IEEE international radar conference

Stouffer's National Center Inn, Arlington,
Washington, USA
28th-30th April 1980

Some 600 delegates from all over the world gathered at Stouffer's National Center Inn for the singularly successful 1980 Radar Conference. The venue was well suited to a major conference, with two spacious conference halls for the accommodation of parallel sessions. An information desk, a coffee room and a library (with all the recent radar conference records) were continuously open. As an innovation, a calculator clinic was held in which a number of workers presented useful routines for programmable hand-held calculators; for example, a program for predicting detection coverage diagrams.

The delegates were welcomed to the Conference by the General Chairman, R.T.Hill, who drew attention to the continuity of this series of IEE/IEEE International Radar Conferences; a series which began in 1973 with a conference held every 2½ years — the venue alternating between the US and the UK. Some other large international conferences are also considered to be associated with the series, including the SEE (French) Radar Conference and the Military Microwave series of conferences. The guest speaker at the opening ceremony was Leo Young (NRL) who first clarified for the audience that he was not the Leo Young of NRL who was a pioneer of radar in the 1930s! Dr. Young drew attention to two aspects of engineering in Europe for which he thought the US should take serious note. In France there is an engineer in the Cabinet, an IEEE member no less, and it is his declared intention to place a minicomputer in every French classroom. The second item is the Eurocon event, held every three years, which Dr. Young thought highly significant, and he reminded the delegates that Stuttgart 1982 is next on the schedule. He also welcomed the official delegation from the People's Republic of China.

Industry panel

David Barton moderated the first panel which was composed of Prof. M. H. Carpentier (Thomson-CSF, France), H. Ebert (AEG-Telefunken, FRG), T. I. Paganelli [GE (Syracuse), USA], R.N. Longuemare [WECO (Baltimore), USA], N. Yaru [Hughes (Fullerton), USA] and H.G. van Rinkhuyzen (HSA, Netherlands). Dr. Barton reminded the audience that there had been a large gap in major radar conferences from the IEE Radiolocation Conference in 1946 to the 'Radar past, present and future' Conference in 1973; this had been partly filled by the publication of the MIT Radiation Laboratory Series. Nevertheless from all the published material in the conferences and in the open literature it is clear that radar is not a mature art; there is still considerable potential for improvements.

Prof. Carpentier was the first speaker and gave a stimulating talk. He said that the development of component technology is now proceeding quite fast both in semi-conductors and microwaves; the main thrusts are in density and speed. In operational equipments there are already m.o.s. l.s.i. 16K r.a.m.s., and the 64K r.a.m. will soon be with us. Will the 1M r.a.m. be here in 1985? Then the entire output of a whole radar scan could be stored in only 1000 chips [considering a panoramic radar of 4 MHz bandwidth, 10-bit digitisation (I and Q) and 12 r.p.m. scan rate]. This would open up new possibilities in signal processing. Certainly several processing iterations over the same stored data should be considered. Improved speeds in signal processors allows the processing of wideband signals, and then account can be taken of specific target signatures; possibilities to be considered are

- (i) resolution of targets against competing backgrounds
- (ii) target identification
- (iii) sensitivity improvement, by matching to specific signatures
- (iv) comparison of return with a library of signatures

Dr. Ebert thought that the various goals for the immediate future should be programmable and reconfigurable signal processing for use in radar plot extraction, extension of the application of computers and multicomputer networks, high-mobility radars for military applications and the use of multistatic configurations so as to avoid the detection of receivers by the enemy. In working towards these goals, radar designers must be familiar with both hardware and software.

Mr. Longuemare opened his address by stating that the key technologies and techniques to be considered are low sidelobe antennas, adaptive antennas, high-resolution waveforms, motion compensated s.a.r., solid-state power, tracking multiple targets, target signatures and automatic data handling with large data bases. The price per pound (0.455 kg) of radars (at 1978 dollars) appears to have remained constant in the $1000 to $2000 region. Nevertheless he foresaw a trend in the 1980s of increasing emphasis on lower costs and, because of their impact on the cost of ownership, similar emphasis on maintainability and reliability. Other areas of interest are expected to be solid-state power generation, modular and programmable systems, electronic scanning where appropriate, field deployment of adaptive systems, v.h.s.i.c. technology and GaAs signal-processing technology.

