Money Well Spent The Effectiveness And Value Of Housing Adaptations

Hemingway, Laura

Money Well Spent The Effectiveness And Value Of Housing Adaptations:

Money Well Spent Frances Heywood, Joseph Rowntree Foundation, 2001 Money well spent is the first large scale study of the outcomes of public expenditure of 250 million a year on housing adaptations in England and Wales This cutting edge research is the result of a unique partnership between housing and occupational therapy professionals and researchers It presents for the first time evidence about the effectiveness of housing adaptations for older people and disabled people of all ages nationally Based on interviews with disabled people including children and their parents in seven local authorities in England and Wales the report includes evidence about how housing adaptations improve the health quality of life and opportunities for disabled people and their families and can contribute to preventative strategies proposals based on user views and professional observations of ways in which housing adaptations may be made more effective still information useful in determining best value and budget allocation in health housing and social services vbTab Money well spent will provoke debate around and increase understanding of a valuable service that helps to deliver a whole raft of current policy objectives

An Occupational Therapist's Guide to Home Modification Practice Elizabeth Ainsworth, Desleigh de Jonge, 2024-06-01 Older people and people with a disability have a right to be included in all aspects of home and community life and yet environmental barriers continue to exist in the built environment There are concerns about how well homes can support older people and people with a disability over time as their needs change Occupational therapists are well suited to determining the most appropriate home modification solutions to address environmental barriers They possess the knowledge and skills necessary to evaluate people's current and future needs in the context of the nature and use of the environment and can work collaboratively with design and construction professionals to develop solutions To be comprehensive and effective in their approach occupational therapists need to understand not only the individual's requirements but also the ethical and legal contexts for practice the technical aspects of the built environment the relevance and intent of access standards and design approaches and the application of a range of products and finishes An Occupational Therapist's Guide to Home Modification Practice Second Edition by Elizabeth Ainsworth and Desleigh de Jonge and their team of expert contributors provides comprehensive information to inform occupational therapists about current practice and research This includes the authors using a transactional approach to examine the person occupation environment interaction and providing occupational therapists with a detailed understanding of the various dimensions of the home environment that can impact on client's home modification decisions New material has been provided relating to research and practice issues such as an overview of the latest home modification outcome research findings as documented in literature an update on outcome evaluation new research information about the dimensions of the home impacting on decision making additional information grabrail and ramp prescription and the inclusion of new case studies illustrating minor and major modification solutions for clients who present with diverse needs In the Second Edition you'll find A detailed understanding of aspects of the home environment that impact home modification decisions A review of legislative environment and funding systems that facilitate service delivery An overview of home modification services as well as future trends A range of comprehensive case studies illustrated by photographs Additional theory to inform knowledge and skill development that can be used in home modification practice worldwide Included with the text are online supplemental materials for faculty use in the classroom An Occupational Therapist s Guide to Home Modification Practice Second Edition provides a range of resources and tools and it can be used as a teaching aid to support students interns and novice therapists or as a manual for reflection and practice for more experienced home modification practitioners Legal Aspects of Pain Management 2nd Edition Bridgit Dimond, 2016-06-01 This revised and updated edition explores the law relating to pain management in recent years It considers the legal issues which have arisen in recent high profile cases and discusses the implications of legislation extending prescribing powers The text is written in a user friendly readable form for the non lawyer It aims to provide a succinct useful basis from which practitioner and others can extend their knowledge of the law for the protection of their patients their colleagues and themselves Scope and contents Human rights law Criminal law and procedure Negligence Professional registration Consent in relation to adults children and mentally disabled adults

