Scanning Electron Microscopy Atlas Of Normal And Malignant Leukocytes:

A Scanning Electron Microscopy Atlas of Normal and Malignant Leukocytes Aaron Polliack, Giorgio Lambertenghi-Delilieri, Davide Soligo, 1993-01-01 Normal, Transformed and Leukemic Leukocytes A. Polliack, 2012-12-06

The scanning electron microscope SEM has been used with increasing frequency in recent years to study the surface morphology of normal transformed and malignant leukocytes Since the original reports on critical point dried lymphocytes published in 1973 results of other studies using improved methods have been reported giving rise to some controversy in this field and this is discussed in the text of the atlas Advances in preparatory techniques recorded during the past 3 years have also contributed much to a better understanding of cell surface phenomena as seen under the SEM The text of the atlas traces the developments in this field chronologically summarizes the available literature and presents the current situation in the light of the most recent studies in this field The photographs were selected to illustrate the spectrum of surface morphology of the different cell types obtained from normal individuals and patients with disease states Hopefully the atlas will serve as a guide for future studies and as an illustration of what SEM has to offer in providing details of surface architecture

Leukemia & Lymphoma R 6 Aaron Polliack, 1997-12-01 An established resource in the field of hematological oncology The series serves as excellent seminars covering a wide range of current topics of interest and controversy Journal of the National Cancer Institute , 1981 Anticancer Research , 1995 Human Leukemias Aaron Polliack, 2012-12-06 The Cumulative Book Index , 1995 A world list of books in the English language Cancer Research , 1993 Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70

Dynamic Morphology of Leukemia Cells H. Felix, G. Haemmerli, P. Sträuli, 2012-12-06 Dynamic Morphology is the attempt to correlate surface architecture and shape of fixed cells as visualized by scanning electron microscopy SEM with the behavior of living cells recorded by microcinematography MCM If SEM and MCM are used concurrently for the analysis of cell populations a dynamic interpretation of SEM photographs is only valid if the experimental conditions are identical for the two techniques This is achieved by allowing the cells to settle on a glass surface where they remain long enough to perform their various activities under conditions identical for both techniques for technical details see Methodology The analysis of a population necessitates the study of a large number of cells This prerequisite is met by operating the scanning electron microscope at low levels of magnification and by using culture chambers for cinematography It can be argued that the examination of attached cells excludes a complete SEM survey of a population as cells not adhering from the outset or becoming detached during the different preparatory steps are lost For this cinematography proved to be a reliable control All cell types recognized in time lapse films were also seen in scanning electron SE micrographs Another and more general objection to a dynamic interpretation concerns the artificiality of cellular behavior on glass This is true but does not invalidate comparative studies making use of this substrate Journal National Cancer Institute (U.S.), 1973 Red Cell

Rheology M. Bessis, S.B. Shohet, N. Mohandas, 2012-12-06 Hemolysis during filtration through micropores studied by Chien et al I showed a dependence on pressure gradient and pore diameter that at the time of publication did not permit an easy interpretation of the hemolytic mechanism Acting on the assumption that thresholds of hemolysis are easier to correlate with physical forces than extents of hemolysis we performed a series of experiments repeating some of the conditions reported in I and then focusing on low L1P in order to define better the thresholds of hemolysis for several pore sizes Employing a model of a deformed red cell shape at the pore entrance based on micropipette observations we related the force field in the fluid to a biaxial tension in the membrane The threshold for lysis correlated with a membrane tension of 30 dynes cm This quantity is in agreement with lysis data from a number of other investigators employing a variety of mechanisms for introducing membrane tension The sequence of events represented here is a Fluid forces and pressure gradients deform the cell into a new elongated shape b Extent of deformation becomes limited by the resistance of the cell membrane to undergo an increase in area c Fluid forces and pressure gradients acting on the deformed cell membrane cause an increase in biaxial tension in the membrane d When the strain caused by this tension causes pores to open in the membrane the threshold for hemolysis has been reached 2 Medical and Health Care Books and Serials in Print ,1997 Cambridge Medical Reviews: Haematological Oncology: Volume 2 Armand Keating, James Armitage, Adrian Newland, Alan Burnett, 1992-12-03
