Social Issues and Policies in Asia Raymond K. H. Chan, Lih-Rong Wang, Jens O. Zinn, 2014-06-26 In the past few decades societies in Asia have experienced rapid and dramatic changes in their economic social and political spheres Despite the wide diversity among these countries a few general trends can be observed Globalization has swept across Asia bringing intensive economic interactions with a strong commitment to liberalism and market capitalism Wage labour has become the common form of employment Individuals as well as countries are increasingly exposed to the competitive and uncertain global market Employment protection particularly for vulnerable labour groups youth women seniors and migrants has become a pressing issue for most Asian governments Industrialization and urbanization have had a major impact on demographics family structures and normative frameworks The declining fertility rate has been recognized as a defining feature of a modern society leading to small families and reducing instances of multi generational co residency Changing family structures have contributed to changes in family values and roles especially the role of women Sometimes willingly sometimes compelled women are entering the workplace in increasing numbers particularly as migrant workers Similarly the elderly are experiencing changes in their roles and participation in society Family duties compete and are often in conflict with the demands of work The issue of providing adequate and quality care to family members has been exacerbated by the fact that Asian societies are ageing It is commonly acknowledged that in Asian societies personal care and support needs are primarily met by family both immediate and extended and to a lesser degree by community networks Governments had gradually established their own social welfare systems in an effort to support economic growth and sustain their legitimacy by meeting certain recognized social needs The success of these ventures varies across societies and naturally there have been criticisms of the breadth and depth of these provisions This book addresses social issues related to family ageing and work that arise from these changes in Japan Korea Taiwan Hong Kong China Philippine and Sri Lanka These societies represent different levels of economic and social development but face similar challenges and their social interventions can be usefully compared This variety of subjects provides the reader with a more comprehensive understanding of the changes that have occurred the problems that have emerged and the strategies that have been adopted This volume provides insight into ways of addressing social issues in this rapidly changing part of the world
