Population And Marketing Settlements In Ching China:

Population and Marketing Settlements in Ch'ing China Gilbert Rozman, 1982-06-30 This book presents and evaluates the data from the historical records of Ching China 1644 1911 to ascertain the quality of available records and to determine what they can tell is about variations from area to area and from period to period Development and Decline of Fukien Province in the 17th and 18th Centuries Vermeer, 2022-04-25 The history of China's Southeast coast has unusual features For many centuries overseas trade and migration internal and external warfare strong religious beliefs and receptiveness to foreign influences characterized this society of fiercely independent traders fishermen and mountain farmers The protracted struggle of Cheng Ch'eng kung and the Southern Ming against the Ching dynasty precipitated Fukien into a crisis from which many chose to escape by emigration to the Philippines and Taiwan Recovery was slow The fourteen Western and Chinese contributors to this study focus on internal economic and social developments overseas and religious change From the rich Chinese and European source materials a picture emerges of great regional diversity Local interests and values were confronted by the central government's orthodox rule and Western influences of Jesuits and traders The Fukienese reaction to them produces fascinating insights into Chinese society and a truly local history which may qualify our ideas on the Chinese Empire REA sinologists social and economic historians China's Population Gabe T. Wang, 2019-01-15 Published in 1999 this text sets out to provide an historical present and futuristic understanding of China's enormous population problems It sets out to provide a fundamental understanding of China through an understanding of its population problems and the efforts to control them With the world's largest population China has a dynamic economy and is emerging as a world power This book aims to provide a comprehensive discussion on issues relating to China's population in English based on historical and macro level analysis of Chinese society Prosperity, Region, and Institutions in Maritime China Billy K.L. So, 2020-03-23 Prosperity signifies success in economic performance Economic performance always takes place in a spatial context And institutions matter in economic performance These three interwoven themes underlie this inquiry into the regional economy of southern Fukien province during the Sung and Yuan dynasties when the area was one of the most prosperous regions in China Through a meticulous reading of the sources the author seeks to understand the meaning of prosperity in the premodern Chinese context and argues that we have to understand economic performance as a process occurring in space and influenced by institutions which affect economic actors particularly through the means of transaction costs Nation, Governance, and Modernity in China Michael T. W. Tsin, 2002-12-09 This work studies the city of Canton Guangzhou the cradle of the Chinese revolution It argues that modernist politics as practiced by the Nationalists and Communists represented a specific political rationality embedded in the context of a novel conception of the social realm Remaking the Chinese City Joseph W. Esherick, 2001-10-31 In China today skyscrapers tower over ancient temples freeways deliver lines of cars and tour buses to imperial palaces cinema houses compete with old theaters featuring Peking

Opera The disparity evidenced in the contemporary Chinese cityscape can be traced to the early decades of the twentieth century when government elites sought to transform cities into a new world that would be at once modern and distinctly Chinese

Remaking the Chinese City aims to capture the full diversity of recent Chinese urbanism by examining the modernist transformations of China's cities in the first half of the twentieth century

Collecting in one place some of the most interesting and exciting new work on Chinese urban history this volume presents thirteen essays discussing ten Chinese cities the commercial and industrial center of Shanghai the old capital Beijing the southern coastal city of Canton the interior s Chengdu the tourist city of Hangzhou the utopian New Capital built in Manchuria during the Japanese occupation the treaty port of Tianjin the Nationalists capital in Nanjing and temporary wartime capitals of Wuhan and Chongqing

Unlike past treatments of early twentieth century China which characterize the period as one of failure and decay the contributors to this volume describe an exciting world in constant and fundamental change

During this time the Chinese city was remade to accommodate parks and police paved roads and public spaces Rickshaws trolleys and buses allowed the growth of new downtowns Department stores theaters newspapers and modern advertising nourished a new urban identity Sanitary regulations and traffic laws were enforced and modern media and transport permitted unprecedented freedoms

Yet despite their fondness for things Western and modern early urban planners envisioned cities that would lead the Chinese nation and preserve Chinese tradition

The very desire for modernity led to the construction of a visible and accessible national past and the imagining of a distinctive national future

In their investigation of the national capitals of the period the essays show how cities were reshaped to represent and serve the nation

To promote tourism traditions were invented and recycled for the pleasure and edification of new middle class and foreign consumers of culture

Abundantly illustrated with maps and photographs Remaking the Chinese City presents the best and most current scholarship on modern Chinese cities

Its thoroughness and detailed scholarship will appeal to the specialist while its clarity and scope will engage the general reader

Contributors Michael Tsin on Canton Ruth Rogaski and Brett Sheehan on Tianjin David Buck on Changchun Kristin Stapleton on Chengdu Liping Wang on Hangzhou Madeleine Dong on Beijing Charles Musgrove on Nanjing Stephen MacKinnon on Wuhan Lee MacIsaac on Chongqing and Jeffrey Wasserstrom and David Strand with concluding essays

