Flemish and Dutch Artists in Early Modern England Mary Bryan H. Curd, 2017-07-05 By examining their production practices in a variety of genres including manuscript illustration glass painting and staining tapestry manufacture portrait painting and engraving this book explores how Netherlandish artists migrating to England in the early modern period overcame difficulties raised by their outsider status This study examines for the first time in this context the challenges of alien status to artistic production and the effectiveness of cooperation as a countermeasure The author demonstrates that collaboration was chief among the strategies that these foreigners chose to secure a position in London's changing art market Curd's exploration of these collaborations primarily follows Pierre Bourdieu's model of establishment and challenger in which dominance in a field of cultural production depends upon how much cultural political and economic capital can be accumulated and the effectiveness of the strategies used to confront competition The analysis presented here challenges received opinion that a collaborative work is only a joint effort of artists working together on a single monument by demonstrating that the participation of patrons and middlemen can also shape the final appearance of a work of art Furthermore this book shows that the strategic use of collaboration served the goal of competition by helping to establish foreign artists in the London art market and suggests that their coping strategies have implications for the study of immigrant behaviors today

Literature and Architecture in Early Modern England Anne M. Myers, 2013-01-01 Our built environment inspires writers to reflect on the human experience discover its history or make it up Buildings tell stories Castles country homes churches and monasteries are documents of the people who built them owned them lived and died in them inherited and saved or destroyed them and recorded their histories Literature and Architecture in Early Modern England examines the relationship between sixteenth and seventeenth century architectural and literary works By becoming more sensitive to the narrative functions of architecture Anne M Myers argues we begin to understand how a range of writers viewed and made use of the material built environment that surrounded the production of early modern texts in England Scholars have long found themselves in the position of excusing or explaining England's failure to achieve the equivalent of the Italian Renaissance in the visual arts Myers proposes that architecture inspired an unusual amount of historiographic and literary production including poetry drama architectural treatises and diaries Works by William Camden Henry Wotton Ben Jonson Andrew Marvell George Herbert Anne Clifford and John Evelyn when considered as a group are texts that overturn the engrained critical notion that a Protestant fear of idolatry sentenced the visual arts and architecture in England to a state of suspicion and neglect

Visions of British Culture from the Reformation to Romanticism Celestina Savonius-Wroth, 2022-01-17 This book is a major new contribution to the study of cultural identities in Britain and Ireland from the Reformation to Romanticism It provides a fresh perspective on the rise of interest in British vernacular or folk cultures which has often been elided with the emergence of British Romanticism and its Continental precursors Here the Romantics discovery of and admiration for vernacular traditions is placed in a longer historical timeline reaching back to the controversies sparked by the Protestant Reformation The book charts the emergence of a nuanced discourse about vernacular cultures developing in response to the Reformers devastating attack on customary practices and beliefs relating to the natural world seasonal festivities and rites of passage It became a discourse grounded in humanist Biblical and antiquarian scholarship informed by the theological and pastoral problems of the long period of religious instability after the Reformation and over the course of the eighteenth century colored by new ideas about culture drawn from Enlightenment historicism and empiricism This study shows that Romantic literary primitivism and Romantic social thought both radical and conservative grew out of this rich context It will be welcomed by historians of early modern and eighteenth century Britain and those interested in the study of religious and vernacular cultures Catalogue of the Library of the Great Seal Patent Office: Titles Great Britain. Patent Office. Library,1857 Gender Inequality in the

Ordained Ministry of the Church of England Alex D.J. Fry,2023-09-14 This book offers a fresh social scientific analysis of how theologically conservative male clergy respond to the ordination of women to the priesthood and their consecration as bishops within the Church of England The question of women s place in the formal structures of England s Established Church remains contested For many to prevent women from occupying such offices is often understood to be a matter of inequality whereas those who oppose their ordination see it as a matter of obedience to God s will Tensions have become heightened in a culture that increasingly promotes the rights of individuals who have historically been marginalised and that challenges traditional social roles This volume explores the gender attitudes held by clergy in the Anglo Catholic and evangelical traditions of the Church and considers how these gender attitudes shape the way they think about women s ordination and how they interact with female colleagues It also considers the contribution of a range of social phenomena to the formation of these gender attitudes The author draws on and develops a variety of sociological and psychological theories that help to explain the processes that lead to the formation of clergy attitudes towards gender more broadly Artists in

Building the Modern Church Robert Proctor,2016-05-23 Fifty years after the Second Vatican Council architectural historian Robert Proctor examines the transformations in British Roman Catholic church architecture that took place in the two decades surrounding this crucial event Inspired by new thinking in theology and changing practices of worship and by a growing acceptance of modern art and architecture architects designed radical new forms of church building in a campaign of new buildings for new urban contexts A focussed study of mid twentieth century church architecture Building the Modern Church considers how architects and clergy constructed the image and reality of the Church as an institution through its buildings The author examines changing conceptions of tradition and modernity and the development of a modern church architecture that drew from the ideas of the liturgical movement The role of Catholic clergy as patrons of modern architecture and art and the changing attitudes of the Church and its architects to modernity are examined explaining how different strands of post war architecture were adopted in the field of ecclesiastical buildings The church building s social role in defining communities through rituals and symbols is also considered together with the relationships between churches and modernist urban planning in new towns and suburbs Case studies analysed in detail include significant buildings and architects that have remained little known until now Based on meticulous historical research in primary sources theoretically informed fully referenced and thoroughly illustrated this book will be of interest to anyone concerned with the church architecture art and theology of this period
