Race And The Archaeology Of Identity:

Race and the Archaeology of Identity Charles E. Orser, 2001 Race is not a subject most people associate with archaeological research Yet because of archaeologists interest in long time spans they are perfectly positioned to investigate the naturalness of racial designations through time Race and the Archaeology of Identity brings together twelve of America s most perceptive and talented historical archaeologists Their focus is on the recent archaeological record stretching geographically from Jamaica to northern Michigan their time frame is from colonial days to the late nineteenth century and their subjects range from frontier fur traders to Victorian city dwellers Using textual and archaeological sources contributors explore such topics as the connections of race to economics the creation and maintenance of institutionalized poverty the role of race in structuring and guiding intercultural connections and the importance of race in creating and defining space Contributors explore such topics as the connections of race to economics the role of race in structuring and guiding intercultural connections and the importance of race in creating and defining space

The Archaeology of Ethnicity Siân Jones, 2002-11 The question of ethnicity is highly controversial in contemporary archaeology The author responds to the need for a reassessment of the ways in which social groups are identified in the archeological record

Race and Practice in Archaeological Interpretation Charles E. Orser, Jr., 2013-04-19 Scholars who investigate race a label based upon real or perceived physical differences realize that they face a formidable task The concept has been contested and condoned debated and denied throughout modern history Presented with the full understanding of the complexity of the issue Race and Practice in Archaeological Interpretation concentrates on the archaeological analysis of race and how race is determined in the archaeological record Most archaeologists even those dealing with recent history have usually avoided the subject of race yet Charles E Orser Jr contends that its study and its implications are extremely important for the science of archaeology Drawing upon his considerable experience as an archaeologist and using a combination of practice theory as interpreted by Pierre Bourdieu and spatial theory as presented by Henri Lefebvre Orser argues for an explicit archaeology of race and its interpretation The author reviews past archaeological usages of race including a case study from early nineteenth century Ireland and explores the way race was used to form ideas about the Mound Builders the Celts and Atlantis He concludes with a proposal that historical archaeology cast as modern world archaeology should take the lead in the archaeological analysis of race because its purview is the recent past that period during which our conceptions of race developed Archaeology of Identity and Dissonance Diane F. George, Bernice Kurchin, 2019-01-21 This book employs the discipline of historical archaeology to study this process as it occurs in new and challenging environments It tackles these questions not only in multiple dimensions of earthly space but also in a panorama of historical time The book seeks to make the study of the past relevant to our globalized post colonized and capitalized world The Materiality of Individuality Carolyn L. White, 2009-08-15 Generally individuals in history are known for a particular reason they somehow influenced history Very little is known about the ordinary person who lived in the past But historical archaeologists through their interpretation of the material culture and historic record can study the past on an individual level This brings archaeological interpretation from a micro to a macro level as opposed to the traditional level of society to community to individual interpretation The cases presented in this volume engage material culture that is owned or used by a single person and is thus associated with an individual at some point in its use life The volume takes bodkins shoes beads cloth religious items grave goods as well as subassemblages from well defined contexts from New England the Chesapeake New Orleans Hawaii Spanish colonial America and London in the pursuit of the individual and the textured interpretation this analytical scale provides This volume promises to present innovative approaches to a host of archaeological materials drawing widely on the range of archaeological research for the historical period today Capitalizing on several topics and research threads with great currency such as the examination of material culture and interest in various and intersecting lines of identity construction as well as presenting an international and multiregional approach to these topics this volume will be of interest to archaeologists anthropologists material culture scholars and social historians interested in a wide variety of time periods and subfields Contemporary Archaeology in Theory Robert W. Preucel, Stephen A. Mrozowski, 2011-10-04 The second edition of Contemporary Archaeology in Theory The New Pragmatism has been thoroughly updated and revised and features top scholars who redefine the theoretical and political agendas of the field and challenge the usual distinctions between time space processes and people Defines the relevance of archaeology and the social sciences more generally to the modern world Challenges the traditional boundaries between prehistoric and historical archaeologies Discusses how archaeology articulates such contemporary topics and issues as landscape and nature's agency meaning and practice sexuality embodiment and personhood race class and ethnicity materiality memory and historical silence colonialism nationalism and empire heritage patrimony and social justice media museums and publics Examines the influence of American pragmatism on archaeology Offers 32 new chapters by leading archaeologists and cultural anthropologists The Archaeology of Ethnicity Siân Jones, 2002-11-01 The question of ethnicity is highly controversial in contemporary archaeology Indigenous and nationalist claims to territory often rely on reconstructions of the past based on the traditional identification of cultures from archaeological remains Siân Jones responds to the need for a reassessment of the ways in which social groups are identified in the archaeological record with a comprehensive and critical synthesis of recent theories of ethnicity in the human sciences In doing so she argues for a fundamentally different view of ethnicity as a complex dynamic form of identification requiring radical changes in archaeological analysis and interpretation The Magic Children Roger C. Echo-Hawk, 2010-09 This provocative book confronts the fallacy of race and American Indian racialism and challenges us to move American culture policy and scholarship beyond race The Archaeology of Ethnogenesis Barbara L. Voss, 2008-02-05 This innovative work of historical archaeology illuminates the genesis of the Californios a community of military settlers who forged a new identity on the northwest edge of Spanish North America Since 1993 Barbara L Voss has conducted archaeological excavations at the Presidio of San Francisco founded by Spain during its colonization of California's central coast Her research at the Presidio forms the basis for this rich study of cultural identity formation or ethnogenesis among the diverse peoples who came from widespread colonized populations to serve at the Presidio Through a close investigation of the landscape architecture ceramics clothing and other aspects of material culture she traces shifting contours of race and sexuality in colonial California International Handbook of Historical Archaeology Teresita Majewski, David Gaimster, 2009-06-07 In studying the past archaeologists have focused on the material remains of our ancestors Prehistorians generally have only artifacts to study and rely on the diverse material record for their understanding of past societies and their behavior Those involved in studying historically documented cultures not only have extensive material remains but also contemporary texts images and a range of investigative technologies to enable them to build a broader and more reflexive picture of how past societies communities and individuals operated and behaved Increasingly historical archaeology refers not to a particular period place or a method but rather an approach that interrogates the tensions between artifacts and texts irrespective of context In short historical archaeology provides direct evidence for how humans have shaped the world we live in today Historical archaeology is a branch of global archaeology that has grown in the last 40 years from its North American base into an increasingly global community of archaeologists each studying their area of the world in a historical context Where historical archaeology started as part of the study of the post Columbian societies of the United States and Canada it has now expanded to interface with the post medieval archaeologies of Europe and the diverse post imperial experiences of Africa Latin America and Australasia The 36 essays in the International Handbook of Historical Archaeology have been specially commissioned from the leading researchers in their fields creating a wide ranging digest of the increasingly global field of historical archaeology The volume is divided into two sections the first reviewing the key themes issues and approaches of historical archaeology today and the second containing a series of case studies charting the development and current state of historical archaeological practice around the world This key reference work captures the energy and diversity of this global discipline today

