P. Harvey,1988 Books in Print Supplement ,1988 Rough and Tumble Travis Rayne Pickering,2013-04-10 Travis Rayne Pickering argues that the advent of ambush hunting approximately two million years ago marked a milestone in human evolution one that established the social dynamic that allowed our ancestors to expand their range and diet He challenges the traditional link between aggression and human predation however claiming that while aggressive attack is a perfectly efficient way for our chimpanzee cousins to kill prey it was a hopeless tactic for early human hunters who in comparison to their large potentially dangerous prey were small weak and slow footed Technology that evolved from wooden spears to stone tipped spears and ultimately to the bow and arrow increased the distance between predator and prey and facilitated an emotional detachment that allowed hunters to stalk and kill large game Based on studies of humans and of other primates as well as on fossil and archaeological evidence Rough and Tumble offers a new perspective on human evolution by decoupling ideas of aggression and predation to build a more realistic understanding of what it is to be human Yearbook Columbia University. School of Architecture,1915 The Earth as Transformed by Human Action B. L. Turner,William C. Clark,Robert W. Kates,John F. Richards,Jessica T. Mathews,William B. Meyer,1993-01-29 The Earth as Transformed by Human Action is the culmination of a mammoth undertaking involving the examination of the toll our continual strides forward technical and social take on our world The purpose of such a study is to document the changes in the biosphere that have taken place over the last 300 years to contrast global patterns of change to those appearing on a regional level and to explain the major human forces that have driven these changes The first section deals strictly with the major human forces of the past 300 years and the second is a detailed account of the transformations of the global environment wrought by human action The final section examines a range of perspectives and theories that purport to explain human actions with regard to the biosphere Resources in Education ,1994 Bad Harvest Nigel Dudley,Jean-Paul Jeanrenaud,Francis Sullivan,2014-06-03 The world s forests are disappearing at an alarming rate and with disastrous consequences Demand for wood and paper products ranks high amongst the causes of deforestation and forest degradation and is now the major cause of loss in those forests richest in wildlife There is a great deal to be done to improve the timber industry before our forests are safely and sustainably managed Bad Harvest presents an incisive account of the role that the timber trade has played in the loss and degradation of forests around the world It examines the environmental consequences of the trade on boreal temperal and tropical regions and its impacts for local people working and living in the forests It also looks at the changing nature of the trade and assesses current national and international initiatives to address the impacts of deforestation Finally the authors show how things could be improved in the future by presenting a new strategy for sustainable forest management Based on 15 years of extensive research particularly work carried out by the World Wide Fund for Nature Bad Harvest is essential reading on the subject not only for environmentalists but also for those in the timber trade seeking to improve the management and reputation of their product A Companion to Dental Anthropology Joel D.
