The Juridical Unconscious Shoshana Felman, 2002-11-30 This book offers an account of the surprising interaction between trauma and justice Moving from texts by Arendt Benjamin Freud Zola and Tolstoy to the Dreyfus and Nuremberg trials and the trials of O J Simpson and Adolf Eichmann Felman argues that the adjudication of collective traumas in the 20th century transformed both culture and law

Selected Letters of Robert Penn Warren Robert Penn Warren, 2001 At the beginning of 1935 Robert Penn Warren had every reason to be optimistic about the future Having escaped the brink of unemployment the previous fall to join fellow Vanderbilt alumnus and Rhodes scholar Cleanth Brooks on the English faculty at Louisiana State University which was enjoying a boom thanks to the favoritism shown by the Long regime Warren was destined for arguably the most crucial period in his distinguished career Against the backdrop of the Great Depression and America's belated entry into World War II the young author came into his own and established himself as a compelling new voice perhaps the most versatile writer of his generation Continuing where Volume One of the Selected Letters left off the missives from his Baton Rouge years show Warren exploring and testing the boundaries of his genius on a number of simultaneous fronts Editing the Southern Review with Brooks was the center of his working life and it offered him an almost immediate springboard to prominence on both sides of the Atlantic He attended to his own writing as well and not only emerged as a celebrated poet with the publication of Thirty Six Poems in 1936 and Eleven Poems on the Same Theme in 1942 but also published his first major fiction the novel Night Rider in 1939 and effectively completed a second radically different book At Heaven's Gate During the same period he and Brooks drew directly upon their classroom challenges to design and launch a series of textbooks that gradually transformed the teaching of poetry and fiction in American colleges and universities What any number of commentators have called Warren's protean energy is in full evidence in these letters The range and sheer diversity of his correspondence reveal an extraordinarily keen mind and heightened imagination operating in concert with optimum efficiency Scrupulously edited and thoroughly annotated by William Bedford Clark with an eye toward the needs of the lay reader as well as the specialist Warren's letters have the immediacy of skillful autobiography

The Burden of Time John Lincoln Stewart, 2015-12-08 Two groups which originated in Nashville Tennessee in the early 1920's had a strong influence on American letters Known as the Fugitives and Agrarians they included among others John Crowe Ransom Allen Tate Robert Penn Warren Donald Davidson and Merrill Moore This study of their contributions is as R W B Lewis has written a searching supple and most of the time brilliantly precise account of their writing ideas and attitudes of several of this century's most interesting men of letters. The book achieves a kind of finality in the handling of its subject. Mr Stewart concentrates on the ideas, styles, themes, and widespread influence of the two groups rather than on historical data. He illuminates the literature produced within this particular historical and geographical context. Originally published in 1965, The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print-on-demand technology to again make available previously out-of-print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press. Deterrence Thom Brooks, 2019-11-11. Deterrence is a theory which claims that punishment is justified through preventing future crimes and is one of the oldest and most powerful theories about punishment. The argument that punishment ought to secure crime reduction occupies a central place in criminal justice policy and is the site for much debate. Should the state deter offenders through the threat of punishment? What available evidence is there about the effectiveness of deterrence? Is deterrence even possible? This volume brings together the leading work on deterrence from the dominant international figures in the field. Deterrence is examined from various critical perspectives including its diversity, relation with desert, the relation of deterrence with incapacitation and prevention, the role deterrence has played in debates over the death penalty and deterrence and corporate crime.

Non-Retaliating in Early Jewish and New Testament Texts Gordon Zerbe, 2015-01-29 This study examines the varieties and continuities of ethical exhortations and ideals in the Jewish and Christian traditions c 200 BCE-100 CE that fall under the rubric of non-retaliation One of the principal conclusions of this thought-provoking work is that a critical factor in determining the shape of non-retaliatory ethics is whether the exhortation is applied to relations within the local and/or elect community or to relations with oppressors of the elect community It becomes apparent also that the non-retaliatory ethic of the NT stands solidly in the tradition of non-retaliatory ethics in Early Judaism
