Post-war Canada, 1940 - 1955 Nancy Christie, Michael Gauvreau, 2004-01-15 The years between the end of World War II and the mid 1960s have usually been viewed as an era of political and social consensus made possible by widely diffused prosperity creeping Americanization and fears of radical subversion and a dominant culture challenged periodically by the claims of marginal groups By exploring what were actually the mainstream ideologies and cultural practices of the period the authors argue that the postwar consensus was itself a precarious cultural ideal that was characterized by internal tensions and while containing elements of conservatism reflected considerable diversity in the way in which citizenship identities were defined Contributors include Denyse Baillargeon Universit  de Montr al P E Bryden Mount Allison University Nancy Christie Michael Gauvreau Karine Hebert Carleton University Len Kuffert Carleton University and Peter S McInnis St Francis Xavier University Development of Postwar Canadian Trade Policy B. Muirhead, 1992-12-03 Muirhead agrees that any government must work to maximize national income and independent choice He shows that Canada actively pursued a policy of multilateralism and non discrimination as epitomized by the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade In addition the government tried unsuccessfully to resurrect commercial ties with the United Kingdom its largest pre war overseas market Muirhead finds that in both these efforts Canada was thwarted by postwar realities that hindered its exploitation of markets in Britain and Western Europe The United States remained the only market able and willing to absorb the billions of dollars of Canadian exports on which Canada's prosperity depended Making Men, Making History Peter Gossage, Robert

Rutherford, 2018-05-01 What has it meant to be a man in Canada Alexander Ross fur trader Percy Nobbs architect fisherman fencer Andy Paull residential school survivor and athlete Yves Charbonneau jazz musician and commune member James black and gay in postwar Windsor Who were these men and how did they identify as masculine Populated with figures both well known and unknown Making Men Making History frames masculinity as a socially and historically constructed category of identity susceptible to variation across time place and social context This examination of historical Canadian masculinities reveals the dissonance between hegemonic ideals of manhood and masculinity and the everyday lives of men and boys The volume showcases some of the best new work in masculinity studies With an introduction that contextualizes the international origins of the field Making Men Making History is the first book to explore these themes entirely in Canadian historical settings

Housing in Postwar Canada John R. Miron, 1988-03-01 The size of Canadian households has been declining since at least the 1880s Miron compares this trend to patterns of household size in England and the United States and argues that postwar changes in household formation in Canada were the result of several forces including the postwar baby boom increased longevity changes in marriage pattern rising incidence of divorce increased household affluence and new forms of government assistance to housing While aggregate growth in population families and households helps to explain why more housing was necessary it does not explain changes in the kind of houses desired Miron discusses changes in available housing stock as well as changes in structural type such as the great apartment boom of the late 1960s and the re emergence of owner occupancy in the late 1970s The types of data available for measuring change in the stock and sources of error in housing data are also analyzed One of the books most important contributions is an annotated synthesis of national trends in household formation and housing demand derived from Statistics Canada census data and accompanied by an insightful analysis of the relation of these trends to housing stock evolution This is the only available detailed study of these topics in the Canadian context

Labour Goes to War Wendy Cuthbertson, 2012 During the Second World War the Congress of Industrial Organizations in Canada grew from a handful of members to more than a quarter million and from political insignificance to a position of influence in the emergence of the welfare state What was it about the good war that brought about this phenomenal growth Labour Goes to War analyzes the organizing strategies of the CIO during the war to show that both cultural and economic forces were at work Labour shortages gave workers greater power in the workplace and increased their militancy But workers patriotism their ties to those on active service and allegiance to the people's war also contributed to the CIO's growth and to what it claimed for workers Drawing on a wealth of archival material Wendy Cuthbertson illuminates this complex wartime context She also shows how the complex often contradictory motives of workers during this period left the Canadian labour movement with an ambivalent progressive conservative legacy historians The Making of the Mosaic Ninette Kelley, M. Trebilcock, 2010-10-02 Immigration policy is a subject of intense political and public debate In this second edition of the widely recognized and authoritative work The Making of the Mosaic Ninette Kelley and Michael Trebilcock have thoroughly revised and updated their examination of the ideas interests institutions and rhetoric that have shaped Canada's immigration history Beginning their study in the pre Confederation period the authors interpret major episodes in the evolution of Canadian immigration policy including the massive deportations of the First World War and Depression eras as well as the Japanese Canadian internment camps during World War Two New chapters provide perspective on immigration in a post 9 11 world where security concerns and a demand for temporary foreign workers play a defining role in immigration policy reform A comprehensive and important work The Making of the Mosaic clarifies the attitudes underlying each phase and juncture of immigration history providing vital perspective on the central issues of immigration policy that continue to confront us today Making Middle-Class

Multiculturalism Jennifer Elrick, 2022-01-10 Making Middle Class Multiculturalism re interprets the historiography of the emergence of Canada's universal immigration policy for skilled workers and family immigrants in the 1950s and 1960s