Dr. Yaru put forward the view that the persistent problems will be clutter, jamming and vulnerability. The radar community must therefore address quiet radars, phased arrays and decoy radars. In the antenna fields the goals are first sidelobes of -40dB and average sidelobes of -60dB. In transmission characteristics, high-duty ratios should be adopted with l.p.i. (low probability of intercept) coding such as maximal length and shift-register digital sequences; this is consistent with solid-state power generation. The waveform could be adaptive and power management should be exercised. Some tactical radars will use millimetre-waves but for the long-range radars (>100nm) the use of L-, S- and C-bands will continue. Mobility is considered an

Radar 2002 15 17 October 2002 Iee Conference Proceedings Introduction

In this digital age, the convenience of accessing information at our fingertips has become a necessity. Whether its research papers, eBooks, or user manuals, PDF files have become the preferred format for sharing and reading documents. However, the cost associated with purchasing PDF files can sometimes be a barrier for many individuals and organizations. Thankfully, there are numerous websites and platforms that allow users to download free PDF files legally. In this article, we will explore some of the best platforms to download free PDFs. One of the most popular platforms to download free PDF files is Project Gutenberg. This online library offers over 60,000 free eBooks that are in the public domain. From classic literature to historical documents, Project Gutenberg provides a wide range of PDF files that can be downloaded and enjoyed on various devices. The website is user-friendly and allows users to search for specific titles or browse through different categories. Another reliable platform for downloading Radar 2002 15 17 October 2002 Iee Conference Proceedings free PDF files is Open Library. With its vast collection of over 1 million eBooks, Open Library has something for every reader. The website offers a seamless experience by providing options to borrow or download PDF files. Users simply need to create a free account to access this treasure trove of knowledge. Open Library also allows users to contribute by uploading and sharing their own PDF files, making it a collaborative platform for book enthusiasts. For those interested in academic resources, there are websites dedicated to providing free PDFs of research papers and scientific articles. One such website is Academia.edu, which allows researchers and scholars to share their work with a global audience. Users can download PDF files of research papers, theses, and dissertations covering a wide range of subjects. Academia.edu also provides a platform for discussions and networking within the academic community. When it comes to downloading Radar 2002 15 17 October 2002 Iee Conference Proceedings free PDF files of magazines, brochures, and catalogs, Issuu is a popular choice. This digital publishing platform hosts a vast collection of publications from around the world. Users can search for specific titles or explore various categories and genres. Issuu offers a seamless reading experience with its user-friendly interface and allows users to download PDF files for offline reading. Apart from dedicated platforms, search engines also play a crucial role in finding free PDF files. Google, for instance, has an advanced search feature that allows users to filter results by file type. By specifying the file type as "PDF," users can find websites that offer free PDF downloads on a specific topic. While downloading Radar 2002 15 17 October 2002 Iee Conference Proceedings free PDF files is convenient, its important to note that copyright laws must be respected. Always ensure that the PDF files you download are legally available for free. Many authors and publishers voluntarily provide free PDF versions of their work, but its essential to be cautious and verify the authenticity of the source before downloading Radar 2002 15 17 October 2002 Iee Conference Proceedings. In conclusion, the internet offers numerous platforms and websites that allow users to download free PDF files legally. Whether its classic literature, research papers, or magazines, there is something for everyone. The platforms mentioned in this article, such as Project Gutenberg, Open Library, Academia.edu, and Issuu, provide access to a vast collection of PDF files. However, users should always be cautious and verify the legality of the source before downloading Radar 2002 15 17 October 2002 Iee Conference Proceedings any PDF files. With these platforms, the world of PDF downloads is just a click away.

FAQs About Radar 2002 15 17 October 2002 Iee Conference Proceedings Books

How do I know which eBook platform is the best for me? Finding the best eBook platform depends on your reading preferences and device compatibility. Research different platforms, read user reviews, and explore their features before making a choice. Are free eBooks of good quality? Yes, many reputable platforms offer high-quality free eBooks, including classics and public domain works. However, make sure to verify the source to ensure the eBook credibility. Can I read eBooks without an eReader? Absolutely! Most eBook platforms offer webbased readers or mobile apps that allow you to read eBooks on your computer, tablet, or smartphone. How do I avoid digital eye strain while reading eBooks? To prevent digital eye strain, take regular breaks, adjust the font size and background color, and ensure proper lighting while reading eBooks. What the advantage of interactive eBooks? Interactive eBooks incorporate multimedia elements, quizzes, and activities, enhancing the reader engagement and providing a more immersive learning experience. Radar 2002 15 17 October 2002 Iee Conference Proceedings is one of the best book in our library for free trial.
