Refugee Scholars in America Lewis A. Coser, Refugees in the Age of Total War Anna C. Bramwell, 2021-11-21 This book first published in 1988 charts society's responses to the huge numbers of refugees in Europe and the Middle East during and after the Second World War. At the close of the war, large areas of Europe lay in ruins and large numbers of refugees faced upheaval and famine. Political considerations influenced the decisions as to who received assistance and refugees were forcibly repatriated or resettled and in the analysis of these matters and more both the refugee crises of the 1940s and their relevance today are highlighted

The daughter of academics, she fled Hitler's Germany with her parents in the 1930s, emigrating to New Haven where her father was a professor at Yale University. She has studied and taught at some of the world's most prestigious universities. She was the first woman to serve as provost of Yale. In 1978 she became the first woman president of a major research university when she was appointed to lead the University of Chicago, a position she held for fifteen years. In 1991 Gray was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the nation's highest civilian honor in recognition of her extraordinary contributions to education. An Academic Life is a candid self-portrait by one of academia's most respected trailblazers. Gray describes what it was like to grow up as a child of refugee parents and reflects on the changing status of women in the academic world. She discusses the migration of intellectuals from Nazi-held Europe and the transformative role these exiles played in American higher education and how the migr experience in America transformed their own lives and work She sheds light on the character of university communities how they are structured and administered and the balance they seek between tradition and innovation teaching and research and undergraduate and professional learning An Academic Life speaks to the fundamental issues of purpose academic freedom and governance that arise time and again in higher education and that pose sharp challenges to the independence and scholarly integrity of each new generation
