

It may be pointed that a careful scrutiny of the Vedic texts, especially of the Upaniṣads — e.g. Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad — reveals the presence of particular spiritual ideas interspersed with Vedic thoughts; for instance, some Upaniṣads refer to certain secret vidyās (rahasya vidyā) such as madhu vidyā, dahara vidyā and the like, which are indicative of the presence of Āgamic ideas mixed with the dominant Vedic thought. In those days, these secret vidyās were popular with select groups of spiritual practitioners who were interested more in pursuing the path of spiritual discipline (sādhana) than in understanding the metaphysical thoughts of the Upaniṣads. That is why no detailed description of these vidyās occurs in the Upaniṣads.

Many scholars believe that the Atharvaveda is the source from which the Āgamic thought current emanated. This may or may not be true, but it is an acknowledged fact that there is a profusion of descriptions of occult practices which testify to the affinity between Vedic and Āgamic thought.

So far as the origin of Śaivism is concerned, there is some evidence to prove the existence of a nascent form of a Śaiva cult in the Rgveda and Yajurveda. A mantra in Sūkta 136 of Maṇḍala X of the Rgveda refers to a seer named Keśin who was probably a leader of a sect which bore a resemblance to that of Śaiva sannyāsins. It is said that members of this sect wore ochre-coloured cloth and moved from place to place while semi-naked. They would sometimes drink viṣa, not soma, with the Vedic god Rudra. Some scholars think that this Rudra represents the Śiva of a later date, on the basis of certain characteristic epithets used for him which appear to be more appropriate to Śiva than to any other God.

The Śatarudrīya portion of the Yajurveda,² while enumerating one hundred names of Rudra, depicts him as both saviour and destroyer. This description of the Vedic Rudra is so similar to the description of the Paurāṇika Śiva that scholars unhesitatingly identify them as one.

Saiva Rituals And Philosophy:

Saiva Rituals and Philosophy, 2001 Proceedings of the seminar organized by the Kuppaswami Sastri Research Institute 24-26 July 1992 at Chennai Ritual in an Oscillating Universe Richard H. Davis, 2014-07-14 Saiva liturgy is performed in a world that oscillates a world permeated by the presence of Siva where humans live in a condition of bondage and where the highest aim of the soul is to attain liberation from its fetters In this account of Indian temple ritual Richard Davis uses medieval Hindu texts to describe the world as it is envisioned by Saiva siddhanta and the way daily worship reflects and acts within that world He argues that this worship is not simply a set of ritualized gestures but rather a daily catechism in which the worshiper puts into action all the major themes of Saiva philosophy the cyclic pattern of cosmic emission and reabsorption the human path of attaining liberation the manifestation of divinity in the world and the proper interrelationship of humanity and god In re-creating the convictions and intentions of a well-versed worshiper of the twelfth century Davis moves back and forth between philosophical and ritual texts demonstrating the fundamental Saiva belief that the capacities of humans to know about the world and to act within it are two inter-related modalities of the unitary power of consciousness Originally published in 1991 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print-on-demand technology to again make available previously out-of-print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Saiva Rituals and Philosophy S. S. Janaki, 2001 Mythologies and Philosophies of Salvation in the Theistic Traditions of India Klaus K. Klostermaier, 2006-01-01 Based on exhaustive reference to primary source material this volume explores the relationships between religious mythologies and religious philosophical systems within the theistic traditions in India Not content merely to explore these relationships the author further examines the relevance of mythology and philosophy in a discussion of salvation salvation understood in its sociological eschatological and philosophical senses The treatment of myth and philosophy is comprehensive in scope pulling together a great variety of sources and commentary and illuminating them for the Western reader This study will be of interest both to students of Indian religions and to students of comparative religion interested in creating a context for the discussion of Eastern and Western religions An Introduction to Indian Philosophy Christopher Bartley, 2011-01-20 This textbook introduces students to the full range of Indian philosophical thought Saiva Siddhanta, 1984 Ritual and Speculation in Early Tantrism Teun Goudriaan, 1992-05-14 This book illustrates the extent to which we can understand the writings of the leading tantrikas whose views regarding the universe and enlightenment developed from ritual practice and yoga Contributors to this anthology include Helene Brunner Gudrun Buhneemann Richard H. liturgy is performed in a world that oscillates a world permeated by the presence of Siva where humans live in a condition of bondage and where the highest aim of the soul is to attain liberation from its fetters In this account of Indian temple ritual Richard Davis uses medieval Hindu texts to describe the world as it is envisioned by Saiva siddhanta and the way daily worship reflects that world and acts within it He argues that this worship is not simply a set of ritualized gestures but rather a daily catechism in which the worshiper puts into action all the major themes of cosmic Saiva philosophy the cyclic pattern of emission and reabsorption the human path of attaining liberation the manifestation of divinity in the world and the proper interrelationship of humanity and god In re creating the convictions and intentions of a well versed worshiper of the twelfth century Davis moves back and forth between philosophical and ritual texts demonstrating the fundamental Saiva belief that the capacities of humans to know about the world and to act within it are two interrelated modalities of the unitary power of consciousness Mosaic of Mysteries Antra, 2024-09-09 Mosaic of Mysteries is a collection of ten immersive tales that delve into the mysteries of reality identity and memory From a young artist rediscovering her passion in a bustling city to a journalist uncovering a lost village s secrets and a teenager navigating alternate universes and cosmic conflicts each story hidden truths offering a rich tapestry of experiences that challenge perceptions and inspire personal growth
