Restructuring for Integrative Education Todd E. Jennings, 1997 Restructuring for Integrative Education Todd E. Jennings, 1997-07-16 How can education be restructured to align more closely with the complex ways in which students actually create meaning and learn The collection of essays asserts that this question must be the nexus of educational restructuring This book addresses educational restructuring with a specific goal the promotion of integrated education Addressing a variety of contexts elementary school through post secondary and written from a range of theoretical perspectives critical theory postmodernism constructivism the authors explore the educational structures that mediate the work of schools teachers and students The contributors explore how educational institutions can change to promote authentic and holistic learning Firmly rooted in theory the collection presents a vision for the integrated education linked to concrete practices and contexts Critical Pedagogy Barry Kanpol, 1999-04-30 Critical pedagogy refers to the means and methods of testing and attempting to change the structures of schools that allow inequities It is a cultural political tool that takes seriously the notion of human differences particularly those related to race class and gender Critical pedagogy seeks to release the oppressed and unite people in a shared language of critique struggle and hope to end various forms of human suffering In this revised edition Kanpol takes the pre and in service educators along some initial steps to becoming critical pedagogists As before university professors and public school teachers alike will learn how to address their own prophetic commitments to belief and faith in the fight against despair institutional chaos oppression death of spirit and exile

Postmodern Philosophical Critique and the Pursuit of Knowledge in Higher Education Roger Mourad, 1997-08-30 This work explores the philosophical positions of five postmodern thinkers Lyotard Rorty Schrag Foucault and Derrida to show how their critiques imply that scholars are unduly limited by the belief that inquiry is fundamentally about gaining knowledge of phenomena that are assumed to exist prior to and independent of inquiry and to persist essentially unchanged by inquiry The author argues that there are good reasons why this constraint is both unnecessary and undesirable and he resituates the disciplines within a more flexible foundation that would expand what counts as legitimate inquiry This foundation would emphasize the inquirer as a cause of reality not just an observer who aims to accurately describe and explain phenomena Mourad proposes an intellectual and organizational form which he calls post disciplinary research programs These dynamic programs would be composed of scholars from diverse disciplines who collaborate to juxtapose disparate disciplinary concepts in order to create contexts for post disciplinary inquiries

Resources in Education , 1999 Racial Categorization of Multiracial Children in Schools Jane A. Chiong, 1998-05-21 Multiracial students have unique needs that are not being met in schools because teachers and school personnel assume that those needs are the same as those of monoracial minority children Children of multiple races are in fact invisible in the schools On school and federal forms they are racially categorized based on one race only and such categorizations are not limited to documents Schools and teachers may unknowingly transmit monoracial identity messages to multiracial students which is problematic for some students who may want to identify with more than one race Our racial categorization process reflects the deficiencies of the concept of race in American culture and needs to be renegotiated The multiracial child is a microcosm of the American cultural identity Current racial categorization of multiracial children reflects a society that is still renegotiating its own racial and ethnic identities and these children bear the burdens of the difficulties As America continues to become increasingly populated by diverse peoples what it means to be American is in transition Americans are moving away from a fixed notion of the American cultural identity toward an expanded more inclusive resolution Train Up a

what new visions for learning are emerging What does it take to implement and maintain these visions To address these questions Designing Globally Networked Learning Environments brings together 25 educators from four continents who share their richly diverse visions for teaching and learning in a globally networked world What unites these visions is that they break with traditional models of repackaging traditional institutionally bounded courses for online delivery in global markets Instead these educators build robust partnerships to design globally networked learning environments that connect students with peers instructors and communities across traditional institutional national and other boundaries to facilitate the kind of cross boundary knowledge making that students as professionals and citizens will need to participate in the shaping of an emerging global order and to address the most pressing global problems we face The book offers these visions as opportunities for faculty program directors administrators international program experts instructional designers faculty development experts and others in higher education to work together to deliberate develop and shape inspiring visions for globally networked learning and to become active participants in the globalization of higher education Policy, Pedagogy, and Social Inequality Penelope E. ,1997 Literacy in the Library Mark Dressman,1997-12-09 This critical ethnography of school libraries contributes to the study of the politics of literacy at the elementary school level as well as provides an interesting case study of border crossing The book interrogates two accounts of social reproduction and proposes a third Students at working poor Chavez Elementary resisted attempts to get them hooked on reading fiction but while many were socialized to the labor of a piecework economy many also found ways to use texts as they chose At professional managerial Crest Hills students managed their discourse practices in ways that reproduced those of their office workplace but their success was achieved at the expense of great anxiety about the future At working class Roosevelt the librarians attended to the rhetoric of librarianship but students reassembled knowledge on their own terms A second project theorizes the school library as a geopolitical space and critiques children s fiction and the social order that its texts help construct through a semiotic analysis of text classification within school libraries An investigation of the origins of that system and of the ways of reading that it promotes with particular attention to the history of the popular novel describes the gender and class based politics of leisure reading Thinking Again Nigel Blake,1998-04-30 The postmodern condition in which instrumentalism finally usurps all other considerations has produced a kind of intellectual paralysis in the world of education The authors of this book show how such postmodernist thinkers as Derrida Foucault and Lyotard illuminate puzzling aspects of education arguing that educational theory is currently at an impasse They argue that we need these new and disturbing ideas in order to think again fruitfully and creatively about education
