Johnston,2020-09-28 At Jamestown twenty miles away the Assembly had just adjourned after a busy session A law debarring that turbulent people the Quakers from further admittance into the colony and providing cold comfort for those already within its doors was passed with acclamation as was another against Anabaptists and a third concerning the hue and cry for absconding servants and slaves The selling rates for wines and strong waters were fixed a proper penalty attached to the planting of tobacco contrary to the statute a regulation for the mending of the highways adopted a fine imposed for non attendance at church the Navigation Act formally protested against the trainbands strengthened an appropriation made for the erection of new whipping posts and pillories a cruel mistress deprived of the slave she had mistreated a harbinger of schismatics publicly reprov'd and a conciliatory message and present sent to the up river Indians when the Assembly adjourned with the consciousness of having nobly done its duty The only measure upon which there was not unanimity of opinion was one proposing the erection of school houses at convenient cross roads and the Governor's weight being thrown into the balance against it it was promptly quashed The burgesses from the fourteen counties filled the twenty houses that constituted the town to suffocation Up river planters too had come in choosing the time the Assembly was in session to attend to their interests in the city Several ships were in harbor and their captains professing themselves tired of salt water threw themselves upon the hospitality of their friends ashore The crowded population overflowed into the houses of the neighboring planters who after the manner of their kind entertained profusely giving jovial welcome and good liquor to all comers There was a constant jingling of reins along the bridle paths a constant passing of white sailed sloops upon the river as gentlemen in riding coats and jack boots or in laced coats and silk stockings fared to and fro between plantation and town In the intervals of business the worthy burgesses and their fellow planters made merry They were good times for king's men and it behooved every loyal subject to follow at a respectful distance his Majesty's example and get all possible enjoyment from a laughing world So there were horse races and cock fights and bear baitings as well as dinners and suppers at which much sack and aqua vit was drunk to king church and reigning beauties And if a quarrel sprung full armed from the heated brains of young gallants crossed rapiers did but add a piquancy a dash of cayenne to life Prisoners of Hope Mary
