Service-Ability

Kevin Robson, 2012-11-12 Times have changed Long gone are our days of being kings of the manufacturing industry we are now immersed in the world of service where the relationship between an organization and the customer is an integral part of the product offering The nation is suffering from a widespread lack of truly customer satisfying service We lack the very thing that we need to make this new paradigm work efficiently service ability Organizations of all kinds are facing high customer churn serious customer antagonism loss of consumer confidence and plummeting customer satisfaction Research shows that totally satisfying the customer is the only thing that will secure loyalty and offer significant competitive advantage Yet still on a daily basis we encounter service that frustrates us Whilst the emergence of technology has no doubt brought efficiency to many areas of business activity including the third sector it has led to the standardised and indifferent service we regularly receive We appear to have lost sight that people do business with people Through efficient technology our organisations may be serviceable but they are not service able The arrival of Generation Y and the developments in social media provide businesses with a whole new way to engage with their customers but also provide a new way for customers to rate companies products and services not always in a positive manner Like or Fail have become part of our social language Organizations that refocus on the need to treat customers in a way that satisfies them and not the technology will have better customer retention lower costs of replacement and will build their brand value through better reputations Service Ability delves deeply into these areas to show how today s managers need to re think the way we structure manage lead and organize our companies to achieve total customer centric work cultures that develop lasting relationships with customers

Strategic Decision Making for Successful Planning CJ Rhoads, William Roth, 2021-12-30

Turbulence is not new to the business world In fact turbulence is increasing and managers are seeing teams spinning their wheels Management systems are in a state of crisis and operations are more complex The old top down operations mode no longer suffices Today s businesses demand speed and increased accuracy forcing everyone to re evaluate chains of command and tear down the walls between functions Amid the responsibilities of traditional management lies problem solving The push is toward moving decision making authority down the ladder to all levels Managers are no longer equipped to or capable of making the number and variety of necessary decisions in a vacuum The current mode is to have employees deal directly with workplace issues and take corrective action without complaint and without management involvement Coping with this reality and preparation for these improvements in workplace problem solving requires interest and motivation Strategic Decision Making for Successful Planning can facilitate this by demystifying and simplifying the process The book bridges philosophy and theory and puts together a practical integration of all the tools necessary to get results from your investment of time energy and money What is unique about this book is while it s based on a strong academic foundation it does not get bogged down in the human planning or psychological process of solving problems It doesn't provide pie in the sky creative solutions or a five year process for solving problems and planning for the future Numerous techniques and tools are included to make the book the right balance between practical and academic The book also includes an extensive case study to illustrate points made in the text Applying HACCP-based Quality Risk Management on dairy farms J.P.T.M. Noordhuizen,J. Cannas da Silva,J.S.C. Boersema,A.

Vieira,2023-08-28 Quality is a keyword in animal production Next to product quality process quality has also become relevant for dairy farmers Issues like food safety public health animal health and welfare are determined by the conditions of the production process To address these the EU has issued the General Food Law 178 2002 and the Hygiene directives EC 853 854 2004 dealing with the forenamed domains with the aim to protect consumers The suggestion was also made by the EU that farmers apply a HACCP like plan to meet these new quality demands Key issues are structure organisation planning formalisation and demonstrability which can also be found in the HACCP concept This book addresses Quality Risk Management through applying the HACCP like concept First the assessment of strong and weak points on a dairy farm are dealt with which is useful for farm inspection and herd health programmes Then the 12 steps for developing a HACCP plan are followed through the various chapters Many examples and elaborations are given An example farm FX is introduced to show how the different elements may look in reality At the end of the book characteristics of entrepreneur like dairy farmers are given and compared to strong and weak points of cattle practitioners Practitioners may conclude how to better serve this type of farmer Communication plays a paramount role Finally several general issues are addressed economics integrating classical herd health with quality risk management programmes The aim of this book is to give practical guidelines and examples for dairy farmers cattle practitioners and extension people who desire to jointly develop and implement a HACCP based quality risk management programme This book is well written with many practical flow charts and Good Practice advice I would recommend it to any veterinarian involved in producing risk management programs or Standard Operating Procedure type documents for dairy farms The chapters on good communication and marketing would be useful for most veterinarians David S Beggs book review editor The Australian Cattle Veterinarian Volume 50 p 34 35 March 09
