Landscape, Tourism, and Meaning Michelle M. Metro-Roland, Daniel C. Knudsen, Charles E. Greer, 2016-04-22 How do we re theorize tourism By drawing less on the Foucauldian notion of tourism as gazing and instead focusing on the social construction of meaning in the landscape this insightful book provides an innovative and compelling new approach to tourist studies Arguing that in any view of the landscape and in tourism generally there is a multiplicity of insider and outsider meanings the book grounds tourism studies within the framework of social theory and particularly in the social theoretic approaches to landscape Bringing together specialists in tourism and landscape studies to discuss the relationships between the two it finds that issues of identity are a common thread and are raised with regard to the social construction of landscape and its portrayal through tourism The international studies range in scale from regional to national personal to political and from local residents to international tourists highlighting the multiplicity of interpretations and meanings between these scales

The Myth of Continents Martin W. Lewis, Kären Wigen, 1997-08-11 In this thoughtful and engaging critique geographer Martin W Lewis and historian K ren Wigen reexamine the basic geographical divisions we take for granted and challenge the unconscious spatial frameworks that govern the way we perceive the world Arguing that notions of East vs West First World vs Third World and even the sevenfold continental system are simplistic and misconceived the authors trace the history of such misconceptions Their up to the minute study reflects both on the global scale and its relation to the specific continents of Europe Asia and Africa actually part of one contiguous landmass The Myth of Continents sheds new light on how our metageographical assumptions grew out of cultural concepts how the first continental divisions developed from classical times how the Urals became the division between the so called continents of Europe and Asia how countries like Pakistan and Afghanistan recently shifted macroregions in the general consciousness This extremely readable and thought provoking analysis also explores the ways that new economic regions the end of the cold war and the proliferation of communication technologies change our understanding of the world It stimulates thinking about the role of large scale spatial constructs as driving forces behind particular worldviews and encourages everyone to take a more thoughtful geographically informed approach to the task of describing and interpreting the human diversity of the planet

Region-Making and Cross-Border Cooperation Elisabetta Nadalutti, Otto Kallscheuer, 2017-12-15 This book explores the nature of regions and how they function particularly at the local and micro level Whilst recent years have seen a resurgence in debates around the roles which regions can play in development the focus has tended to be on macro regional institutions such as the EU ASEAN ECOWAS or MERCOSUR In contrast this book offers a nuanced analysis of the important field of sub regionalism and sub national cross border cooperation Region Making and Cross Border Cooperation takes a fresh look at both theoretical and empirical approaches to region making through cooperation activities at the micro level across national borders in Europe Southeast Asia Latin America Africa and the Middle East The book aims to explore the role that institutional dynamics play at the micro level in shaping local and global ties investigate what the formal and informal integration factors are that bolster regionalism and regionalization processes and to clarify to what extent and under what conditions cooperation at the micro level can be instrumental to solving common problems Scholars and students within politics sociology geography and economics would find this book an important guide to regionalism at a micro local level perspective
