God, the Bible, and Human Consciousness N. Clasby,2008-05-12 This study offers a reading that avoids both literalism and sociological reductionism through a study of the Bible s intricate patterns of imagery It will appeal to thoughtful people dissatisfied with the religious status quo and looking for a new intellectual starting point

Jungian Theory for Storytellers Helena Bassil-Morozow,2018-04-24 Jungian Theory for Storytellers is a toolkit for anyone using Jungian archetypes to create stories in fiction TV film video games documentaries poetry and many other media It contains a detailed classification of the archetypes with relevant examples and explains how they work in different types of narratives. Importantly, Bassil Morozow explores archetypes and their significance in characterization, individuation, plot, and story building. Bassil Morozow also presents an overview of Jung's thoughts on creativity and other Jungian concepts including the unconscious, ego, persona, and self, and the individuation process, and shows how they are linked to conflict. The book provides an explanation of relevant Jungian terms for a non-Jungian audience and introduces the idea of the hero's journey with examples included throughout. Accessibly written yet academic, both practical and engaging, and written with a non-Jungian audience in mind, Jungian Theory for Storytellers is an ideal source for writers and screenwriters of all backgrounds, including academics and teachers who want to use Jungian theory in their work or are seeking to understand relevant Jungian ideas. Screen, Culture, Psyche

John Izod, 2016-02-04. Screen Culture Psyche illuminates recent developments in Jungian modes of media analysis and illustrates how psychoanalytic theories have been adapted to allow for the interpretation of films and television programmes employing Post-Jungian methods in the deep reading of a whole range of films. Readings of this kind can demonstrate the way that some films bear the psychological projections not only of their makers but of their audience and assess the manner in which films engage the writer's own psyche. Seeking to go beyond existing theories, John Izod explores the question of whether Jungian screen analysis can work for ordinary filmgoers, can what functions for the scholar be said to be true for people without a background in Jung's ideas. Through detailed readings of a number of films and programmes, John Izod builds on the work previously done by Jungian film analysts and moves on to contemplate the level of audience engagement. Offering deep readings of films directed by Kubrick and Bernardo Bertolucci as well as satirical comedy documentaries and twenty-first century Westerns, the book explores the extent to which they manage to make the psychological impact on spectators that films of a similar kind have done on Jungian writers. The author concludes that the screen texts with the best likelihood of impacting the culture of the audience through their collective psychological force fall at opposite ends of the size and budget range: highly personal documentaries and the most affecting of mainstream genre movies. This innovative text will be essential reading for psychoanalysts and therapists as well as students and scholars of film with an interest in understanding how screen products work psychologically to engage the viewer. Jungian Film Studies

Helena Bassil-Morozow, Luke Hockley, 2016-11-25. Jungian film studies is a fast-growing academic field, but Jungian and post-Jungian concepts are still new to many academics and film critics. Helena Bassil Morozow and Luke Hockley present Jungian Film Studies: The Essential Guide, the first book to bring together all the different strands, issues, and arguments in the discipline and guide the reader through the various ways in which Jungian psychology can be applied to moving images. Bassil Morozow and Hockley cover a range of Jungian concepts, including the collective unconscious, archetypes, the individuation process, alchemy, and signs and symbols, showing how they can be used to discuss the core cinematic issues such as narrative structure, gender, identity, genre, authorship, and phenomenology. The authors argue that as a place where the unconscious and conscious meet cinema offers the potential for imagery that is psychologically potent meaningful and that plays a role in our personal psychological development This much needed book which bridges the space between Jungian concepts and traditional film theory will be essential reading for scholars and students of Analytical Psychology psychoanalysis Jungian film studies media film and cultural studies psychosocial psychology and clinical psychology It will also appeal to analytical psychologists psychotherapists and readers with an interest in film analysis
