Modeling and Control in Environmental Issues 2001 Akira Sano, S. Nishioka, Shūzō Nishioka, Hiroyuki Tamura, 2002
Environmental issues is one of the significantly important subjects to be solved on a global scale for attaining sustainable developments in the new century. A major feature of environmental issues is that studies on environments are interdisciplinary and should deal with complex and heterogeneous systems which include chemical, physical and biological phenomena and further socio-economical activities and technology developments for energy saving and CO₂ emission reduction. The workshop provided the forum for presentation of new developments in the important interdisciplinary field of environmental systems involving the application of concepts, methods and techniques of modeling and control. The aim was to review state of the art systems and control approaches, exchange new results in interdisciplinary fields and look at feasible developments to the future. The scope of this workshop covered various aspects of systems and control approaches to environmental issues: Environmental assessment; Systems approaches to environmental management and strategies; Modeling of global warming and impact analysis on socio-structure; Modeling of ecological systems; Control and optimization of environmental quantities; System reform and integration for environments; Advanced control technology for reduction of energy consumption and CO₂ emission; Cogeneration systems; Control systems approaches to clean energy; Fuel cells and their applications; Systems integration technologies in urban planning; Systems modeling and data analysis in life cycle assessment; Manufacturing in symbiosis with environments; Modeling and control of waste incineration plant; Water quality control and waste water management. International Mathematical News, 1993 Volatility and Time Series Econometrics Tim Bollerslev, Jeffrey Russell, Mark Watson, 2010-02-11 Robert Engle received the Nobel Prize for Economics in 2003 for his work in time series econometrics. This book contains 16 original research contributions by some of the leading academic researchers in the fields of time series econometrics, forecasting, volatility modelling, financial econometrics and urban economics along with historical perspectives related to the field of time series econometrics. More generally, Engle's Nobel Prize citation focuses on his path-breaking work on autoregressive conditional heteroskedasticity (ARCH) and the profound effect that this work has had on the field of financial econometrics. Several of the chapters focus on conditional heteroskedasticity and develop the ideas of Engle's Nobel Prize-winning work. Engle's work has had its most profound effect on the modelling of financial variables and several of the chapters use newly developed time series methods to study the behavior of financial variables. Each of the 16 chapters may be read in isolation but they all importantly build on and relate to the seminal work by Nobel Laureate Robert F. Engle.