Revolution and Rebellion in the Early Modern World Jack A. Goldstone, 1991-04-02

What can the great crises of the past teach us about contemporary revolutions

Arguing from an exciting and original perspective Goldstone suggests that great revolutions were the product of ecological crises that occurred when inflexible political economic and social institutions were overwhelmed by the cumulative pressure of population growth on limited available resources Moreover he contends that the causes of the great revolutions of Europe the English and French revolutions were similar to those of the great rebellions of Asia which shattered dynasties in Ottoman Turkey China and Japan The author observes that revolutions and rebellions have more often produced a crushing state orthodoxy than liberal institutions leading to the conclusion that perhaps it is vain to expect revolution to bring democracy and economic progress Instead contends Goldstone the path to these goals must begin with respect for individual liberty rather than authoritarian movements of national liberation Arguing that the threat of revolution is still with us Goldstone urges us to heed the lessons of the past He sees in the United States a repetition of the behavior patterns that have led to internal decay and international decline in the past a situation calling for new leadership and careful attention to the balance between our consumption and our resources Meticulously researched forcefully argued and strikingly original Revolutions and Rebellions in the Early Modern World is a tour de force by a brilliant young scholar It is a book that will surely engender much discussion and debate Fortune-tellers and Philosophers Richard J

Smith,2021-11-28 Providing an analysis of Chinese divination as a means of organizing and interpreting reality Richard Smith examines a wide variety of mantic techniques from the use of the hallowed Yjing to such popular practices as siting geomancy astrology numerology physiognomy the analysis of written characters meteorological divination the use of mediums including spirit writing and dream interpretation As he explains the pervasiveness and tenacity of divination in China the author explores not only the connections between various mantic techniques but also the relationship between divination and other facets of Chinese culture including philosophy science and medicine He discusses the symbolism of divination its aesthetics its ritual aspects and its psychological and social significance pointing out that in traditional China divination helped to order the future just as history helped to order the past and rituals the present Understanding

Peasant China Daniel Little,1989-01-01 In this innovative book Daniel Little compares the positions of various social scientists regarding debates in China studies Little focuses on four topics the relative importance of individual rationality and community values in explaining traditional peasant behavior the role of marketing and transportation systems in Chinese society the causes of agricultural stagnation in traditional China and the reasons for peasant rebellions in Qing China He not only makes a constructive contribution to these controversies but also provides examples of the diversity of social science research Unruly People Robert J. Modern China (1800-1949) James Z. Gao,2009-06-16 The Historical Dictionary of Modern China 1800 1949 offers a concise but comprehensive examination of the political military economic social and cultural development of modern China Instead of focusing merely on the political elites of China this reference covers a variety of significant persons including women and ethnic minorities new historical concepts cultural and educational institutions and economic activities Drawing on newly available records including a large mass of governmental and family archives the narratives presented reveal new facts offer a new interpretation in accordance with China's modernization process during the late Qing period and a revisionist perspective on the Republican history. The chronology records not only political and military events but also other experiences of the Chinese people. The bibliography gives prominence to current literature on China's drive towards modernization and appendixes provide the reader with detailed information on China's cultural and economic transformation.

Family History, 1985. An ambitious volume of studies of the origins and trends in family history of major geographical areas. Singing on the River Igor Iwo Chabrowski, 2015-08-25. Singing on the River by Igor Chabrowski based on Sichuan boatmen's work songs haozi explores the little known world of mentality and self representation of Chinese workers from the late 19th century until the outbreak of the Second Sino Japanese War 1937. Chabrowski demonstrates how river workers constructed and interpreted their world work and gender in context of the dissolving social cultural and political orders. Boatmen asserted their own values bemoaned exploitation and imagined their sexuality largely in order to cope with their low social status. Through studying the Sichuan boatmen we gain an insight into the ways in which twentieth century nonindustrial Chinese workers imagined their place in the society and appropriated without challenging them the traditional values. Development Centre Studies Chinese Economic Performance in the Long Run, 960-2030 AD, Second Edition, Revised and Updated Maddison Angus, 2007-09-28. This book uses a comparative approach to explain why China's role in the world economy has changed so dramatically in the last thousand years. This edition has been revised and updated and Chapter 4 is new. It concludes that China will resume its role as the world's largest economy by 2015.

Urban Networks in Ch'ing China and Tokugawa Japan Gilbert Rozman, 2015-03-08. Ch'ing China and Tokugawa Japan were unusually urbanized premodern societies where about one half of the world's urban population lived as late as 1800. Gilbert Rozman has drawn on both sociology and history to develop original methods of illuminating the historical urbanization of China and Japan and to provide a way of relating urban patterns to other characteristics of social structure in premodern societies. The author also hopes to redirect the analysis of premodern societies into areas where China and Japan can be compared with each other and with other large scale societies. The author divides central places into seven levels and determines how many levels were present in each country century by century. Through this method he is able to demonstrate how Japan was rapidly narrowing China's lead in urbanization and show that Japan was relatively efficient in concentrating resources in high level cities. Explanations for differences in urban concentration are sought in a general discussion of the social structure of each country, an analysis of marketing patterns, a detailed study of Chihli province and the Kant region, an examination of regional variations and a comparison of Peking and Edo which were probably the world's largest cities throughout the eighteenth century.
