Congress. House. Committee on Ways and Means. Subcommittee on Social Security,2001 Privacy in Context Helen Nissenbaum,2009-11-24 Privacy is one of the most urgent issues associated with information technology and digital media This book claims that what people really care about when they complain and protest that privacy has been violated is not the act of sharing information itself most people understand that this is crucial to social life but the inappropriate improper sharing of information Arguing that privacy concerns should not be limited solely to concern about control over personal information Helen Nissenbaum counters that information ought to be distributed and protected according to norms governing distinct social contexts whether it be workplace health care schools or among family and friends She warns that basic distinctions between public and private informing many current privacy policies in fact obscure more than they clarify In truth contemporary information systems should alarm us only when they function without regard for social norms and values and thereby weaken the fabric of social life   Proceedings 2002 VLDB Conference VLDB,2002-12-11 Proceedings of the 28th Annual International Conference on Very Large Data Bases held in Hong Kong China on August 20 23 2002 Organized by the VLDB Endowment VLDB is the premier international conference on database technology   The Adaptive Web Peter Brusilovski,Alfred Kobsa,Wolfgang Nejdl,2007-04-24 This state of the art survey provides a systematic overview of the ideas and techniques of the adaptive Web and serves as a central source of information for researchers practitioners and students The volume constitutes a comprehensive and carefully planned collection of chapters that map out the most important areas of the adaptive Web each solicited from the experts and leaders in the field Public Interest Profiles, 2001-2002 Foundation for Public Affairs,2001   Protecting Individual Privacy in the Struggle Against Terrorists National Research Council,Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences,Computer Science and Telecommunications Board,Division on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education,Committee on National Statistics,Committee on Law and Justice,Committee on Technical and Privacy Dimensions of Information for Terrorism Prevention and Other National Goals,2008-09-26 All U S agencies with counterterrorism programs that collect or mine personal data such as phone records or Web sites visited should be required to evaluate the programs effectiveness lawfulness and impacts on privacy A framework is offered that agencies can use to evaluate such information based programs both classified and unclassified The book urges Congress to re examine existing privacy law to assess how privacy can be protected in current and future programs and recommends that any individuals harmed by violations of privacy be given a meaningful form of redress Two specific technologies are examined data mining and behavioral surveillance Regarding data mining the book concludes that although these methods have been useful in the private sector for spotting consumer fraud they are less helpful for counterterrorism because so little is known about what patterns indicate terrorist activity Regarding behavioral surveillance in a counterterrorist context the book concludes that although research and development on certain aspects of this topic are warranted there is no scientific consensus on whether these techniques are ready for operational use at all in counterterrorism   Information Privacy United States.
