Reed's Promise John Clarkson,2004-05-16 Bill Reed has not seen or spoken to his cousin John an adult suffering from Down Syndrome for four years until he receives a cryptic and disturbing letter from the mentally disabled man The letter composed entirely of pasted together numbers and crudely scribbled lines makes no sense but gives Reed a definite sense that something is very wrong at the private isolated facility where John resides A former FBI agent who has recently lost his leg in a motorcycle accident Reed has problems of his own The last thing he needs right now is another person to look out for Yet the more Reed tries to check on his cousin the more resistance he encounters from the people who are supposed to be caring for John and the other residents of the Ullman Institute Reed smells trouble and he s not about to give up Despite his own disability he vows to find out what the Institute is hiding and to rescue his cousin before it s too late The Promise of the West Mary Barmeyer O'Brien,2015-10-05 Driven by the promise of prosperity and opportunity on the frontier thousands of men and women traveled west in the mid 1800s to forge a new life Accompanying them were their children wide eyed and excited about the adventures that awaited them as they headed toward the setting sun Little did they know how treacherous and grueling the trip would be The toil and danger of overland travel forced parents to depend on their children to assist in their ultimate survival Girls were called upon to help cook set up and break camp and mind younger siblings Boys were called upon to help drive the wagons herd the oxen and horses assist with wagon repairs and guard the camp at night Even with their endless chores many pioneer boys and girls found time to record the details of their journeys in letters and diaries This collection of short episodes from the lives of these children on the trail offers fresh perspectives on the experience
