Poetry and Mysticism Raïssa Maritain, 2022-04-29 These two essays by Raïssa Maritain Sense and Non Sense in Poetry and Magic Poetry and Mysticism comprise an often forgotten but significant contribution to Catholic letters Maritain considers the way true poetry always transcends its logical sense in order to convey a poetic sense Poetry is a human thing but it stirs the human beyond mere logic in the direction of the divine In his introduction James Matthew Wilson explains that Poetry is the fruit of a contact of the spirit with reality which is in itself ineffable and with the source of reality which we believe to be God himself in that movement of love which causes him to create images of his beauty While the poet might be prayerful and the mystic might wax poetic there is a fundamental difference which separates the poetic experience from the mystical experience while the poet progresses toward the Word the mystic tends toward Silence As Raïssa Maritain expounds mystics may be moved to describe their heightened experiences but for them this expression is not a means of completing the experience For the furnishing of her interior castle a mystic like St Teresa of Avila needs no speech her talk the record she left us of the prayer of quiet is only a result of superabundance a generous attempt at communication The poet on the contrary cannot do without words They are the vital stuff of his service to the world Albert B Guin corroborates Maritain's conclusion contending that whatever value one attributes to the poetic act it remains an act submitted to the necessity of form It ends at the word On the other hand the poetic word points beyond language ever striving for a fuller communion with reality and its Maker Inhabiting the tensions between sense and nonsense poetry and mysticism articulation and its absence Maritain manifests the hidden mysteries at the heart of all poetry worthy of the name
