Cionca, 2004 Based on interviews with hundreds of pastors as well as ten years of counseling ministry leaders Dr Cionca provides practical if's when's and how's to consider before changing ministries      Myth L.A. Mango, 2014-03-27 No one wants to turn 17 years old not even the ones that say they aren't scared to because they're lying. We've all been taught to learn the same thing: To be soldiers. We all learned about different creatures, their history, their weak points, and their strong points at school just to prepare us to face the one thing everyone dreads to face when they turn seventeen: The Unknown. There's nowhere to hide in the Unknown, and there's nowhere to go. Just you, a dangerous obstacle in front of you, and five pairs of eyes watching to see if you're worth living and have what it takes to be the island's soldier.

"Trading Magic for Fact," Fact for Magic Marc Colavincenzo, 2021-10-18 This study brings together three major areas of interest: history, postmodern fiction, and myth. Whereas neither history and postmodern fiction nor history and myth are strangers to one another, postmodernism and myth are odd bedfellows. For many critics, postmodern thought, with its resistance to metanarratives, stands in direct and deliberate contrast to myth, with its apparent tendency to explain the world by means of neat, complete narratives. There is a strain of postmodern Canadian historical fiction in which myth actually forms a complement, not only to postmodernism's suspicion of master narratives but also to its privileging of those marginal and at times ignored areas of history. The fourteen works of Canadian fiction considered demonstrate a doubled impulse which, at first glance, seems contradictory. On the one hand, they go about demythologizing in the Barthesian sense, various elements of historical discourse exposing its authority as not simply a natural given but as a construct. This includes the fact that the view of history portrayed in the fiction has been either underrepresented or suppressed by official historiography. On the other hand, the history is then re-mythologized in that it becomes part of a pre-existing myth; its mythic elements are foregrounded, myth and magic are woven into the narrative, or it is portrayed as extraordinary in some way. The result is an empowering of these histories for the future; they are made larger than life and unforgettable.

The Bible and the American Myth Vincent L. Wimbush, 2012-03-01 The problem which this collection of essays addresses is rooted in the fact that no other society in the world is so imbued both with the aura and aroma of the Bible while simultaneously subjecting it to such parasitic cultural captivity This little book reflects the power of what can happen when bright passionate minds embrace the problem of the American myth No other American biblical scholar until now has responded more courageously to the issues of deconstructing the American myth What finally matters here is that a theologian finally loves the Bible enough and finally loves his culture enough to question how both are being used in our time and place for the gain of the few at the expense of the many Charles Mabee StABH series editor

Stories of the Middle Space Deborah C. Bowen, 2010 Postmodernism's critics often accuse the movement of being dangerously amoral because of its apparent wariness of concepts such as truth ethics and justice Stories of the Middle Space explores the possibility of postmodernism with a conscience and examines a variety of British and Canadian postmodern fiction to show how twentieth century critical theory can be brought into fruitful dialogue with a faith based perspective Highlighting the wide variety of ethical concerns considered by writers such as Timothy Findley Thomas King Carol Shields Julian Barnes A S Byatt and Salman Rushdie Deborah Bowen makes the case for a new category of postmodern realism and shows how contemporary stories about the real and the good are constructed Applying theoretical insights from Emmanuel Levinas and Mikhail Bakhtin Bowen investigates categories of postmodern realism such as magic realism parody and metafiction while laying the groundwork for Christian readings of a medium that is often perceived as largely irreligious An illuminating study of well known contemporary writers Stories of the Middle Space is a critically nuanced and methodologically innovative work that reads the postmodern from a faith based perspectives to create new literary insights Deborah Bowen addresses the ethical concerns of a wide variety of postmodern fiction from a faith based perspective that engages with the decentred discourses of post structuralism She suggests that a focus on the middle space between language and the world not only provides new insights into the construction of the real and the notion of a good story but also resituates the possibility of Christian reading in a largely post Christian era

The Cry for Myth Rollo May, 1991-05-01 Here are case studies in which myths have helped Dr May's patients make sense out of an often senseless world It happens almost daily in a therapist's office A patient recalling a person an event an emotion quite unexpectedly supplies a link from a life in the present to one of the durable myths of our culture In this moment the myth becomes a mirror revealing to the patient the source of disturbance and pain in a pattern of behavior that often stretches a year or longer The healing process begins The myth eternity breaking into time in Rollo Mays s words becomes the focal point of recovery Through tracing myths whether from classical Greece and Dante s Middle Ages European legend Faust and the prototype of Sleeping Beauty or contemporary American life Jay Gatsby and relating them to the dreams and associations he encounters in his own practice Dr May provides meaning and structure for all who seek direction in a morally confusing world In this perhaps the finest achievement of a great therapist Rollo May writes with the grace wit and style for which he recently received the Gold Medal
