Principles of Bibliographical Description Fredson Bowers, 1986 Principles and standards of bibliographical description William Riley Parker, 1950 ISBD: International Standard Bibliographic Description Standing Committee of the IFLA Cataloguing Section, 2011-06-30 This is the new edition of the first consolidated ISBD that was published in 2007 The first years of usage have led to interesting and useful corrections and additions Many cataloguers and practitioners worldwide will welcome this updated first class tool which is useful and applicable for descriptions of bibliographic resources Cats, Carpenters, and Accountants Wayne de Fremery, 2024-05-07 An expansive case for in any type of catalogue bibliography as infrastructure in information science Cats Carpenters and Accountants argues that bibliography serves a foundational role within information science as infrastructure and like all infrastructures it needs and deserves attention Wayne de Fremery's thoughtful provocation positions bibliography as a means to serve the many ends pursued by information scientists He explains that bibliographic practices such as enumeration and description lie at the heart of knowledge practices and cultural endeavors but these kinds of infrastructures are difficult to see In this book he reveals them and the ways that they formulate information and meaning artificial intelligence and human knowledge Drawing on scholarship from areas as diverse as data science machine learning Korean poetry and the history of bibliography de Fremery makes the case for understanding bibliography as a generative mode of accounting for what has been received as data what he calls carpentry accounting Referencing a well known debate in the Anglo American bibliographical tradition that features a willful cat he suggests that bibliography and bibliographers are intentionally marginal figures who paradoxically perform foundational work in the service of the diverse disciplinary ends that formulate however loosely information science as a field When we attend to the marginal but essential work of accounting for what humankind has fashioned as recorded knowledge it becomes easier to consider the ways that human accounts can serve and sometimes injure us Relevant to scholars and students from the sciences to the humanities Cats Carpenters and Accountants is a highly original argument for bibliography as a marginal but foundationally powerful force shaping information science as a field and the ways that we know

Sitwell,1993-11-01 Geography as an academic discipline dates back to the last few decades of the nineteenth century However during the preceding centuries a large body of English language literature relevant to the field of special geography was published Four Centuries of Special Geography lists all the works published before 1888 and includes descriptions of each entry and notes on later editions Francis Sitwell has written an extensive introduction in which he provides a detailed guide to the organization and contents of the bibliography He also evaluates special geography as a genre which contributed to scholarly discourse from the sixteenth to the nineteenth centuries In addition he examines the genre as a whole and discusses its relation to the evolving world of ideas during the same time period The result of several years of data gathering this book will be a valuable research tool for anyone seeking to examine aspects of the development of the field of geography in the years before it was defined as a distinct academic discipline It will also be useful to those whose research focuses on the acquisition and transmission of geographical knowledge prior to the twentieth century in particular on the place of Making the Modern Reader Barbara M. Benedict, 2018-12-04 Inquiring into the geography in educational curricula formation of a literary canon during the Restoration and the eighteenth century Barbara Benedict poses the question Do anthologies reflect or shape contemporary literary taste She finds that there was a cultural dialectic at work miscellanies and anthologies transmitted particular tastes while in turn being influenced by the larger culture they helped to create Benedict reveals how anthologies of the time often created a consensus of literary and aesthetic values by providing a bridge between the tastes of authors editors printers booksellers and readers Making the Modern Reader the first full treatment of the early modern anthology is in part a history of the London printing trade as well as of the professionalization of criticism Benedict thoroughly documents the historical redefinition of the reader once a member of a communal literary culture the reader became private and introspective morally and culturally shaped by choices in reading She argues that eighteenth century collections promised the reader that culture could be acquired through the absorption of literary values This process of cultural education appealed to a middle class seeking to become discriminating consumers of art By addressing this neglected genre Benedict contributes a new perspective on the tension between popular and high culture between the common reader and the elite This book will interest scholars working in cultural studies and those studying noncanonical texts as well as eighteenth century literature in general Originally published in 1996 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

Bibliography in Literature, Folklore, Language and Linguistics David William Foster, James R. Kelly, 2003-02-11 While the academic world devoted to literary study has been absorbed with new and distinct forms of literary criticism bibliography has received scant attention much less than in former times when it was understood as more than just an aid to research Enormous changes have taken place in enumerative bibliography over the past thirty years especially with the widespread use of computers but these changes have gone unrecognized as bibliography has gone unappreciated This work is a collection of essays concentrating exclusively on bibliography and its uses in the academic world especially in literature folklore language and linguistics The book begins with a discussion of what bibliography is what it does and how to create the optimum bibliography Other subjects include bibliography and postcolonialism critical theory and bibliography in cross disciplinary environments issues and problems with tools for feminist and women s studies scholars in literature strategies for the incorporation of pluridisciplinary work bibliographical databases and databased bibliographies and ideas for the future of the MLA International Bibliography A Reference Guide for English Studies Michael J. Dane, 2016-12-05 In this book Joseph Dane critiques the use of material evidence in studies of manuscript and printed books by delving into accepted notions about the study of print culture He questions the institutional and ideological presuppositions that govern medieval studies descriptive bibliography and library science Dane begins by asking what is the relation between material evidence and the abstract statements made about the evidence ultimately he asks how evidence is to be defined The goal of this book is to show that evidence from texts and written objects often becomes twisted to support pre existing arguments and that generations of bibliographers have created narratives of authorship printing reading and editing that reflect romantic notions of identity growth and development The first part of the book is dedicated to medieval texts and authorship materials include Everyman Chaucer's Legend of Good Women the Anglo Norman Le Seint Resurrection and Adam de la Helle s Le Jeu de Robin et Marion The second half of the book is concerned with abstract notions about books and scholarly definitions about what a book actually is chapters include studies of basic bibliographical concepts Ideal Copy and the application of such a notion in early editions of Chaucer the combination of manuscript and printing in the books of Colard Mansion and finally examples of the organization of books by an early nineteenth century book collector Leander Van Ess This study is an important contribution to debates about the nature of bibliography and the critical institutions that have shaped its current practice
