

THE DEFENSE PRODUCTION ACT

1

The Defense Production Act (DPA) was enacted during the Korean War, and has been invoked several times since.

2

Past administrations have used the law while waging military and cyber combat.

3

Governors and others had been imploring Trump to use the law to speed production of much-needed hospital equipment, but until late Friday, Trump said the mere threat of the law was enough to persuade companies to act.

4

After some harsh words with General Motors on Friday, Trump cited the DPA in ordering the company to start making ventilators.

5

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce had urged Trump not to use the DPA's full powers that give industries no choice but to act.