Housing and Disabled Children Mark Bevan, 2002 The report highlights services that address the housing needs of disabled children and their families in a positive way and that have been commended by families themselves It also highlights the key features of services that families and children find most helpful and provides a handy checklist against which service providers can assess the effectiveness of their services Housing and disabled children is an invaluable resource for the diverse range of practitioners who work with disabled children and their families as well as an opportunity for potential and current service users to find out more about different types of service provision across the UK World Report on Ageing and Health World Health Organization, 2015-10-22 The WHO World report on ageing and health is not for the book shelf it is a living breathing testament to all older people who have fought for their voice to be heard at all levels of government across disciplines and sectors Mr Bjarne Hastrup President International Federation on Ageing and CEO DaneAge This report outlines a framework for action to foster Healthy Ageing built around the new concept of functional ability This will require a transformation of health systems away from disease based curative models and towards the provision of older person centred and integrated care It will require the development sometimes from nothing of comprehensive systems of long term care It will require a coordinated response from many other sectors and multiple levels of government And it will need to draw on better ways of measuring and monitoring the health and functioning of older populations These actions are likely to be a sound investment in society s future A future that gives older people the freedom to live lives that previous generations might never have imagined The World report on ageing and health responds to these challenges by recommending equally profound changes in the way health policies for ageing populations are formulated and services are provided As the foundation for its recommendations the report looks at what the latest evidence has to say about the ageing process noting that many common perceptions and assumptions about older people are based on outdated stereotypes The report's recommendations are anchored in the evidence comprehensive and forward looking yet eminently practical Throughout examples of experiences from different countries are used to illustrate how specific problems can be addressed through innovation solutions Topics explored range from strategies to deliver comprehensive and person centred services to older populations to policies that enable older people to live in comfort and safety to ways to correct the problems and injustices inherent in current systems for long term care

There's No Place Like Home: Place and Care in an Ageing Society

Christine Milligan, 2016-02-17 Against a background of debate around global ageing and what this means in terms of the future care need of older people this book addresses key concerns about the nature and site of care and care giving Following a critical review of research into who cares where and how it uses geographical perspectives to present a comprehensive analysis of how the intersection of informal care giving within domestic community and residential care homes can create complex landscapes and organizational spatialities of care Drawing on contemporary case studies largely but not exclusively from the UK the book reviews and develops a theoretical basis for a geographical analysis of the issue of care By relating these theoretical concepts to empirical data and case studies it illustrates how formal and informal care giver responses to the changing landscape of care can act to facilitate or constrain the development of inclusionary models of care

Oxford Textbook of Geriatric Medicine Jean-Pierre Michel, B. Lynn Beattie, Finbarr C. Martin, Jeremy D. Walston, 2018

The third edition of the definitive international reference book on all aspects of the medical care of older persons will provide every physician involved in the care of older patients with a comprehensive resource on all the clinical problems they are likely to encounter as well as on related psychological philosophical and social issues

Disabled people and housing

Hemingway, Laura, 2011-07-20 This book provides a comprehensive investigation of housing issues for disabled people from a social model perspective Documenting historical and current trends it looks at policy barriers to housing options and meanings of home Such a review is crucial to understanding the varying housing needs and desires of disabled people particularly in the current economic climate The book is a practical resource for housing policy makers and practitioners and will be of interest to academics and students in the field

International Perspectives on Spinal Cord Injury World Health

Organization, International Spinal Cord Society, 2013 Every year between 250 000 and 500 000 people suffer a spinal cord injury with road traffic crashes falls and violence as the three leading causes People with spinal cord injury are two to five times more likely to die prematurely They also have lower rates of school enrollment and economic participation than people without such injuries Spinal cord injury has costly consequences for the individual and society but it is preventable survivable and need not preclude good health and social inclusion Ensuring an adequate medical and rehabilitation response followed by supportive services and accessible environments can help minimize the disruption to people with spinal cord injury and their families The aims of International perspectives on spinal cord injury are to assemble and summarize information on spinal cord injury in particular the epidemiology services interventions and policies that are relevant together with the lived experience of people with spinal cord injury make recommendations for actions based on this evidence that are consistent with the aspirations for people with disabilities as expressed in the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities

Social Work, Critical Reflection and the Learning Organization Dr Mark Baldwin, Dr Nick Gould, 2012-12-28 A critical characteristic of human service organizations is their capacity to learn from experience and to adapt continuously to changing external conditions such as downward pressure on resources constant reconfiguration of the welfare state and rapidly changing patterns of social need This invaluable groundbreaking volume discusses in detail the concept of the learning organization in particular its relevance to social work and social services Contributors join together from across Europe North America and Australia to explore the development of the learning organization within social work contexts and its use as a strategic tool for meeting problems of continuous learning supervision and change The volume addresses a range of important topics from strategies for embedding learning and critical reflection in the social work learning organization to the implications of the learning organization for the new community based health and social care agenda
