Making It Crazy Ethnography Of Psychiatric Clients:

Making It Crazy Sue E. Estroff, 1985-06-06 Estroff describes a group of chronic psychiatric clients as they attempt life outside a mental hospital Making it Crazy Sue E. Estroff, 1985 Making it Crazy Sue Ellen Estroff, 1978 Clinically Applied Anthropology N. Chrisman, T. Maretzki, 2012-12-06 like other collections of papers related to a single topic this volume arose out of problem sharing and problem solving discussions among some of the authors The two principal recurring issues were 1 the difficulties in translating anthropological knowledge so that our students could use it and 2 the difficulties of bringing existing medical anthropology literature to bear on this task As we talked to other anthropologists teaching in other parts of the country and in various health related schools we recognized that our problems were similar Similarities in our solutions led the Editors to believe that publication of our teaching experiences and research relevant to teaching would help others and might begin the process of generating principles leading to a more coherent approach Our colleagues supported this idea and agreed to contribute What we agreed to write about was Clinically Applied Anthropology Much of what we were doing and certainly much of the relevant literature was applied anthropology And our target group was composed mostly of clinicians The utility of the term became apparent after 1979 when another set of anthropologists began to discuss clinical Anthropology They too recognized the range of novel behaviors available to anthropologists in the health science arena and chose to focus on the clinical use of anthropology We see this as an important endeavor but very different from what we are proposing Our Most Troubling Madness Prof. T.M. Luhrmann, Jocelyn Marrow, 2016-09-27

Schizophrenia has long puzzled researchers in the fields of psychiatric medicine and anthropology Why is it that the rates of developing schizophrenia long the poster child for the biomedical model of psychiatric illness are low in some countries and higher in others And why do migrants to Western countries find that they are at higher risk for this disease after they arrive T M Luhrmann and Jocelyn Marrow argue that the root causes of schizophrenia are not only biological but also sociocultural This book gives an intimate personal account of those living with serious psychotic disorder in the United States India Africa and Southeast Asia It introduces the notion that social defeat the physical or symbolic defeat of one person by another is a core mechanism in the increased risk for psychotic illness Furthermore care as usual treatment as it occurs in the United States actually increases the likelihood of social defeat while care as usual treatment in a country like India diminishes it