Social Identity in Early Medieval Britain William O. Frazer, Andrew Tyrell, 2001-01-01 Social identity is a concept of increasing importance in the social sciences Here the concept is applied to the often atheoretical realm of medieval studies Each contributor focuses on a particular topic of early medieval identity ethnicity national identity social location subjectivity personhood political organization kinship the body gender age proximity regionality memory and ideological systems The result is a pioneering vision of medieval social identity and a challenge to some of the received general wisdoms about this period

Ethnic Negotiations Eric D. Barreto, 2010 slightly revised version of a doctoral dissertation Emory University on April 12 2010 p v

Evolutionary and Interpretive Archaeologies Andrew Gardner, 2011-06 This collection of original articles compares various key archaeological topics agency violence social groups diffusion from evolutionary and interpretive perspectives These two strands represent the major current theoretical poles in the discipline By comparing and contrasting the insights they provide into major archaeological themes this volume demonstrates the importance of theoretical frameworks in archaeological interpretations Chapter authors discuss relevant Darwinian or interpretive theory with short archaeological and anthropological case studies to illustrate the substantive conclusions produced The book will advance debate and contribute to a better understanding of the goals and research strategies that comprise these distinct research traditions

Identities in Antiquity Joseph Skinner, Vicky Manolopoulou, Christina Tsouparopoulou, 2025-06-30 Identities in Antiquity is a multi disciplinary platform for the synthetic study of ancient identities set in a more rounded and inclusive notion of antiquity The volume showcases methodological and theoretical approaches to the study of ancient identities by scholars from different disciplinary backgrounds and career stages In doing so it promotes a more holistic approach to the study of ancient identities facilitating comparisons between different periods and disciplines and generating new knowledge in the process Chapters illustrating the intersecting multifaceted and mutable or else highly immutable nature of ancient identities address themes such as ethnicity race gender mobility religion and elite and sub elite identities most notably that of the enslaved in case studies spanning the ancient Mediterranean world and beyond from the third millennium BCE until the early Middle Ages The volume is suitable for students and scholars working on the Ancient Near East the Graeco Roman Worlds Late Antiquity and Byzantium offering a valuable contribution to the study of past identities and the internal workings of ancient societies

Slavery Before Race Katherine Howlett Hayes, 2014-05-22 The study of slavery in the Americas generally assumes a basic racial hierarchy Africans or those of African descent are usually the slaves and white people usually the slaveholders In this unique interdisciplinary work of historical archaeology anthropologist Katherine Hayes draws on years of fieldwork on Shelter Island and Sylvester Manor to demonstrate how racial identity was constructed and lived before plantation slavery was racialized by the legal codification of races Using the historic Sylvester Manor Plantation site turned archaeological dig as a case study Hayes draws on artifacts and extensive archival material to present a rare picture of northern slavery on one of the North's first plantations There white settlers enslaved Africans and Native Americans worked side by side While each group played distinct roles on the Manor and in the larger plantation economy of which Shelter Island was part their close collaboration and cohabitation was essential for the Sylvester family's economic and political power in the Atlantic Northeast Through the lens of social memory and forgetting this study addresses the significance of Sylvester Manor's plantation history to American attitudes about diversity Indian land politics slavery and Jim Crow in tension with idealized visions of white colonial community Book jacket Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress, Library of Congress.
