British Silent Cinema and the Great War M. Hammond, M. Williams, 2011-10-04 This innovative book presents for the first time detailed histories of the impact of the Great War on British cinema in the silent period from actual war footage to fiction filmmaking In doing so it explores how cinema helped to shape the public memory of the war during the 1920s

The Great War in Popular British Cinema of the 1920s L. Napper, 2015-04-20 This book discusses British cinema's representation of the Great War during the 1920s It argues that popular cinematic representations of the war offered surviving audiences a language through which to interpret their recent experience and traces the ways in which those interpretations changed during the decade British Film Jim Leach, 2004-08-30 This book explores British cinema in relation to its social political and cultural contexts Each chapter deals with a specific topic and includes close readings of key films from different historical periods Demonstrating the richness and variety of a national cinema that has traditionally struggled to define itself between the paradigms of Hollywood popular film and European art cinema British Film provides comprehensive coverage of British cinema and detailed discussion of specific films that can be used in tandem with screenings Transnational Trailblazers of Early Cinema Prof. Victoria Duckett, 2023-04-25 A free ebook version of this title is available through Luminos University of California Press's Open Access publishing program Visit www.luminosoa.org to learn more At the forefront of the entertainment industries of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries were singular actors Sarah Bernhardt Gabrielle R. Jane and Mistinguett Talented and formidable women with global ambitions these performers forged connections with audiences across the world while pioneering the use of film and theatrics to gain international renown Transnational Trailblazers of Early Cinema traces how these women emerged from the Parisian periphery to become world famous stars Building upon extensive archival research in France England and the United States Victoria Duckett argues that through intrepid business prowess and the use of early multimedia to cultivate their celebrity image these three artists strengthened ties between countries continents and cultures during pivotal years of change

Directors in British and Irish Cinema Robert Murphy,2019-07-25 A guide to directors who have worked in the British and Irish film industries between 1895 and 2005 Each of its 980 entries on individuals directors gives a resume of the director s career evaluates their achievements and provides a complete filmography It is useful for those interested in film making in Britain and Ireland

Destination London Tim Bergfelder,Christian Cargnelli,2008-08-01 The legacy of emigr s in the British film industry from the silent film era until after the Second World War has been largely neglected in the scholarly literature Destination London is the first book to redress this imbalance Focusing on areas such as exile genre technological transfer professional training and education cross cultural exchange and representation it begins by mapping the reasons for this neglect before examining the contributions made to British cinema by emigr directors actors screenwriters cinematographers set designers and composers It goes on to assess the cultural and economic contexts of transnational industry collaborations in the 1920s artistic cosmopolitanism in the 1930s and anti Nazi propaganda in the 1940s

Early British Animation Malcolm Cook,2018-05-04 This book is the first history of British animated cartoons from the earliest period of cinema in the 1890s up to the late 1920s In this period cartoonists and performers from earlier traditions of print and stage entertainment came to film to expand their artistic practice bringing with them a range of techniques and ideas that shaped the development of British animation These were commercial rather than avant garde artists but they nevertheless saw the new medium of cinema as offering the potential to engage with modern concerns of the early 20th century be it the political and human turmoil of the First World War or new freedoms of the 1920s Cook s examination and reassessment of these films and their histories reveals their close attention and play with the way audiences saw the world As such this book offers new insight into the changing understanding of vision at that time as Britain s place in the world was reshaped in the early 20th century

Picturing home Hollie Price,2021-02-09 Picturing home examines the depiction of domestic life in British feature films made and released in the 1940s It explores how pictorial representations of home onscreen in this period re imagined modes of address that had been used during the interwar years to promote ideas about domestic modernity Picturing home provides a close analysis of domestic life as constructed in eight films contextualising them in relation to a broader offscreen culture surrounding the suburban home including magazines advertisements furniture catalogues and displays at the Daily Mail Ideal Home Exhibition In doing so it offers a new reading of British 1940s films which demonstrates how they trod a delicate path balancing prewar and postwar traditional and modern private and public concerns

The Art of Adapting Victorian Literature, 1848-1920 Dr Karen Laird,2015-08-28 In The Art of Adapting Victorian Literature 1848 1920 Karen E Laird alternates between readings of nineteenth century stage and twentieth century silent film adaptations to investigate the working practices of the first adapters of Victorian fiction Laird s juxtaposition between stage and screen brings to life the dynamic culture of literary adaptation as it developed throughout the long nineteenth century Focusing on Charlotte Brontë's Jane Eyre, Charles Dickens's David Copperfield and Wilkie Collins's The Woman in White, Laird demonstrates how adaptations performed the valuable cultural work of expanding the original novel's readership across class and gender divides, exporting the English novel to America and commemorating the novelists through adaptations that functioned as virtual literary tourism. Bridging the divide between literary criticism, film studies and theatre history, Laird's book reveals how the Victorian adapters set the stage for our contemporary film adaptation industry.

Intercultural Screen Adaptation Michael Stewart, 2020-03-27 Intercultural Screen Adaptation offers a wide-ranging examination of how film and television adaptations and non-adaptations interact with the cultural, social and political environments of their national, transnational and post-national contexts. With screen adaptations examined from across Britain, Europe, South America and Asia, this book tests how examining the processes of adaptation across and within national frameworks challenges traditional debates around the concept of nation in film, media and cultural studies. With case studies of films such as Under the Skin (2013) and T2 Trainspotting (2017), as well as TV adaptations like War and Peace (2016) and Narcos (2015, 2017), Intercultural Screen Adaptation offers readers an invigorating look at adaptations from a variety of critical perspectives, incorporating the uses of landscape, nostalgia and translation. From silent screen to multi-screen Stuart Hanson, 2019-01-04 Detailed and comprehensive, this book is the first survey of cinema exhibition in Britain from its inception until the present. Charting the development of cinema exhibition and cinema-going in Britain from the first public film screening by the Lumière Brothers at London's Regent Street Polytechnic in February 1896 through to the development of the multiplex and giant megaplex cinemas, the history of cinema exhibition is placed in its wider social, cultural and economic contexts. Adopting a chronological structure, this book takes into account how changes in the structure of the film industry, especially regarding the exhibition sector, impacted upon the cinema-going experience. From silent screen to multi-screen will be valuable for social historians as well as scholars and students in film studies, media studies and cultural history.

Americanizing Britain Genevieve Abravanel, 2012-04-06 How did Great Britain, which entered the twentieth century as a dominant empire, reinvent itself in reaction to its fears and fantasies about the United States? Investigating the anxieties caused by the invasion of American culture—from jazz to Ford motorcars to Hollywood films during the first half of the twentieth century—Genevieve Abravanel theorizes the rise of the American Entertainment Empire as a new style of imperialism that threatened Britain's own. In the early twentieth century, the United States excited a range of utopian and dystopian energies in Britain. Authors who might ordinarily seem to have little in common—H. G. Wells, Aldous Huxley and Virginia Woolf—began to imagine Britain's future through America. Abravanel explores how these novelists fashioned transatlantic fictions as a response to the encroaching presence of Uncle Sam. She then turns her attention to the arrival of jazz after World War I, showing how a range of writers from Elizabeth Bowen to W. H. Auden deployed the new music as a metaphor for the modernization of England. The global phenomenon of Hollywood film proved even more menacing than the jazz craze prompting nostalgia for English folk culture and a lament for Britain's literary heritage Abravanel then refracts British debates about America through the writing of two key cultural critics F R Leavis and T S Eliot In so doing she demonstrates the interdependencies of some of the most cherished categories of literary study language nation and artistic value by situating the high low debates within a transatlantic framework
