House of Commons - Public Administration Select Committee: Truth to Power: How Civil Service Reform Can Succeed - HC 74 Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Public Administration Select Committee, 2013-09-06

The Public Administration Select Committee PASC has concluded a year long inquiry into the future of the Civil Service with only one recommendation that Parliament should establish a Joint Committee of both Houses to sit as a Commission on the future of the Civil Service It should be constituted within the next few months and report before the end of the Parliament with a comprehensive change programme for Whitehall with a timetable to be implemented over the lifetime of the next Parliament The Report considers the increased tensions between ministers and officials which have become widely reported and places the problems in Whitehall in a wider context of a Civil Service built on the Northcote Trevelyan settlement established in 1853 and the Haldane principles of ministerial accountability set out in 1919 The government's Civil Service Reform Plan lacks strategic coherence and clear leadership from a united team of ministers and officials The Northcote Trevelyan Civil Service remains the most effective way of supporting the democratically elected Government and future administrations in the UK Divided leadership and confused accountabilities in Whitehall have led to problems a low level of engagement amongst civil servants in some departments and agencies and a general lack of trust and openness the Civil Service exhibits the key characteristics of a failing organisation with the leadership are in denial about the scale of the challenge they face There is a persistent lack of key skills and capabilities across Whitehall and an unacceptably high level of churn of lead officials which is incompatible with good government

Parliamentary Papers Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons,1908 Select Committee Effectiveness, Resources and Powers Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Liaison Committee,2012-11-08 Drawing on reports from committees evidence from outside observers and academic research this report concludes that two years after the general election and the Wright reforms the evidence is broadly encouraging although committees face some obstacles and there is room for improvement The old doctrine by which ministers alone are accountable to Parliament for the conduct of their department is being stretched to implausibility and there is a need for a changed approach It recommends that the Government engage with the Liaison Committee in a review of the relationship between Government and select committees with the aim of producing joint guidelines for departments and committees which recognise ministerial accountability the proper role of the Civil Service and the legitimate wish of Parliament for more effective accountability The report also makes numerous recommendations for Committees including that they be forward looking in scrutiny of departmental performance devoting less effort to raking over the coals of past events unless there are lessons to be learnt give more attention to the financial implications of departmental policy and how departments assess the effectiveness of their spending experiment with different approaches to evidence taking broaden the range of witnesses and make more use of commissioned research follow up recommendations to ensure that reports have impact and report to the House at least once each Session on what has been done The Committee intends to ask the Backbench Business Committee for time for a debate in the House of Commons on a motion endorsing its conclusions and recommendations Report Commonwealth Shipping Committee,1914 Select Committees and public appointments Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Liaison Committee,2011-09-05 This report considers the experience of some three years of holding pre appointment hearings by select committees to examine the preferred candidate for certain public appointments before that appointment is confirmed Whilst the committee considers the experiment a success they do recommend a number of changes They propose a three tier list Posts in the first tier are those considered to be of sufficient constitutional significance as to require a process which is effectively a joint appointment by Government and the House of Commons Posts in the second tier are those which the committee proposes should be subject to an enhanced an improved version of the current process and which should be subject to an effective veto by the House of Commons or its committees For posts in the third tier pre appointment hearings should be at the discretion of committees Hearings, Reports and Prints of the House Select Committee on Small Business United States.
