Army Department,1949    Participation in Art and Architecture Martino Stierli,Mechtild Widrich,2015-10-16 Does participatory art and architecture shape social reality or is it shaped by it Shifting the ground of this debate which tends to assume one or other direction of influence this innovative book explores the inherently dialectic relationship between society and the built environment At the same time it strives for a historically conscious discussion of a very contemporary issue Chapters rethink the top down model of participation and audience activation of high modernism from Alexander Dorner s immersive museum to Mies van der Rohe s room s for play investigate participation in spaces under political pressure from exhibitions in bombed out buildings in besieged Sarajevo 1992 5 to the art and organizing of revolution in Egypt 2012 13 draw historical parallels between modes of participation and the exercise of power that are seldom compared with one another from sites of occupation in 1968 Mexico and 2011 Spain finally creating links between cartography and feminism and between tourism and internet surveillance With these juxtapositions of the aesthetic and the everyday and the built and the mediated new questions arise is space formed once and for all or is it the changeable product of changeable patterns of use Does the aesthetic always correspond to the political or might an aesthetically authoritarian space be conducive to social justice In exploring these questions this book looks at how participants themselves exert power rather than being victimised or liberated from it    Art of Suppression Pamela M.

Potter,2016-06-28 One thinks of the arts in Nazi Germany as struggling in an oppressive system yet evidence has repeatedly shown that conditions were far more favourable than we assume Potter conducts a historiography of Nazi arts examining writings from the last seven decades to demonstrate how historical moral and intellectual conditions have sustained a distorted characterization of cultural life in the Third Reich Showing how past research has revealed the decentralized nature of Nazi arts policies Potter argues that the insulation of academic disciplines allowed outdated presumptions about Nazi micromanagement of the arts to persist    Comics of the New Europe Martha Kuhlman,José Alaniz,2020-04-21

German artists made their country's experimental art scene a form of counter public life. Experimental artists in the final years of the German Democratic Republic did not practice their art in the shadows on the margins hiding away from the Stasi's prying eyes. In fact, as Sara Blaylock shows, many cultivated a critical influence over the very bureaucracies meant to keep them in line undermining state authority through forthright rather than covert projects. In Parallel Public, Blaylock describes how some East German artists made their country's experimental art scene a form of counter public life creating an alternative to the crumbling collective underpinnings of the state. Blaylock examines the work of artists who used body-based practices including performance, film and photography to create new vocabularies of representation sharing their projects through independent networks of dissemination and display. From the collective films and fashion shows of Erfurt's Women Artists Group which fused art with feminist political action to Gino Hahnemann the queer filmmaker and poet who set nudes alight in city parks these creators were as bold in their ventures as they were indifferent to state power. Parallel Public is the first work of its kind on experimental art in East Germany to be written in English. Blaylock draws on extensive interviews with artists, art historians and organizers, artist-made publications, official reports from the Union of Fine Artists and Stasi surveillance records. As she recounts the role culture played in the GDR's rapid decline she reveals East German artists as dissenters and witnesses, citizens and agents, their work both antidote to and diagnosis of a weakening state.
