Tow, 2001-12-10 This comprehensive 2002 book is an overview of security issues in the Asia Pacific It is also an argument for a strategy that promises to achieve greater regional stability It argues that current approaches by policy makers increase the likelihood of conflict Instead it proposes that a strategy of convergent security be adopted to build a more enduring and peaceful regional security framework A concise survey of key approaches to regional security politics it presents a vast selection of empirical discussion both historical and current Assessing the outlook for the three powers most likely to vie for regional dominance the United States China and Japan the book also reviews the prospects for other secondary powers including Korea and Taiwan and analyses the role of Australia and the ASEAN nations of Southeast Asia Unique accessible authoritative and broad ranging survey designed for a wide body of analysts and students of contemporary Asian politics and strategy

Security, Arms Control and Defence Restructuring in East Asia Bjørn Møller, 2019-01-22 First published in 1998 this volume examines East Asia especially Northeast Asia which has been a region of considerable political security of importance for several key reasons It features several great and medium powers China Japan and Russia as well as North and South Korea Even though no arms race is yet discernible among these states with the partial exception of the two Koreas it is conceivable that one might commence If it did the level of militarization could become quite alarming if only because of the tremendous and rapidly growing economic potential of the regional states Even though relations among regional states except the two Koreas are currently peaceful the region features several unresolved issues e g concerning territory and a historical legacy of enmity between several states To prevent such conflicts of interest from erupting into armed conflict is of the utmost importance A stabilizing factor is that the military potentials in the region are still predominantly defensively oriented i e most states lack the requisite power projection or invasion capabilities to inflict serious harm on each other However this might change in the not so distant future Hence the importance of confidence building measures of an institutionalization of regional relations and of a strengthening of commitments to defensive military strategies and postures

Security Policy Dynamics

Byung-ok Kil, 2017-10-05 This title was first published in 2001 Byung-ok Kil's thorough analysis deals with both the broad area of public policy and the specific topic of national security policy change in Korea Using an historical comparative approach he tests the relative importance of international and domestic developments as determinants of security policy change Drawing extensively on carefully selected sources of quantitative and qualitative data including original documents and interviews this engaging text is of theoretical methodological and applied policy relevance to the academic community and of substantive interest to a broader audience of governmental officials in national security and related policy areas

Charting a New Diplomatic Course Cecil V. Crabb, Jr., Leila S. Sarieddine, Glenn J. Antizzo, 2001-08-01 America's victory in the Cold War is a milestone in the nation's diplomatic experience The disintegration of the Soviet Union and the defeat of communism have made containment policy the foundation of U S foreign relations for almost a half century obsolete and policymakers and political scientists alike struggle to decide what new strategy should guide the country's involvement on the international stage In this pathbreaking work Cecil V Crabb Jr Leila E Sarieddine and Glenn J Antizzo identify and analyze six distinct approaches to America's diplomatic course after the Cold War addressing perhaps the most important question of our time what should U S foreign policy be in the twenty first century First the authors examine the familiar doctrine of American isolationism and consider an alternative approach conservative neo isolationism which encourages policymakers to use careful discrimination but decisive action in assuming commitments abroad Liberal neo isolationism a third possible course resists active interventionist strategies because of the dangers they pose to congressional power and America's democratic system At the opposite end of the spectrum are conservative interventionism the belief that America must maintain a strong military arsenal and engage in preventative diplomacy liberal interventionism the conviction that America has a responsibility to actively promote the cause of democracy and defend human rights beyond its own borders and pragmatic interventionism an approach taken by the Clinton Administration that relies on a cost benefit analysis of policy as problems arise Elegantly written and authoritatively researched Charting a New Diplomatic Course provides a much needed frame of reference for anyone interested in America's future in international affairs

