Reflections on Communication, Education, Scholarship, and Life Xin-An Lu, 2003-07-06 Our actions in education business and government are no longer guided by conscious ideals but by entrenched practices that are products of expediency indolence and even tyranny Inveterate and ubiquitous problems abound Students hate school Employees dislike their jobs Professors become disinclined toward teaching Boredom and procrastination are everywhere There are promotion requirements such as scholarly publications by college professors that promote nothing and benefit none except to move the person into the next nominal category along the spectrum of the organizational ladder We are plagued with senseless competitive patterns and numerical evaluations that make life a mere matter of rat race the winning of which does not uplift us into the sublimity of humanity but trammel us in the degradation of being rats Essays in this book reflect on and search for answers to widespread and inveterate problems that degenerate modern life into mere livelihood Products in sober solitude rather than in the societal cacophony most essays in the book were written during the author's doctoral studies The Bloomsbury Handbook of the Cultural and Cognitive Aesthetics of Religion Anne Koch, Katharina Wilkens, 2019-09-05 Bridging the gap between cognition and culture this handbook explores both social scientific and humanities approaches to understanding the physical processes of religious life tradition practice and belief It reflects the cultural turn within the study of religion and puts theory to the fore moving beyond traditional theological philosophical and ethnographic understandings of the aesthetics of religion Editors Anne Koch and Katharina Wilkens bring together research in cultural studies cognitive studies material religion religion and the arts and epistemology Questions of identity gender ethnicity and postcolonialism are discussed throughout Key topics include materiality embodiment performance popular vernacular art and space to move beyond a sensory understanding of aesthetics Emerging areas of research are covered including secular aesthetics and the aesthetic of spirits This is an important contribution to theory and method in the study of religion and is grounded in research that has been taking place in Europe over the past 20 years Case studies are drawn from around the world with contributions from scholars based in Europe the USA and Australia The book is illustrated with over 40 color images and features a foreword from Birgit Meyer A Primer for the Clinician Educator Larrie Greenberg, 2022-07-20 This concise introductory primer has been written specifically for clinician educators CEs particularly those new to the role and those working to further develop their experience and knowledge Drawing on his dual roles as a pediatrician and medical educationalist the author uses story telling and personal experience alongside practical tips and tricks to support the reader in their teaching patient care and educational scholarship helping both junior faculty and more senior educators to avoid pitfalls in all segments of their careers Handbook of Research on Educational Communications and Technology David H. Jonassen, 2004 This edition of this handbook updates and expands its review of the research theory issues and methodology that constitute the field of educational communications and technology Organized into seven sectors it profiles and integrates the following elements of this rapidly changing field      Handbook of Research for Educational Communications and Technology David Jonassen, Marcy Driscoll, 2003-12-08 First Published in 2008 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company      Reflecting on the Inevitable Peter J. Adams, 2020-03-09 Death studies have over the last twenty years witnessed a flourishing of research and scholarship particularly in areas such as dying and bereavement cultural practices and fear of dying But despite its importance a specific focus on the nature of personal mortality has attracted surprisingly little attention Reflecting on the Inevitable combines evidence from several disciplinary fields to explore the varying ways each of us engages with the prospect of personal mortality Chapters are organized around the question of how an ongoing relationship might be possible when the threat of consciousness coming to an end points to an unspeakable nothingness The book then argues that despite this threat an ongoing relationship with one's own death is still possible by means of conceptual devices or enabling frames that help shape personal mortality into a relatable object In each chapter the subtleties and applicability of key ideas are enhanced through a series of illustrative narratives built up around the lives of four people at different ages living in two adjacent houses Reflecting on the Inevitable is relevant not only to academics of death studies but also those training and practicing in people helping professions as well as anyone experiencing or attempting to make sense of major life events      Phronesis as Professional Knowledge Elizabeth Anne Kinsella, Allan Pitman, 2012-07-30 Phronesis is the Aristotelian notion of practical wisdom In this collected series phronesis is explored as an alternate way of considering professional knowledge In the present context dominated by technical rationalities and instrumentalist approaches a re-examination of the concept of phronesis offers a fundamental re-visioning of the educational aims in professional schools and continuing professional education programs This book originated from a conversation amongst an interdisciplinary group of scholars from education health philosophy and