Private Eye ,1987      TV Digest ,1952      Maintaining financial stability of UK banks Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Committee of Public Accounts,2011-04-20 This report examines the progress on repaying taxpayer support and maintenance of financial stability following action taken in the 2007 crisis in the financial markets Action included nationalisation the purchase of a large number of shares in RBS and Lloyds establishing sector wide schemes to guarantee banks debt funding and protect their assets and indemnifying the Bank of England against losses for providing temporary liquidity The level of explicit support has gone down from nearly 1 trillion to 512 billion and estimates of the size of the implicit subsidy vary from as high as 100 billion to just below 10 billion in 2009 alone The explicit subsidy includes the fees paid by banks for their use of the Credit Guarantee Scheme which to date have been at least 1 billion less than the benefit received by the banks These subsidies enable private gains to be made at the expense of public risk and some of these gains have been used to pay bonuses to staff and dividends to shareholders rather than enhancing the financial sustainability of the sector This causes the Committee and the wider public much concern For the taxpayer to obtain value for money from exiting from the support depends heavily on a successful sale of the shares in RBS and Lloyds The government shareholding is far greater than in previous share sales and will require extraordinarily careful handling to protect the taxpayers interest Regulatory and political uncertainty over the banking sector will remain until the Government has responded to the recommendations from the Independent Commission on Banking      Financing PFI projects in the credit crisis and the Treasury's response Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Committee of Public Accounts,2010-12-09 The 2008 credit crisis had an enormous impact on the Government s public infrastructure programme Severe restrictions on bank lending at that time meant no sizeable Private Finance Initiative PFI contracts could be let This affected the viability of a large number of infrastructure projects including school and road building schemes with a total investment value of over 13 billion The Treasury s response was to make project finance available by lending public money on the same terms as the banks However the Treasury did not put pressure on government supported banks to either make lending available or reduce the extent of increased financing costs Overall bank financing costs increased by 20 33 per cent compared to bank charges before the credit crisis This added 1 billion to the contract price payable over 30 years for the 35 projects financed in 2009 Other alternatives to the high cost bank finance were not properly explored during the credit crisis Greater use of Treasury loans or direct grant funding could have put pressure on banks to lower their charges Neither did the Treasury adequately explore how lower cost finance sources such as life insurance and pension funds could be encouraged to invest more in PFI projects The Treasury also could have made more use of funding from the European Investment Bank The appropriate mix of financing sources for future project contracts including public and private finance is an issue that needs serious reconsideration      History for Ready Reference ... Josephus Nelson Larned,1895

impact of Britain's political institutions of the processes of its representative government and of the theory that moulds and orders the values that the corporation tax code contains This is a timely exploration of cutting edge issues of public policy
