Racial Conflict and Healing Andrew Sung Park, 2009-12-01 A Korean theologian approaches the issue of racial conflict including discrimination between minority communities and constructs a theology of seeing that aims to heal the ruptures of racism As ethnic tensions continue to simmer and occasionally erupt immigration and affirmative action laws are hotly debated in every ethnic minority African Americans Hispanic Americans Native Americans even Asian Americans the so called model minority struggle in the racially charged atmosphere of contemporary America In the aftermath of the Los Angeles riots of 1992 and the ensuing violence against Korean Americans Andrew Sung Park seeks a theological model that will help transform a society of oppression injustice and violence into a community of equity fairness and mutual consideration Park emphasizes that such a transformation does not and cannot begin only with good intentions but must be grounded in an understanding of all the socio economic and cultural issues that lead to oppression and tension Using the Korean term han to describe the deep seated suffering of racial oppression he then suggests resources for understanding and healing in both Christian and Asian traditions Part I of Racial Conflict and Healing describes the status quo from a Korean American perspective including discrimination against ethnic minorities and the discrimination they inflict on one another In Parts II and III Park suggests that American society as a whole needs a superordinate vision to form a unified community Park argues that our profoundly individualistic society must learn to understand an idea of self that is formed through relationship with others Finally in Part IV he presents a theological model a theology of seeing as a way to genuinely understand the other and to promote healing within our society

Sellers, 2012-09-14 Experts from a range of disciplines offer practical advice for conducting social science research in racial and ethnic minority populations. Readers will learn how to choose appropriate methods: longitudinal studies, national surveys, quantitative analysis, personal interviews, and other qualitative approaches, and how best to employ them for research on specific demographic groups. The volume opens with a brief introduction to the difficulty of defining a population and designing a research program, and then moves to illustrative examples drawn from the contributors' own studies of Blacks in the United States, the Caribbean, and South Africa. Case studies cover research on the media, mental health, churches, work, marital relationships, education, and family roles.

Race, Ethnicity, and Place in a Changing America, Third Edition John W. Frazier, Eugene L. Tettey-Fio, Norah F. Henry, 2016-12-29 Uses both historical and contemporary case studies to examine how race and ethnicity affect the places we live, work, and visit. This book examines major Hispanic, African, and Asian diasporas in the continental United States and Puerto Rico from the nineteenth century to the present, with particular attention on the diverse ways in which these immigrant groups have shaped and reshaped American places and landscapes. Through both historical and contemporary case studies, the contributors examine how race and ethnicity affect the places we live, work, and visit, illustrating along the way the behaviors and concepts that comprise the modern ethnic and racial geography of immigrant and minority groups. While primarily addressed to students and scholars in the fields of racial and ethnic geography, these case studies will be accessible to anyone interested in race-place connections, race-ethnicity boundaries, the development of racialization, and the complexity of human settlement patterns and landscapes that make up the United States and Puerto Rico. Taken together, they show how individuals and culture groups, through their ideologies, social organization, and social institutions, reflect both local and regional processes of place-making and place-remaking that occur within and beyond the continental United States.