sociology who share concerns that something of fundamental importance of moral significance is missing from the vision of what it means to be a professional The contributors consider the ways in which phronesis offers a generative possibility for reconsidering the professional knowledge of practitioners The question at the centre of this inquiry is If we take phronesis seriously as an organising framework for professional knowledge what are the implications for professional education and practice A multiplicity of understandings emerge as to what is meant by phronesis and how it might be reinterpreted understood applied and extended in a world radically different to that of the progenitor of the term Aristotle For those concerned with professional life this is a conversation not to be missed      Reflections on Criticality in Educational Philosophy Marc James Deegan, 2024-05-10 This book navigates global educational policy concerning critical thinking skills and competencies The author explores the concept of criticality from the perspectives of several critical traditions and draws on the works of Paulo Freire and Ludwig Wittgenstein The diverse and intricate ideas methods and ways of thinking that emerge are examined in the new perspectival space of criticality scholarship Pursuing his own political and philosophical aspirations the author endeavours to link a critical education with the promotion of democracy and social justice Opportunities for further empirical and theoretical research are signposted The book will be of interest to scholars in educational philosophy      Teacher Reflections on Transitioning From K-12 to Higher Education Classrooms Broemmel, Amy D., Vines, Nora, 2022-04-15 Education is a field in which reflective practice is imperative for teacher and student success and for maintaining the desire to remain in the profession During times of uncertainty particularly as teachers faced the dual pandemics of social injustice and the COVID 19 pandemic over the past year they have felt demoralized and powerless As a result burnout among educators is becoming increasingly prevalent It is crucial for teachers to hear reflections of others experiences to remind them that they are not alone in their work provide opportunities for them to find connections with fellow educators and encourage them to engage in reflective practices of their own Teacher Reflections on Transitioning From K 12 to Higher Education Classrooms provides a collection of reflections from educators on their varied experiences within education and how and why they have pursued a place in academia This book speaks to the humanistic side of academia by acknowledging the multiple passions professions and pathways that led each of the authors to academia It is unique in that it is laced with the lived realities of the human side of academia from a shared stories perspective Covering topics such as lifelong learners and identity shifts this major reference work is ideal for academicians researchers scholars practitioners principals administrators educators and students

method of research that involves describing and analyzing personal experiences in order to understand cultural experiences. The method challenges canonical ways of doing research and recognizes how personal experience influences the research process. Autoethnography acknowledges and accommodates subjectivity, emotionality, and the researcher's influence on research. In this book, the authors provide a historical and conceptual overview of autoethnography. They share their stories of coming to autoethnography and identify key concerns and considerations that led to the development of the method. Next, they outline the purposes and practices, the core ideals of autoethnography, how autoethnographers can accomplish these ideals, and why researchers might choose to do autoethnography. They describe the processes of doing autoethnography, conducting fieldwork, discussing ethics in research, and interpreting and analyzing personal experience, and they explore the various modes and techniques used and involved in writing autoethnography. They conclude with goals for creating and assessing autoethnography and describe the future of autoethnographic inquiry. Throughout, the authors provide numerous examples of their work and share key resources. This book will serve as both a guide to the practices of doing autoethnography and an exemplar of autoethnographic research processes and representations.

Remediation in Medical Education Adina Kalet, Calvin L. Chou, 2023-08-22. On a daily basis, health professions educators struggle to find effective and respectful ways of working with trainees who struggle to meet standards, most of whom will become practicing clinicians. Society allows and expects the health professions to regulate ourselves, and we must do so. The first edition of this book concentrated on medical student learners, mainly in the United States. Since then, the literature has exploded, offering a wider range of remediation practices for all levels of learners in all health professions throughout the world. This new edition continues to offer evidence-based, theory-informed, and pragmatic approaches to identifying and remediating trainees who cannot yet perform to standards. Illustrative case studies frame practical and programmatic advice from experienced front-line educators. All original chapters have been updated, and there are 21 brand-new chapters. Of the 73 chapters, 52 are new to this edition, broadening the book's relevance internationally and across the health professions. This book is required reading for all those committed to ensuring health professionals are ready and able to serve the health of the public.