The East Asian Peace M. Weissmann, 2012-06-12 Using a case study based approach Weissmann analyses the post Cold War East Asian security setting to demonstrate why there is a paradoxical inter state peace He points out processes that have been important for the creation of a continuing relative peace in East Asia as well as conflict prevention and peacebuilding mechanisms developments in Korea Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR      US National Defense for the Twenty-first Century Edward A. Olsen, 2014-07-10 This provocative critique of Washington's current security policies draws on the arguments made by an array of non interventionist and conservative nationalist scholars It provides a blueprint for a more restrained and unilateral US role in global affairs      Security Cooperation in Northeast Asia T.J. Pempel, Chung-Min Lee, 2012-06-14 Defining and conceptualizing Northeast Asia's security complex poses unique quandaries The security architecture in Northeast Asia to date has been predominately U S dominated bilateral alliances weak institutional structures and the current Six Party Talks dealing with the North Korean nuclear issue There has been a distinct lack of desire among regional countries as well as the U S to follow in the footsteps of Europe with its robust set of multilateral institutions However since the late 1990s there has been burgeoning interest among regional states towards forming new multilateral institutions as well as reforming and revitalizing existing mechanisms Much of this effort has been in the economic and political arenas with the creation of bodies such as the East Asian Summit but there have also been important initiatives in the security sphere This book offers detailed examinations about how this potentially tense region of the world is redefining certain longstanding national interests and shows how this shift is the result of changing power relations the desire to protect hard won economic gains as well as growing trust in new processes designed to foster regional cooperation over regional conflict Presenting new and timely research on topics that are vital to the security future of one of the world's most important geographical regions this book will be of great value to students and scholars of Asian politics regionalism international politics and security studies      North Korea's Foreign Policy under Kim Jong Il Seung-Ho Joo, 2016-12-05 The Democratic People's Republic of Korea North Korea joined the rank of nuclear powers in October 2006 after exploding its first nuclear device The test was not fully successful yet it unequivocally demonstrated North Korea's nuclear weapons capability North Korea under the leadership of Kim Jong il remains as unpredictable and mysterious as ever This comprehensive study brings together leading scholars in the field to examine the country's current foreign policy under Kim Jong il as well as its bilateral relations with the USA China Russia Japan and South Korea      Inauspicious Beginnings Université du Québec à Montréal. Centre d'études des politiques étrangères et de sécurité, Raoul-Dandurand Chair of Strategic and Diplomatic Studies, 2004 Inauspicious Beginnings shows that at the end of the Cold War many experts in the international community expected a new world order to emerge in which international security institutions such as the United Nations Security Council and NATO would play a major role in preventing and ending conflicts But while the 1990s proved to be a decade of international insecurity and major humanitarian disasters thus demonstrating the need for a wider and more efficient system of security institutions the principal powers failed to create them Instead the emerging order was marked by the overwhelming power of the United States which under the Bush Sr and Clinton administrations did not see such a system as a necessity The authors detail how the Bush and Clinton administrations relied on catering to allies and building large coalitions to deal with major international security challenges while other principal powers were either pre occupied with their domestic problems or deferred to the United States As a consequence on the eve of 11 September 2001 the United Nations Security Council remained an older outmoded power configuration incapable of responding efficiently to the with novel challenges besetting it Its relevance has been further questioned by the unilateral occupation of Iraq by the United States

Peace Regime Building on the Korean Peninsula and Northeast Asian Security Cooperation Seung-Ho Joo, 2016-05-13 A permanent peace regime on the Korean peninsula has yet to be achieved even though the Korean War came to a halt more than half a century ago Without a peace treaty formally ending the Korean War the two Korean states are technically still at war The current situation on the Korean peninsula is extremely tense and precarious and tensions and distrust between the two Koreas and between the U S and North Korea escalated in the wake of North Korea s second underground nuclear weapons testing in 2009 The editors of this volume conceptually present a two track inter Korean and international approach to Korean peninsula peace regime building They argue that an inter Korean and international approach should be pursued simultaneously for the construction of a permanent peace regime on the Korean peninsula The contributing authors are established specialists and experts on Korean foreign relations and Northeast Asian international relations As natives of the U S Korea China and Japan they provide objective scholarly and diverse perspectives on the Korean peace regime building
