Monitoring The Environment The Linacre Lectures 1990 91:

Monitoring the Environment Sir Bryan Cartledge, 2023 What are the environmental realities behind the headlines In this book eight leading figures in science and government tackle the facts and look at the issues for the future Among the authors are the Secretary of State for the Environment and the Director of the Royal Botanic Gardens at Kew Monitoring the Environment Sir Bryan Cartledge, 1992 What are the environmental realities behind the headlines In this book eight leading figures in science and government tackle the facts and look at the issues for the future Whether it is global warming or industrial pollution the spread of deserts or the extinction of species everyone knows we are facing massive environmental problems The complex questions of what science technology and human imagination can do to reverse damaging trends need to be explored The lectures in this volume organized by Linacre College within Oxford University bring together diverse viewpoints and areas of expertise The Secretary of State for the Environment the Director of Kew Gardens and a former head of the Met Office were among the speakers After absorbing what all the lecturers had to say some readers may feel more concerned than ever while other emerge somewhat reassured but few will disagree that nothing could be more important than caring for our environment Writing Gaia: The Scientific Correspondence of James Lovelock and Lynn Margulis

Bruce Clarke, Sébastien Dutreuil, 2022-08-18 A full and annotated collection of the correspondence between two extraordinary scientific individuals James Lovelock and Lynn Margulis A Better Future for the Planet Earth: Lectures by the winners of the Blue Planet Prize Asahi Garasu Zaidan. Blue Planet Prize, 1997 Rekindling Life Baptiste Morizot, 2022-06-15 As the environmental crisis accelerates we can easily feel overwhelmed but our feeling of powerlessness is partly due to a misunderstanding of the natural world We tend to think of nature as a cathedral on fire like Notre Dame engulfed in flames But the living world is not a cathedral on fire if it were the battle would already be lost The living world is itself a fire that reconstitutes itself continuously and creates countless forms of life as soon as we leave it the space and time to do so So the problem we face today is not to stop the fire rather it is how to defend and rekindle the embers of life that are all around us Drawing lessons from conservationist initiatives aimed at allowing the natural forces of forests to take over again through a process of free evolution and from agro ecological farming initiatives which make lands hospitable for wildlife Baptiste Morizot shows how specific actions can release the prodigality of life its jungle like power to regenerate itself Actions like these are possible because the power of the living world lies in its abundance and creativity the biosphere is a living fire that covers the earth and it can always start up again if we know how to defend and kindle its embers

British Social Attitudes Roger Jowell, 1992 Britain is on the whole a well documented nation We know or are able to find out a great deal about our characteristics as a society who we are and what we do But we know much less about our character what we think about our world and ourselves Very little systematic material is publicly available on the nation's values whether or how they have been changing and the extent to which different sections of the population vary in their attitudes and beliefs British Social Attitudes compiles describes and comments upon a wide range of current social attitudes The information is obtained from around 3000 interviews carried out by SCPR among a nationwide sample sample in an annual series of surveys The series seeks to chart changes in British social values during the 1980s and 1990s in relation to other changes in society and is core funded by the Sainsbury Family Charitable Trusts The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells,1992 Abstracts on Sustainable Agriculture ,1993 Bibliographic Guide to the Environment ,1993
