Remaining And Becoming Cultural Crosscurrents In An Hispano School:

Remaining and Becoming Shelley Roberts, 2000-12-01 Remaining and Becoming Cultural Crosscurrents in an Hispano School deals with the politics of identity and the concept of boundaries during a time of rapid change. It investigates how the role of schooling for Hispanos in the Norte o School District a pseudonym in Northern New Mexico a public school district not fully consolidated until 1972 has changed significantly over the past three generations. Today the Hispanos a minority in the outside world but a majority in their own are debating how the functions of the school should respond to the changes resulting from the coming of public education to their region. But the contemporary story of education in Norte o has much deeper roots in the political religious and cultural history of Northern New Mexico a region where over a period of several centuries Spain Mexico and the United States each have claimed sovereignty with differing goals for and attitudes about the welfare of the people. This study is an analysis of the ambiguity of education the losses and gains that are its consequences the lingering doubts about the past and the questions about what future education can and should serve. It is about asking: Is what the students are learning worth as much as what they are forgetting? How does schooling affect the evolving process of asserting renegotiating and defending an Hispano identity? By exploring historical factors and ideologies of a particular school within a particular community Roberts seeks to understand community expectations for the school as a fitting place for its children. The goal is not to generalize from the particular to the universal but to join others in suggesting that we move away from discussing students in a generic sense and focus instead on looking at them in relation to the community in which they live. The fascinating and largely unknown story this book tells will be of interest to educators researchers and students across a range of fields including sociology of education educational anthropology multicultural education ethnic studies Chicano studies and qualitative research in education. Remaining and Becoming Shelley Roberts, 2000-12

How Educational Ideologies Are Shaping Global Society Joel Spring, 2014-04-08 In this book Joel Spring explores three major international educational ideologies that are shaping global society neo liberal educational ideology human rights education and environmentalism Neo liberal ideology reflects a rethinking of nationalist forms of education as the nation state slowly erodes under the power of a growing global civil society Traditional nationalist education attempts to mold loyal and patriotic citizens who are emotionally attached to symbols of the state whereas the goal of neo liberal educational ideology is to change nationalist education to serve the needs of the global economy These changes are fueling a clash between the ideas of free market and consumer based neo liberals and those of human rights and environmental educators Human rights education is concerned with creating activist global citizens It is rooted in the idea that inherent in human rights doctrines is a collective responsibility to ensure the rights of all people Environmentalism is the most radical of the ideologies because it rejects the industrial and consumerist paradigm that has dominated most economic thought including capitalism and communism Spring synthesizes and analyzes the effect of these educational ideologies on shaping the future of the global society In the concluding section he compares the effect of these ideologies on global society with the possibility of a world divided between conflicting civilizations
