Marsh,2013-06-29 This volume was created initially from a symposium of the same name presented at the International Primatological Society's XVIII Congress in Adelaide South Australia 6-12 January 2000 Many of the authors who have contributed to this text could not attend the symposium so this has become another vehicle for the rapidly growing discipline of Fragmentation Science among primatologists Fragmentation has quickly become a field separate from general ecology which underscores the severity of the situation since we as a planet are rapidly losing habitat of all types to human disturbance Getting ecologists particularly primatologists to admit that they study in fragments is not easy In the field of primatology one studies many things but rarely do those things genetics behavior population dynamics get called out as studies in fragmentation For some reason fragmentation primatologists fear that our work is somehow not as good as those who study in continuous habitat We worry that perhaps our subjects are not demonstrating as robust behaviors as they should given fragmented or disturbed habitat conditions I had a colleague openly state that she did not work in fragmented forests that she merely studied behavior when it was clear that her study sites everyone of them was isolated habitat Our desire to be just another link in the data chain for wild primates is so strong that it makes us deny what kinds of habitats we are working in However On Four Feet Arthur Irving Gates,1957 Kaleidoscope of Legends Mary Dyer,2002

Semantic and Interactive Content-based Image Retrieval Björn Barz, 2020-12-23 Content based Image Retrieval CBIR ist ein Verfahren zum Auffinden von Bildern in großen Datenbanken wie z B dem Internet anhand ihres Inhalts Ausgehend von einem vom Nutzer bereitgestellten Anfragebild gibt das System eine sortierte Liste ähnlicher Bilder zurück Der Großteil moderner CBIR Systeme vergleicht Bilder ausschließlich anhand ihrer visuellen Ähnlichkeit d h dem Vorhandensein ähnlicher Texturen Farbkompositionen etc Jedoch impliziert visuelle Ähnlichkeit nicht zwangsläufig auch semantische Ähnlichkeit Zum Beispiel können Bilder von Schmetterlingen und Raupen als ähnlich betrachtet werden weil sich die Raupe irgendwann in einen Schmetterling verwandelt Optisch haben sie jedoch nicht viel gemeinsam Die vorliegende Arbeit stellt eine Methode vor welche solches menschliches Vorwissen über die Semantik der Welt in Deep Learning Verfahren integriert Als Quelle für dieses Wissen dienen Taxonomien die für eine Vielzahl von Domänen verfügbar sind und hierarchische Beziehungen zwischen Konzepten kodieren z B ein Pudel ist ein Hund ist ein Tier etc Diese hierarchiebasierten semantischen Bildmerkmale verbessern die semantische Konsistenz der CBIR Ergebnisse im Vergleich zu herkömmlichen Repräsentationen und Merkmalen erheblich Darüber hinaus werden drei verschiedene Mechanismen für interaktives Image Retrieval präsentiert welche die den Anfragebildern inhärente semantische Ambiguität durch Einbezug von Benutzerfeedback auflösen Eine der vorgeschlagenen Methoden reduziert das erforderliche Feedback mithilfe von Clustering auf einen einzigen Klick während eine andere den Nutzer kontinuierlich involviert indem das System aktiv nach Feedback zu denjenigen Bildern fragt von denen der größte Erkenntnisgewinn bezüglich des Relevanzmodells erwartet wird Die dritte Methode ermöglicht dem Benutzer die Auswahl besonders interessanter Bildbereiche zur Fokussierung der Ergebnisse Diese Techniken liefern bereits nach wenigen Feedbackrunden deutlich relevantere Ergebnisse was die Gesamtmenge der abgerufenen Bilder reduziert die der Benutzer überprüfen muss um relevante Bilder zu finden Content based image retrieval CBIR aims for finding images in large databases such as the internet based on their content Given an exemplary query image provided by the user the retrieval system provides a ranked list of similar images Most contemporary CBIR systems compare images solely by means of their visual similarity i.e. the occurrence of similar textures and the composition of colors However visual similarity does not necessarily coincide with semantic similarity For example images of butterflies and caterpillars can be considered as similar because the caterpillar turns into a butterfly at some point in time Visually however they do not have much in common In this work we propose to integrate such human prior knowledge about the semantics of the world into deep learning techniques Class hierarchies serve as a source for this knowledge which are readily available for a plethora of domains and encode relationships e.g. a poodle is a dog is an animal etc Our hierarchy based semantic embeddings improve the semantic consistency of CBIR results substantially compared to conventional image representations and features We furthermore present three different mechanisms for interactive image retrieval by incorporating user feedback to resolve the inherent semantic ambiguity present in the query image One of the proposed methods reduces the required user feedback to a single click using clustering while another keeps the human in the loop by actively asking for feedback regarding those images which are expected to improve the relevance model the most The third method allows the user to select particularly interesting regions in images These techniques yield more relevant results after a few rounds of feedback which reduces the total amount of retrieved images the user needs to inspect to find relevant ones
