Salmon Flash Silver In Her Net:

Salmon Flash Silver in Her Net, 1984 Forest and Stream, 1916 Calyx, 1986 Not on My Watch Alexandra Morton, 2021-03-23 NATIONAL BESTSELLER Alexandra Morton has been called the Jane Goodall of Canada because of her passionate thirty year fight to save British Columbia's wild salmon Her account of that fight is both inspiring in its own right and a roadmap of resistance Alexandra Morton came north from California in the early 1980s following her first love the northern resident orca In remote Echo Bay in the Broughton Archipelago she found the perfect place to settle into all she had ever dreamed of a lifetime of observing and learning what these big brained mammals are saying to each other She was lucky enough to get there just in time to witness a place of true natural abundance and learned how to thrive in the wilderness as a scientist and a single mother Then in 1989 industrial aquaculture moved into the region chasing the whales away Her fisherman neighbours asked her if she would write letters on their behalf to government explaining the damage the farms were doing to the fisheries and one thing led to another Soon Alex had shifted her scientific focus to documenting the infectious diseases and parasites that pour from the ocean farm pens of Atlantic salmon into the migration routes of wild Pacific salmon and then to proving their disastrous impact on wild salmon and the entire ecosystem of the coast Alex stood against the farms first representing her community then alone and at last as part of an uprising that built around her as ancient Indigenous governance resisted a province and a country that wouldn't obey their own court rulings She has used her science many acts of protest and the legal system in her unrelenting efforts to save wild salmon and ultimately the whales a story that reveals her own doggedness and bravery but also shines a bright light on the ways other humans doggedly resist the truth Here she brilliantly calls those humans to account for the sake of us all Made of Salmon Nancy Lord, 2016-05-15 All over the world salmon populations are in trouble as overfishing and habitat loss have combined to put the once great Atlantic and Pacific Northwest runs at serious risk Alaska however stands out as a rare success story its salmon populations remain strong and healthy the result of years of careful management and conservation programs that are rooted in a shared understanding of the importance of the fish to the life culture and history of the state Made of Salmon brings together more than fifty diverse Alaska voices to celebrate the salmon and its place in Alaska life A mix of words and images the book interweaves longer works by some of Alaska's finest writers with shorter more anecdotal accounts and stunning photographs of Alaskans fishing for catching preserving and eating salmon throughout the state A love letter to a fish that has been central to Alaska life for centuries Made of Salmon is a reminder of the stakes of this great ongoing conservation battle The Big Fir Marvin James, 2024-02-02 The Big Fir chronicles the epic journey of one of the world's last towering trees rooted in history since the Battle of Hastings in 1066 AD and now facing the roar of modern chainsaws Set against the rugged beauty of British Columbia's west coast this tale oscillates between the boardrooms of colossal forestry conglomerates and the breathtaking landscapes of the world's last untouched temperate watersheds Delve into a world where ambition clashes with preservation where greed passion enmity and love intertwine all set against the backdrop of a habitat as vast as Kuwait teetering on the brink of change Small Press Record of Books in Print Len Fulton,1994

My Story as Told by Water David James Duncan,2002-08 Offers a loving tribute to the landscape plants and animals of his native Montana Eating to Extinction Dan Saladino,2022-02-01 A New York Times Book Review Editors Choice What Saladino finds in his adventures are people with soul deep relationships to their food This is not the decadence or the preciousness we might associate with a word like foodie but a form of reverence Enchanting Molly Young The New York Times Dan Saladino s Eating to Extinction is the prominent broadcaster s pathbreaking tour of the world s vanishing foods and his argument for why they matter now more than ever Over the past several decades globalization has homogenized what we eat and done so ruthlessly The numbers are stark Of the roughly six thousand different plants once consumed by human beings only nine remain major staples today Just three of these rice wheat and corn now provide fifty percent of all our calories Dig deeper and the trends are more worrisome still The source of much of the world s food seeds is mostly in the control of just four corporations Ninety five percent of milk consumed in the United States comes from a single breed of cow Half of all the world s cheese is made with bacteria or enzymes made by one company And one in four beers drunk around the world is the product of one brewer If it strikes you that everything is starting to taste the same wherever you are in the world you re by no means alone This matters when we lose diversity and foods become endangered we not only risk the loss of traditional foodways but also of flavors smells and textures that may never be experienced again And the consolidation of our food has other steep costs including a lack of resilience in the face of climate change pests and parasites Our food monoculture is a threat to our health and to the planet In Eating to Extinction the distinguished BBC food journalist Dan Saladino travels the world to experience and document our most at risk foods before it s too late He tells the fascinating stories of the people who continue to cultivate forage hunt cook and consume what the rest of us have forgotten or didn t even know existed Take honey not the familiar product sold in plastic bottles but the wild honey gathered by the Hadza people of East Africa whose diet consists of eight hundred different plants and animals and who communicate with birds in order to locate bees nests Or consider murnong once the staple food of Aboriginal Australians this small root vegetable with the sweet taste of coconut is undergoing a revival after nearly being driven to extinction And in Sierra Leone there are just a few surviving stenophylla trees a plant species now considered crucial to the future of coffee From an Indigenous American chef refining precolonial recipes to farmers tending Geechee red peas on the Sea Islands of Georgia the individuals profiled in Eating to Extinction are essential guides to treasured foods that have endured in the face of rampant sameness and standardization They also provide a roadmap to a food system that is healthier more robust and above all richer in flavor and meaning From the Sea (Picador Shorts) Dan Saladino,2025-06-10 A captivating tour through some of our most cherished marine food traditions and the danger of extinction that they increasingly face in today s world In this standalone extract from Eating to Extinction the distinguished BBC food journalist Dan Saladino travels the world to experience and document our most at risk foods from the sea before it's too late. From exploring the curious case of the wild Scottish salmon and its tumultuous history to observing the elaborate and highly ritualized process of making Japanese shio katsu that prized form of dried skipjack tuna to learning about the artisanal production of dried mullet roe by the Imraguen in Mauritania the ocean foodways Saladino profiles here are essential guides to treasured foods the rest of us have forgotten or didn't know existed. Throughout these original and grippingly written chapters Saladino shows us that when foods become endangered we risk the loss of not only traditional foodways but also flavors smells and textures that may never be experienced again. And he also shows how endangering stocks of at risk fish comes with the added loss of the human cultures that are tied together with them and the greater dangers that overfishing poses to marine ecosystems at large. From the Sea is part of the Picador Shorts series Oceans Rivers and Streams in which excerpts from beloved classics speak to our relationship with our water bodies great and small.