Moral Regulation and Governance in Canada Amanda Glasbeek, 2006 Moral Regulation and Governance in Canada offers an outstanding selection of readings that represents an overview of the key issues in deviance moral regulation and governance in Canada from a distinctly Canadian perspective It effectively tracks the sociology of deviance from governmentality studies to theories of social control Of particular note is the focus this book gives to gender issues It also argues that sometimes what is considered deviant is less related to criminality and more concerned with the perception of normalcy Defense, 1941 Gatekeepers Franca Iacovetta, 2006-10-01 An in depth study of European immigrants to Canada during the Cold War Gatekeepers explores the interactions among these immigrants and the gatekeepers mostly middle class individuals and institutions whose definitions of citizenship significantly shaped the immigrant experience Iacovetta's deft discussion examines how dominant bourgeois gender and Cold War ideologies of the day shaped attitudes towards new Canadians She shows how the newcomers themselves were significant actors who influenced Canadian culture and society even as their own behaviour was being modified Generously illustrated Gatekeepers explores a side of Cold War history that has been left largely untapped It offers a long overdue Canadian perspective on one of the defining eras of the last century Cold War Comforts Tarah Brookfield, 2012-05-01 Cold War Comforts examines Canadian women's efforts to protect children's health and safety between the dropping of the first atomic bomb in Hiroshima in 1945 and the end of the Vietnam War in 1975 Amid this global insecurity many women participated in civil defence or joined the disarmament movement as means to protect their families from the consequences of nuclear war To help children affected by conflicts in Europe and Asia women also organized foreign relief and international adoptions In Canada women pursued different paths to peace and security From all walks of life and from all parts of the country they dedicated themselves to finding ways to survive the hottest periods of the Cold War What united these women was their shared concern for children s survival amid Cold War fears and dangers Acting on their identities as Canadian citizens and mothers they characterized with their activism the genuine interest many women had in protecting children s health and safety In addition their activities offered them a legitimate space to operate in the traditionally male realms of defence and diplomacy Their efforts had a direct impact on the lives of children in Canada and abroad and influenced changes in Canada s education curriculum immigration laws welfare practices defence policy and international relations Cold War Comforts offers insight into how women employed maternalism nationalism and internationalism in their work and examines shifting constructions of family and gender in Cold War Canada It will appeal to scholars of history child and family studies and social policy Victory Bulletin ,1940

Defense United States. Office for Emergency Management,1941 Serpent River Resurgence Lianne C. Leddy,2022-01-27 Serpent River Resurgence tells the story of how the Serpent River Anishinaabek confronted the persistent forces of settler colonialism and the effects of uranium mining at Elliot Lake Ontario Drawing on extensive archival sources oral histories and newspaper articles Lianne C Leddy examines the environmental and political power relationships that affected her homeland in the Cold War period Focusing on Indigenous settler relations the environmental and health consequences of the uranium industry and the importance of traditional uses of land and what happens when they are compromised Serpent River Resurgence explores how settler colonialism and Anishinaabe resistance remained potent forces in Indigenous communities throughout the second half of the twentieth century Cold War Fighters Randall Wakelam,2011-11-03 The cancellation of the CF 105 Arrow in 1959 holds such a grip on the imagination of Canadians that earlier developments in defence procurement remain in the shadows Randall Wakelam corrects this oversight and offers fresh insight into the AVRO saga and contemporary procurement issues by detailing the complexities Canada s air force faced in buying fighter aircraft and by showing how the RCAF grew by leaps and bounds Wakelam shows that cabinet members chiefs of staff and air marshals were forced to negotiate competing pressures to arm the air force please allies and save money Their decisions resulted in the CF 100 Canuck and the F 86 Sabre Canada s front line defensive aircraft in the coldest years of the Cold War Although historians assume that the Arrow arrived on the heels of these successes Wakelam reveals that neither the air force nor the government believed AVRO could manufacture even the CF 100 on budget The Making of the Middle Class A. Ricardo López,2012-01-18 The contributors question the current academic understanding of what is known as the global middle class They see middle class formation as transnational and they examine this group through the lenses of economics gender race and religion from the mid nineteenth century to today Polarity, Patriotism, and Dissent in Great War Canada, 1914-1919 Brock Millman,2016-04-06 Compared to the idea that Canada was a nation forged in victory on Vimy Ridge the reality of dissent and repression at home strikes a sour note Through censorship conscription and internment the government of Canada worked more ruthlessly than either Great Britain or the United States to suppress opposition to the war effort during the First World War Polarity Patriotism and Dissent in Great War Canada 1914 1919 examines the basis for those repressive policies Brock Millman an expert on wartime dissent in both the United Kingdom and Canada argues that Canadian policy was driven first and foremost by a fear that opposition to the war amongst French Canadians and immigrant communities would provoke social tensions and possibly even a vigilante backlash from the war s most fervent supporters in British Canada Highlighting the class and ethnic divisions which characterized public support for the war Polarity Patriotism and Dissent in Great War Canada 1914 1919 offers a broad and much needed reexamination of Canadian government policy on the home front The Postwar Novel in Canada Rosmarin Heidenreich, 1989-10-31 As a comparative study which includes the analysis of both English Canadian and Quebec novels this book provides an overview of the novel as it has developed in this country since the Second World War Focusing on narratological rather than thematic elements the book represents a systematic application of the insights and analytical tools of reader reception theory in particular the models proposed by Wolfgang Iser and Hans Robert Jauss Placing the emphasis on the text and its effects rather than on the historical or psycho sociological genesis of the text the author invokes the models and paradigms of other literatures to establish a broader cultural context permitting the significance of a literature to emerge as a carrier of meaning in and beyond the culture that produces it Tracing a critical path from Hugh MacLennan s hierarchic romance structures and Gabrielle Roy s social realism to the metafiction of Hubert Aquin and Timothy Findley the author reveals that the novel s narratological features themselves are often closely linked with ideological positions
