Mary Slebor Faith In West Africa By Faith Biography Series:

Mary Slessor Ambassador, 2004-05 Perhaps the greatest thing that can be said of Mary Slessor is that she was a born missionary. From her earliest days her dream was to be a missionary and Calabar Nigeria was her mission field. The death of David Livingstone was the catalyst for her missionary call and in 1876 she went to the African mission field. Anywhere provided it be forward was one of her most famous sayings and summed up her life. She toiled for forty years in the heart of Nigeria constantly seeking new tribes and new people to reach with the gospel of Christ. She rescued hundreds of orphans from certain death, prevented wars between tribes, helped to heal the sick and spoke ceaselessly of the great love of God in sending Jesus Christ.

Mary Slessor Sam Wellman, 2006-01-01 In this Heroes of the Faith volume the reader is introduced to Mary Slessor who armed with a relentless Christian faith helped open up West Africa to healthy trade and to the Christian message while vehemently opposing human slavery.

Mary Slessor Sam Wellman, 2013-07-30 Mary Slessor grew up in Scotland in squalid poverty but she had a hero. He was her contemporary but much older countryman David Livingstone. Not only did Mary idolize him but she wanted also to find her calling in Africa. But Livingstone was fearless. Tiny Mary trembled with fear. Her father was the proverbial alcoholic terrorizing his family with drunken violence. Mary was so traumatized by fear and shame she dreaded men. She could not even speak in front of men. How could she emulate the great Livingstone? And when her chance came to go to West Africa how could she go to such a dangerous place? Buttressed by her faith and her hero's motto Always Forward Mary Slessor did go to Africa. She shed her demons. She alone of missionaries left their compound to live among the natives. She conducted church services. She educated children. She practiced medicine. She took in orphans. She alone of the white colonials could move about among the most feared natives of the Niger Delta area. They murdered twins as devil's children. They practiced human sacrifice. They had slaves. They punished with extreme cruelty. How could tiny Mary change that? But through her faith she did.

Mary Slessor of Calabar, Pioneer Missionary William Pringle Livingstone, 1916 Mary Mitchell Slessor December 2 1848 January 13 1915 born in Scotland was a United Presbyterian Church missionary to Nigeria Once in Nigeria Slessor began teaching and learned Efik the local language Because of her understanding of the native language and her bold personality Slessor gained the trust and acceptance of the locals and was able to spread Christianity while promoting women's rights and protecting native children. She is most famous for having stopped the common practice of infanticide of twins among the Ibibio people, an ethnic group in southeastern Nigeria. The White Queen of Okoyong William Pringle Livingstone, 1918 The White Queen of Okoyong William Pringle Livingstone, 1916 A Life of Faith Mai C. Stevens, 2021-04-22 This book is about Faith, a woman who had children when she was young and unmarried. Because of where and when she was born, young unmarried women with children were often ostracized and their chances of achieving a high school education, not to mention college education, were very slim. While a woman in her situation, only hope was marrying a man who would take care of her and her children; she took a different approach. Steadily and with a determined mind, she cultivated her independence inch by inch towards her passion for learning. She believed a good education would give her the leverage to shield herself from marriage as her only option to living. Against all odds and hardships that she experienced from early teenage years to young adulthood, she ultimately migrated from Liberia to the United States, went to school, and eventually earned advanced degrees. Her education dramatically improved her quality of life and boosted her self-confidence and self-worth. Faith is a model for young single mothers and fathers who are often overlooked and denigrated by society simply because they had children out of wedlock. With determination and strong faith in God while pursuing aims and aspirations, their dreams can also become realities.

Mary Slessor of Calabar W. P. Livingstone, 2018-08-24 A pioneering woman missionary hailing from Aberdeen in Scotland, Mary Slessor's journey to Nigeria set an example to all Christian missions; she gained the trust, respect, and thanks of the local peoples and introduced the gospel of Christ. Most notably from a social viewpoint, Slessor managed to convince the Ibibio tribespeople of southern Nigeria to cease killing infants who were twins. The tribes of the region held a belief that one of two twins is an evil spirit; to be certain the spirit was vanquished, both babies would be left to die of exposure in the countryside. Appalled at this practice, Mary Slessor found, rescued, and adopted many twins, seeing that the babies grew up to be healthy children, the tribes repented and ceased the abysmal practice. In the late 19th century and early 20th centuries, women's rights were inferior to those of men. Mary Slessor used her public profile to support the women's suffrage movement, which argued for political enfranchisement.
