Ruiter, G.J. Fleuren, S.O. Warnaar, 2012-12-06 The development of monoclonal antibodies to human tumor associated antigens has greatly facilitated the application of immunohistochemical techniques to analyze surgically removed tissues During the last few years this approach has been utilized by a progressively increasing number of investigators to analyze malignant cells Although monoclonal antibodies to tumor associated antigens have not become yet routine reagents in immunopathology they have provided new information which could not be obtained with conventional antisera or histochemical procedures The following are representative examples Tumor associated antigens have been identified which display a restricted distribution in normal tissues and therefore may represent useful markers for radio imaging and appropriate targets for immunotherapy In spite of undetectable differences with conventional histopathological approaches heterogeneity has been found in the antigenic profile of tumor cells within a lesion in autologous lesions removed from different anatomic sites from a given patient and in lesions removed from different patients Phenotypes of tumor cells have been identified which correlate with the biology of tumor cells and with the clinical course of the disease From a practical view point the use of monoclonal antibodies in immunopathology has enhanced interactions between pathologists and immunologists as exemplified by the present book Such interactions have contributed to the application of basic research to clinical problems The chapter of this book discusses investigations performed with monoclonal antibodies to antigens expressed by various types of normal and malignant human cells Patterns of Survival Una Walker, Arts Council Gallery (Belfast, Northern Ireland), 1992* Trauma Systems Therapy for Children and Teens Glenn N. Ecosystems R.I. Jones,V. Ilmavirta,2012-12-06 It is not so very long ago that botanical concensus abandoned the distinction that was drawn between Algae and Flagellata the latter having been regarded by zoologists as a group of the Protozoa Even today some colourless flagellates may find themselves occupying different locations in contrasting taxonomic schemes However modern developments in ecology have placed greater emphasis on functional attributes of organisms and hydro biologists have certainly been in the forefront of such changes Thus we find that flagellates are again the subject of controversy not so much over their taxonomic position as over their functional position their role in aquatic ecosystems At the 22nd Congress of the International Association of Theoretical and Applied Limnology in Lyon France in August 1983 we conceived the idea of a meeting to discuss Flagellates in Freshwater Ecosystems This idea was approved by the committee of SIL and we arranged for the meeting to take place during June 1986 at Lammi Biological Station University of Helsinki in Finland Participants from nine countries enjoyed outstanding hospitality from the staff at the Station during a week of lectures excursions and discussion sessions On behalf of the participants we express our thanks for the generous sponsorship received from the Maj and Tor Nessling Foundation the Academy of Finland the Finnish Ministry of Education Lammi Biological Station and the Finnish Limnological Society Loneliness & Lament Patricia J.
