they translate their own memories from one language to another e.g. from drawing to verbal story trying to approach what they want to express in the best possible way The cognitive psychological point of view helps clarify the emotional world of the interviewees and their motivations during the process of reconstruction and expression of their childhood experiences The geographical conceptualizations concern a cultural level and provide insight into the cartographic models that inspire the maps people drew One of the main findings was the influence from cultural codes as demonstrated in the fact that most of the US students interviewed drew their maps showing considerable cartographic expertise in comparison to their European counterparts
